Historic Rights Bill Wins Final Approval

SIDNEY CELEBRATED DOMINION DAY with a big parade, the only major observance of the holiday to be held in Greater Victoria area. Three-year-old Charlayne Joe, 1921 Quadra, strutted the entire mile-long parade route with the Majorettes of the Victoria Chinatown Lions' Drum and Bell Corps and loved it. She was awarded a special prize as Best Individual in the parade. (See Page 40 for more parade coverage.) (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

ARMED FORCES CURB COLLEGE FREE LOADERS

OTTAWA (CP) — Associate Defence Minister Cardin confirmed today that officer cadets whose university education is paid for by the defence department will be obliged to serve four years in the armed forces.

The obligatory period now is three years. The four-year term will become effective Sept. 1, Mr. Cardin told the Commons defence committee, and does not apply to applicants for the fall term.

Elgin Armstrong, deputy defence minister, said 2,396 officer cadets have graduated from university since 1952 and that 786 have remained in the forces beyond the compulsory three years.

Pension Action In Fall

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson will push ahead with the Canada pension plan in September, government sources said today.

Present plan of the government is to work out the final details in consultation with the provinces this summer, and have the new bill printed and ready for distribution in the House as soon as the MPs reassemble in the fall.

The assumption is of course that there will be a summer recess of parliament. The government does not expect that the Conservative opposition will insist that a summer recess take precedence over the approval of a new flag.

However, the government is equally confident that the members of parliament, after two more weeks of debate on the flag will be ready to pass the motion adopting the new maple leaf flag. This would mean a summer recess starting early in August.

WAITING

Meantime, the government is waiting for Westminster to pass the constitutional amendment under which the proposed pension legislation can be widened to include provision for survivors' benefits. That is expected to be passed by the British House before the end of July.

The federal government will, in the next two or three weeks, carry on close consultations with the provinces.

A new white paper setting out details of the altered pension plan will be produced by next week. After the provinces have studied the white paper they will be in a position to confer with the federal officials.

Technical details remain to be worked out. But there is a spirit of co-operation among the provinces that indicates fairly rapid progress can be made.

PROTESTS

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) protested in the House Tuesday night that the pension plan was not included in the list the prime minister gave the House as urgent business to be dealt with before a summer recess. He said he regarded the delay as ominous.

However sources close to the prime minister said today that pending approval by Westminister of the constitutional amendment the Canadian government could not proceed with the pension legislation in the Canadian House.

There is a lot of work remain-

B.C. PETITION FOR ENSIGN REJECTED

OTTAWA (CP)—A 75-foot-long petition from more than 18,000 British Columbians seeking retention of the Red Ensign as Canada's flag was rejected today by Commons Speaker Alan Macnaughton.

The speaker ruled that the petition couldn't be received because: It wasn't addressed to Parliament; it wasn't in the proper form; it contained no prayer; it was not endorsed by an MP; it had no date on it.

H. W. Herridge (NDP—said he will bring in an amended petition.

TEACHERS FINED

Two Girls Spanked For Necking

TRURO, England (Reuters) A grammer school headmaster and a woman teacher were fined in court here today for spanking two 18-year-old girl pupils on their bare buttocks with a hair brush.

The girls had been caught "necking" with two boys in the mixed school.

The headmaster, 60-year-old John Lindsay Guise, was fined £50 and the teacher Mrs. Marjoe Smith, £30.

Both had pleaded guilty to a charge of assaulting the two girls behind the barred door of a study.

The court was told the headmaster had made a statement saying they had had a number of cases of girls becoming pregnant and he felt it his duty to do everything in his power to prevent promiscuous behavior.

U.S. President Signs Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress finally completed action on the U.S. civil rights bill as the House of Representatives passed the historic measure and sent it to the White House to be signed into law.

The house vote was 289 to 126.

House approval of the Senate-passed bill brought to an end a year-long legislative struggle conducted against a background of rising racial tensions.

President Johnson is expected to sign the bill tonight in hopes its bars against discrimination will help ease the pressure of civil rights demonstrations and counter-measures taken to oppose them.

QUICK TEST

Negro leaders have promised a quick test of some of the bill's provisions and some southern members of Congress have predicted the first results of its passage will be increased violence, not a lessening of it.

For more than a year the bill was the subject of intensive negotiating in both the House and Senate before it finally emerged as a compromise package supported by Democratic and Republican leaders in Congress.

The bill wraps into one big bundle a number of measures designed to help Negroes achieve equality in nearly all phases of national life into which the federal government can reach.

BARS DISCRIMINATION

It bars discrimination in employment practices — by both unions and employers — and in hotels, motels, restaurants, movies, and other places serving the public. It arms the government with powers to cut off federal funds for programs in which discrimination occurs.

It also grants new powers to the attorney-general to speed desegregation of public schools and other public facilities, such as parks, playgrounds and libraries.

It tightens provisions contained in the first civil rights law passed this century—in 1957 — aimed at protecting Negro voting rights.

It also creates a community relations service designed to provide machinery for voluntary settlement of racial disputes through mediation and conciliation.

And it extends for four years the life of the civil rights commission, with added powers.

All but one of the provisions —that dealing with discrimination in employment—take effect as soon as the bill is signed by the president. But many others have built-in delays intended to give state and local authorities a chance to settle complaints arising under the new law.

PROPOSAL for a Laotian summit conference in Jakarta, Indonesia, or Phnom Penh, Cambodia, was rejected today by the Laotian cabinet headed by Premier Souvanna Phouma, diplomatic sources report. Proposal was made by Pathet Lao. Souvanna wants meeting in New Delhi, Rangoon or Zurich.

Sea Limit Passes Committee

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons fisheries committee today approved the government's legislation to extend Canada's offshore fishing limit to 12 miles from three.

The bill now requires third reading in the Commons and royal assent to become law. External Affairs Minister Martin has indicated the government plans to proclaim the bill "within a week or so" after it receives royal assent.

The committee rejected a motion by Tom Barnett (NDP—Comox - Alberni) which would have had the committee recommend that the proposed bill be divided into two parts.

Mr. Barnett's motion would have had the committee approve in principle a 12-mile territorial sea, as determined by baselines 12 miles outside the inner limits of the present territorial sea, but recommend that the Commons not decide on the actual geographical co-ordinates which determine baselines before consulting with nations which claim historic fishing rights.

"The law which in effect establishes the official boundaries of our country should be set out in a separate act of Parliament," Mr. Barnett said.

'WOULD KILL BILL'

Ron Basford (L — Vancouver Burrard) said Mr. Barnett's motion would kill the bill.

"The sooner we can pass a bill of this sort, the quicker we can protect our fishing rights on the east and west coasts," he said.

Mr. Barnett's motion also called for the government to set a time limit not exceeding five years, after which nations claiming historic fishing rights would have such rights terminated.

Bary Mather (NDP — New Westminster) said the present bill would allow forever fishing rights of certain other nationals. This would be worse than no 12-mile zone at all.

The motion was supported only by the three NDP members present.

Russia Scores Nuclear Force

GENEVA (AP)—Russia told the United States today it must renounce the projected NATO multilateral nuclear force or face a breakdown of attempts to stop the spread of nuclear weapons.

Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin of Russia told the 17-nation disarmament conference: "The time of choice has come for the Western powers — the NATO members. If you really want a solution to the problem—and life imperatively demands its speediest solution—you must renounce the plan for the creation of the NATO multilateral nuclear force."

Zorin accused the United States of devising the nuclear-armed NATO surface fleet, manned by crews of mixed nationalities, as "a means of quenching the nuclear thirst of West German revenge seekers" who would be given the means "to pull the trigger of the U.S. strategic nuclear force."

Chief U.S. delegate William Foster said a spread of nuclear weapons in the world was the only alternative to the seaborne nuclear force.

Foster blamed the Soviet Union for using "groundless political arguments against the nuclear force in the pursuit of its longstanding aim to disrupt defensive arrangements of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

Foster told the meeting that the force of ships armed with nuclear weapons is being devised "to enable members of NATO to cope with a range of threats."

DEFENCE NEEDED

"We believe that so long as hundreds of Soviet nuclear-tipped rockets are arrayed against Europe, effective European participation in strategic deterrence should be provided.

"The arrangements contemplated for the multilateral force would not increase the number of independent nuclear weapon capabilities and are thus consistent with our objective of preventing the spread of such capabilities."

"Indeed, by offering an alternative to national nuclear weapons programs, the MFL (nuclear force) should increase incentives and improve chances for limitation of national weapons-producing centres."

The American delegate warned that with the development of nuclear technology the manufacture of nuclear weapons by countries not now possessing them was likely to become substantially easier.

Racialist Union Gets Decertified

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board found a union guilty of racial discrimination today and stripped it of its certification.

In a broad opinion with possible national impact, the majority decision said whenever a union causes discrimination based on race it has committed an unfair labor practice.

The action—the first of its kind by the NLRB—was against the independent Metal Workers Union which maintained seperate locals for white and Negro members at Hughes Tool Company in Houston, Tex.

The case involved the complaint of a member of the Negro local whose application for an apprenticeship available only to white members was rejected by the union.

The five - member board's decision to revoke certification on grounds of illegal coercion was unanimous, although two members gave more limited reasons for their finding.

GIVE MINORITY VIEW

The minority said Congress never intended the National Labor Relations Act to deal with racial discrimination except

DAMASCUS (AP) — Gun battles erupted across the Syrian-Israeli border today for the first time since Israel began test tapping of Jordan River waters.

Lightning Kills 5 In U.S. East

NEW YORK (AP)—Lightning struck two groups of people who had sought shelter from thunderstorms Wednesday in Rosendale, N.Y., and Corry, Pa., killing two in each group.

Eleven boys who had been swimming in a creek in Rosendale ran to a large tree and were dressing when the lightning struck.

Ronald Morelli, 16, and Gary Schmidt, 11, were killed. Three other boys were injured.

Near Corry, nine farm workers were standing in the doorway of a barn when lightning struck three of them.

Clayton Scouten, about 35, and Glenn Caldwell, 13, were killed.

In Lynn, Mass., Robert Brown, 30, of Lynn, was killed when struck by a bolt of lightning.

Ceylonese Take Over British Plantations

COLOMBO (AP) — Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike's government outlined to parliament today a socialist program to take over trade and give workers a voice in running Ceylon's British-owned tea and rubber plantations and other state enterprises.

Governor - General William Gopallawa read the throne speech written by the government. The speech said the coalition combining Mrs. Bandaranaike's freedom party and Marxist Sama Samaj (socialist equality) party charted the plan to associate the people with running the government.

The program, which recently won Sama Samaj support for Mrs. Bandaranaike's shaky regime, will set up workers' advisory committees in all public institutions including state corporations.

The committees will be elected by secret ballot and will advise the government on elimination of waste, in efficiency and corruption, the speech said.

Vigilance committees also will set up in all government, local government and semi-government institutions. People's committees will be established in all areas with powers to investigate corrupt trading practices.

"The planned program of socialist development in which every sector of the working people will be associated will be implemented speedily," the speech said.

TIMES' BIG CONTEST

First Photo Winners Four Days Off

By TERRY IZZARD

Only four days to go before the judges choose the first week's winners in the Victoria Times amateur snapshot contest.

Tuesday is the day when the winners will be announced. A prize-winning snap will be in the paper each day, Wednesday to Saturday.

So far there has been a very good entry and standards are pretty high. So don't be too put out if none of your entries turn up a winner.

For this is only the first week and there are still five to go before the competition ends.

If you're unlucky first time try again. That way you could win a grand national prize of $1,000, or any of the sums making up the total prize money of $32,000.

As in previous years there is one section of the contest which is attracting the fewest entries—activities and sports.

Check your photo album. Look for those interesting pictures of school sports day. Or of some member of the family hard at work.

As long as the snap was taken after July 1 last year it could be a winner.

Leisure time activities are always interesting, providing you do not let the pictures themselves get too leisurely.

Try to inject some life into them.

Take your camera with you the next time you go bowling. Alleys are always well lighted and with a fast film in your camera you should have no trouble getting some candid snapshots of other members of your team.

And if you are an angler, a camera belongs among your fishing gear.

Salmon jumping, or a friend making a cast, even a frustrated attempt to start an outboard — all provide excellent subjects for catching on film.

So, regardless of whether your hobby is bird watching or bowling, always keep your camera handy.

All entries to be sent to the Snapshot Editor, Victoria Daily Times, Douglas Street.

16-YEAR-OLD FILES FOR OFFICE

Boy Puts Politicians in Dither

BOSTON (AP)—A 16-year-old boy's candidacy for the Massachusetts House of Representatives hinged today on the fate of a bill setting a minimum age of 21 for holding a seat in the legislature.

With the legislature in the final hours of its 1964 session there remained some doubt about what the leadership would do with the issue.

The problem arose when Leonard Tagg, a Weymouth High School student, discovered in the course of a history project that there is no apparent age qualification for holding a seat in the legislature.

Tagg circulated petitions and obtained more than enough signatures to place his name on the ballot for the November election as an independent candidate for a House seat from his home district.

When Tagg's candidacy came to the attention of State Secretary Kevin H. White, he proposed in a late-filed bill to set a minimum age.

But such a measure requires a four-fifths vote to be admitted for consideration.

The bill now is in the house rules committee with the legislative leadership still undecided as to whether to act on it on the last day of the session or let White challenge the legality of Tagg's candidacy in the courts.

LONDON—"I could go on eating this fruit forever," boasted Police Constable Clive Bean as he peeled a banana and ate it.

The scene was a police station canteen in Stoke Newington, a London borough.

"How many can you eat?" asked Constable James Blaney.

"As many as you can buy," replied Bean.

"Let's make him prove it," chimed in Constable Robert Shutt.

Shutt and Blaney then bought a 10-pound stack of bananas.

At an average speed of one banana a minute, Bean downed the pile—40 bananas—in 40 minutes.

He stretched, yawned and asked for a two-pound steak.

Bean, 24, weighs 252 pounds.

Asked how he liked the steak, he replied:

"Fine, but the first 1½ pounds tasted just like bananas."

LONDON—Brian Cole says he has had 381 replies from 1,282 marriage proposals he cast into the North Sea in bottles.

He reported that he hopes soon to marry Inga-Britt Granberg, a 21-year-old blonde store clerk in Vaxholm, Sweden.

Cole, a 33-year-old farmer's son from the Lincolnshire village of Pinchbeck West, conceived the idea of using the sea to find a marital partner about a year ago.

The population of Pinchbeck West is only 1,600 and boys outnumber girls about six to one.

Cole started throwing bottles in the sea appealing for a bride.

The North Sea currents being what they are, most of the bottles washed up in Scandinavia. Swedish newspapers carried a story about Cole's appeals and letters from interested Swedish girls poured into Pinchbeck West.

Cole reduced the list of probables to five, went to Sweden and spent 11 days looking them over.

"I think Inga-Britt could be my Mrs. Right," he said. "I spent four very pleasant days staying at her home."

LONDON—Word filtered out from royal family circles today that Prince Charles, 15-year-old heir to the throne, apparently has resigned from the beatle-haircut club.

Recently the British safety council "awarded" Charles a golden hair net when it grouped him with some other of the country's teen-agers in criticizing their long hair cuts.

But today a palace informant said, "the hair net came too late. Charles has had his hair cut shorter, especially in the back and around the ears, for summer coolness."

His mother may have something to do with the clipping. She is said to have once told him, "You look like a Shetland pony."

Well at Least It Didn't Snow in June

It seems weather conditions can do nothing but improve this month after looking at the miserable weather dealt Victorians in June.

Things began to look up with a high Wednesday of 67 despite a light cloud cover.

Weatherman William Mackie said we can expect some clouds with sunshine for the next couple of days as a series of small weather systems pass over.

Temperatures will range between 50 and 68 degrees and winds will come from the southwest at 15 to 20 mph.

DID'NT SNOW

As for June, the only two good things that can be said about the month is it didn't snow and winds averaged one-tenth mph lower than usual.

It was the fourth worst June on record for sunshine with a total of 199.5 hours—77 hours and 18 minutes below normal.

It was also cool and wet.

COOL THOUGH

The mean temperature of 55.8 degrees was 1.5 degrees below normal. Temperatures ranged from a low of 47.3 June 25 to a high of 74.4 June 9.

There were 12 days of measurable rainfall, which is five more than usual. Total rainfall of 1.09 inches was an increase of .03 over the average.

The totals left the city with some catching up to do. The year's sunshine total of 968 hours is 107 hours below normal and rainfall is .09 above average at 13.11 inches.

Gyro Auction Tonight At Hole-in-One Show

Special attraction tonight at the annual Gyro hole-in-one contest will be an odds-and-ends auction.

The auction, to be held at Mattick's Farm from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m., offers a used car, fridges, televisions, and hi-fi record players, pots, pans, rugs and clothing.

Everything up for auction has been given by Gyro members. Money raised from the event will go to Gyro charities.

Auctioning the goods will be professional auctioneer Frank Kilshaw.

On Wednesday, first day of the four-day event, there were no contenders for the $50 prize for a hole-in-one.

However, $30 was handed out to three people with shots nearest to the cup.

In addition to the 75-yard golf course, there is a small midway with games and contests.

A special attraction for kiddies is a new merry-go-round which has been installed at the farm this week. It will remain there permanently.

The carnival will be held 7 to 10 p.m. tonight and Friday and 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday.

Jaycees Mark July 1 By Dropping Quebec

KELOWNA (CP) — The Canadian Junior Chamber of Commerce celebrated Canada's 97th birthday by splitting away from the Quebec wing of the organization.

The Jaycees at their convention here Wednesday approved a motion by Bob Rehn of Burlington, Ont., to allow the disaffiliation from the national body of Le Federation des Jeunes Chambres de la Province de Quebec.

But delegates said they would do everything possible to maintain the national chamber's status as the only existing Canadian national organization within the international junior chamber of commerce.

The Jaycees were upheld in their stand by Conrad O'Brien of Trinidad, international president, who told them the international executive will not recommend recognition by the world group of the Quebec movement.

He said in a letter that the Jaycees movement in Canada can be adequately served by the national group.

The world congress has already defeated a motion to divide Canada's international voting strength between the two groups, and the Jaycees international organization said it would not interfere in the internal affairs of member countries.

Relations between the Canadian national group and Le Federation have been deteriorating for several years, leading up to the break.

Cholera Toll Climbs

KUALA LUMPUR (AP)—The government organized a medical flying squad today and ordered 500,000 extra doses of vaccine as the death toll mounted in a cholera epidemic sweeping east coast states of Malaya.

Press reports reaching here put the death toll at 66.

The extra vaccine was ordered on a rush basis from Nationalist China.

Official figures said as of Wednesday there were at least 147 confirmed cholera cases in hospitals, with 537 possible cases under observation.

when based on union membership, as in this case.

The majority opinion was by members Boyd Leedom, Gerald A. Brown and Howard Jenkins Jr. Chairman Frank W. McCulloch and member John H. Fanning wrote the minority view.

The majority said the union's refusal to process the grievance of the Negro member, Ivory Davis, because of his race amounted to refusal to bargain collectively with the employer.

The majority said it also violated the provision of the act forbidding a union to cause or attempt to cause an employer to discriminate against an employee.

The board said the white local and the company signed a new contract agreement in 1961 but the Negro local refused to sign.

ACCEPTED NEW CONTRACT

"In spite of this, and over (Negro) Local 2's protest, the company put the new contract into effect immediately," the board said.

At the same time, the white local and the company agreed to enlarge the number of apprenticeships in the plant, restricted to white employees, the board said.

The white local refused to accept the application of Davis for one of the apprenticeships.

The board majority based its finding on the racial division of the bargaining unit and a contract with the employer under which there was a job segregation and greater employment opportunities for members of the white local.

The revocation of the union's official certification means that another union may petition for certification at the plant.

LODGE, RUSK AGREE

All-Out S.E. Asia War Not Inevitable

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Former U.S. ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge says the United Nations and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization have shown signs of being unable to thwart the Communists in South Viet Nam.

But in separate press conferences Wednesday, Lodge and State Secretary Dean Rusk emphasized there is no reason to despair over the South Vietnamese situation. Both agreed there is a possibility of preserving the integrity of South Viet Nam without engulfing all Southeast Asia in war.

Both also emphasized the importance of placing a large United Nations force on the Cambodian border to prevent the Communist Viet Cong from using border points in their attacks on the South Vietnamese.

Lodge noted that the UN intends to send a three-man diplomatic mission to inspect the border situation. But three diplomats do not constitute an effective control commission, he said. About 1,200 troops may be needed.

As for SEATO, this institution has become powerless to act because of French opposition to U.S. policies in Saigon. Lodge suggested that while he could not discuss secret strategy, there are a variety of effective measures the U.S. still has up its sleeve "short of war."

Lodge, who returned from Saigon to assist Pennsylvania Governor William Scranton in the stop - Goldwater movement, described as "very significant" reports he received that for the first time some rural residents of South Viet Nam are refusing to feed the Viet Cong despite continuing threats of death and injury.

The tone of the Lodge-Rusk statements seemed to indicate an administration attempt to play down the South Vietnamese situation which Senator Barry Goldwater has threatened to turn into a full presidential campaign issue this fall.

Scranton Tries Vote Short-Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Far behind in time and delegates, Governor William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania is trying a shortcut in hopes of keeping Senator Barry Goldwater from running away with the Republican presidential nomination on the first ballot.

The governor's strategy, according to sources close to him, is to concentrate on capturing 80 delegates—most of them in 14 states — who now are for Goldwater, leaning to him or uncommitted.

If the Pennsylvania governor is successful, say the Scranton sources, Goldwater would be unable to win the nomination on the first ballot and Scranton thereafter would pick up strength and win on a later roll-call.

These 80 votes were described as being among 344 delegates in 12 states but the greatest proportion are in Colorado, Florida, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Maryland, North Carolina, New Jersey, North Dakota, Tennessee, Virginia and Washington.

Although all of these 344 delegates are considered "movable people" by the Scranton camp, some 180 of them are publicly committed to Goldwater in one way or another.

The latest Associated Press poll gives Goldwater 708 delegates who are either committed to him or favor him now to 145 for Scranton, with 655 needed for nomination. The convention opens in San Francisco July 13.

CASTRO SAYS

Sister's Defection 'Painful'

HAVANA (UPI) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro said Wednesday night the defection of his sister, Juana, to Mexico was "very bitter and profoundly painful" to him.

It was Castro's first comment on his sister's flight from the island which she described as "an immense prison."

At a reception in the Canadian embassy, Castro said Miss Castro's charges against the Cuban government were "edited in the United States embassy in Mexico."

"They contain all the infamy which imperialism has conceived against the Cuban revolution," Castro said in a written statement.

He accused American embassy officials of using Miss Castro as a tool against Cuba.

"They (embassy officials) have not the least scruple in turning to a low and repugnant procedure which transgresses the universally respected limits," he said in the statement. "Had I been one of those government officials who make millionaires out of their relatives I would not have faced this problem."

When questioned, Castro refused to elaborate on his charges against the American embassy.

UNIQUE INVESTMENT PAYS BIG RETURNS TO MODERATE INVESTORS

Until recently, mortgage investment which for centuries has been regarded as the safest form of investment, was monopolized by banks, insurance companies, business corporations and by wealthy individuals. Most people could not afford it. Now, however, an investor, with only a moderate sum to invest can reap the non-speculative benefits which accrue from this form of investment.

The Trans-Canada Joint Mortgage Corporation (a subsidiary of Trans-Canada Mortgage Corp., the largest mortgage investment company of its kind in Western Canada) has introduced a new type of mortgage investment, which allows a person, with as little as $500 to invest, to become a joint beneficiary of a first mortgage. His name is registered as such in the Government Land Registry Office, and he receives 7½% interest compounded semi-annually. Unlike stocks and bonds the returns from joint-mortgage investments never vary. If left to compound, they double in 9½ years, triple in 15. Or an investor may receive 7½% interest paid quarterly, leaving his investment intact at all times. Trans-Canada joint-mortgage investments are accepted as collateral security or may be withdrawn at any time.

A prospectus is available on request. For further information write or phone TRANS-CANADA JOINT MORTGAGE CORPORATION LTD. Birks Bldg., Vancouver, B.C. (MU 5-8268).

Nikita Cheered But Talk Scored

BERGEN, Norway (Reuters) — Norway's warmest welcome yet greeted Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev Wednesday on his one-day visit to this ancient fiord city.

The 70-year-old Kremlin chief, who winds up his 18-day Scandinavian tour Saturday, mingled with fishwives and shoppers in Bergen's picturesque quayside fishmarket.

Good-humored Norwegian police linked hands to keep the worst of the huge crowds from Khrushchev and his wife but security precautions were completely ignored in the general enthusiasm.

Khrushchev arrived here by plane from Oslo Wednesday morning. He later visited two cemeteries and placed wreaths to Norwegian and Soviet Second World War dead.

VISITS MUSEUM

Khrushchev afterward visited the oceanographic museum and made a sightseeing tour of the city.

Meanwhile, some Oslo newspapers sharply rejected Khrushchev's statement at the Norwegian Institute of International Affairs Tuesday night that Norway would find its best security guarantee in a policy of neutrality.

The suggestion was "an undisguised attempt to bring a change of Norwegian security policy," the right-wing Handelsog Sjoefartstidende said.

FINLAND TYPE?

"Considering that Finland was mentioned by Khrushchev as an example of the political benefits to be achieved by neutrality, it is not hard to see the type of neutrality he meant.

"Finland has been crippled by Soviet aggression, and its parliamentary system functions with difficulty—or not at all," the paper said.

The Labor newspaper Arbeiterbladet made no comment but the independent Conservative Morgenbladet said the speech was dangerous.

Tshombe Gaining Support

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Moise Tshombe announced today he has won the backing of a "common front" formed from fragments of the late Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba's extreme Nationalist party.

A communique signed jointly by the one - time secessionist president of Katanga province and Lumumbist leader Antoine Kiwewa said the two had agreed to collaborate to "bring about a sincere reconciliation of all The Congo's sons."

Many felt the accord between Tshombe and his former sworn enemies would make it virtually certain that he would be able to form a government. Lumumba was slain in Katanga in 1961 and some have blamed Tshombe for his death.

Tshombe was entrusted by President Joseph Kasavubu with consulting political leaders on the possibility of forming a government after Premier Cyrille Adoula resigned Tuesday, The Congo's fourth Independence Day. Before Tshombe can attempt to form a cabinet, however, he must be named premier-designate by President Kasavubu.

TOT STARVED TO DEATH

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A Kansas City father was sentenced to two years in prison Wednesday for the starvation of one of his seven children. Alfred Joseph Abernathy, 24, pleaded guilty to a manslaughter charge. Abernathy and his wife, Anita Louise, were charged with manslaughter by neglect after their 3½-month-old daughter, Rhode Renne, was found dead in the home last April. Mrs. Abernathy's case has not been heard.

Russian Tug Takes Damaged Ship Under Tow

BOSTON (AP)—The 150-foot Russian sea-going tug Stokij today took under tow a Russian trawler damaged in a collision with a Greek freighter.

The U.S. Coast Guard said the destination of the Russian vessels was unknown.

Earlier the tug transferred collision mats and towing hawsers to the trawler in an apparent attempt to effect temporary repairs, the coast guard said.

The trawler and the 7,000-ton freighter Gannet collided Wednesday in heavy fog 450 miles east of Boston.

While the Nation Waits

THE PAST FEW WEEKS OF the parliamentary session have produced some of the most trivial, time-wasting politicking that a national legislature could create. The exhibition is all the more outstanding when staged against the background of urgent and vital business that must wait.

Part of the dismal display is due, of course, to the faltering answer which the country gave to the call for a government to replace Mr. Diefenbaker's years of procrastination. The voters sent in a minority administration which has added to this handicap by winning itself a poor public "image" through some notable fumbles and some maladroit public relations efforts.

These shortcomings have been exploited to the full by Mr. Diefenbaker and a few of his Conservative opposition members, with an occasional assist from the somewhat at-sea NDP and the thoroughly adrift Social Credit elements. Mr. Diefenbaker, in particular, has grasped at every possible ring the political merry-go-round has offered him, for the aging Conservative leader must view this session in a now-or-never light.

His sense of urgency has contorted his campaign, with the result that he has spent more time and effort in trying to annoy the Prime Minister over such trivia as the CBC film nonsense than in scoring solid points in debate on the basic issues of the session. Trying to put Mr. Pearson in an unfavorable personal light may be of value to Mr. Diefenbaker in the next election campaign; it does nothing to further the business of Canada at Ottawa now.

That business is weighty, as the schedule of jobs yet to be done by this gassy parliament indicates: federal-provincial tax sharing changes, reorganization of the nation's defence force, the 12-mile fishing limit, family allowance extensions, the national pension plan, student loans, consideration of a national health insurance plan, and other measures. All these must be debated against the background of a pressing French-English emergency, with an ill-timed controversy over a national flag to add heat to the political mishmash. And there now looms with increasing urgency the matter of voting interim supply to keep the country operating.

Oddly enough, most of this business hangs on the least urgent of all the items—the determination of a flag. Mr. Pearson, with the maple leaf emblem nailed to his mast, is determined to drive the legislation through and have done with it. Mr. Diefenbaker threatens to hold up this measure and the vital business of the session if the Prime Minister persists in his plan at the expense of the Commons' summer vacation.

A Martian visitor might find it difficult to believe that all this is being done in any seriousness by the law makers. But at least Mr. Pearson has serious, progressive legislation on the docket and he has a right to expect the people's representatives to give it early and proper consideration. Mr. Diefenbaker, on the other hand, pursuing his personal feud, does little but suggest that things might move along a lot better without him.

Widen the Base for the Sales Tax?

IN ITS INSATIABLE QUEST for more revenue, the provincial government has reduced the amount of commissions paid to the merchants who collect the tax on the government's behalf.

This is a matter which has no effect on the public, but it does serve to focus attention on the provincial sales tax, the proportion of provincial revenue which it generates and the increasing importance of the tax in the financing of government projects.

Professor John F. Due of the University of Illinois recently completed a study of the application of Canadian sales taxes for the Canadian Tax Foundation. He found that British Columbia raises a larger proportion of its revenue through sales tax than does any other province except Newfoundland. Last year the sales levy accounted for 44 per cent of British Columbia's general revenue compared with only 27.5 per cent in Quebec and 21 per cent in Ontario. Residents of this province pay $61.30 a year per capita in sales tax compared with $31.14 in Quebec and $28.78 in Ontario. From every dollar of personal income, the sales tax takes 3.4 cents in British Columbia, only 2.3 cents in Quebec and 1.6 cents in Ontario.

British Columbia is the only province, according to Prof. Due's study, which taxes electricity used for manufacturing and it is one of only three which taxes natural gas, electricity and local telephones.

But heavy as the sales tax burden is now on the people of this province, Prof. Due believes there is justification for making it even heavier. He claims the "weight of evidence" is against exemptions on children's clothing, for instance, and he thinks there is "strong justification" for charging sales tax on such items as hotel bills, property maintenance, car repairs and other service fields where no actual goods change hands.

The professor says that the sales tax yield could be raised by about 15 per cent by adding services to the list of taxable items and this is, without doubt, an appealing prospect to the money-hungry provincial governments, not only in British Columbia but right across the country. The shifting of the sales tax to include services as well as goods can almost be predicted as the inevitable next move by most provinces and there should be no surprise if British Columbia initiates it.

The Family Circle

THE DEFECTION OF PREMIER Castro's sister Juanita is a little difficult to assess. The flight into exile by so prominent a person is bound to have repercussions among the Cuban people, particularly if they ever hear the terms in which she denounces her dictator brother and the mode of life in Castro's Cuba.

But the vehemence of Juanita's testimony — her charges go far beyond even what most of us have believed on the basis of reports emanating from the island—raises an element of doubt as to how much is political appraisal and how much is emotional family quarrel.

In any case Juanita's flight and subsequent allegations add a significant new factor to the Cuban situation, and emphasize the desperation which apparently marks Castro's rule these days and his heavy dependence on Soviet support to survive economically in the world and politically at home. The incident will be noted with great interest in Washington.

Trade—Friendly Or Otherwise

THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT finds itself in a very ticklish position in regard to sales of trucks by the Vauxhall Motor Company to Indonesia.

The Indonesian order is worth about $3 millions but it can't be filled unless the British government guarantees Indonesian credit. The government—which guaranteed the credit of Cuba to the extent of about $10 millions for sale of British-made buses—doesn't believe Indonesia's credit is good and has indicated it will refuse to underwrite the deal.

Complicating the matter is the fact that when the sale of buses to Cuba was announced, the United States offered stiff protests against aiding that Communist country. Britain replied that it would not interfere in any purely commercial deals and granted the export credit. Now the shoe is on the other foot, with a British firm wanting to sell to Indonesia, currently sponsoring guerrilla warfare in Malaysia which Britain is resisting. With British troops being killed daily in jungle fighting against Indonesian guerrillas, sale of British vehicles to Indonesia which could be used as logistic support for the guerrillas is bound to be very unpopular with both the British public and with Malaysia.

The British government is probably quite correct in regarding Indonesia as a poor credit risk. According to all reports the country is bankrupt and its chances for economic recovery are not made any better by President Sukarno's grim determination to waste his resources on the fight with Malaysia. Nevertheless, Britain's enemies—and some of her friends—will be quick to point out that tolerance for straight "commercial" deals with certain countries seems to be in direct relation to the extent to which vital British interests are involved.

FROM CHARLOTTETOWN

To Maritimers, the Villains Lurk in Upper Canada

By JAMES H. GRAY

WHEN a Western Canadian crosses the frontier into the Atlantic Provinces, he is tripped up immediately by a brand new term — Upper Canada. As most school boys know, Upper Canada once was what Ontario is today. But to the modern Maritimers, Upper Canada is where all the trouble comess from. It is the explanation of everything that is wrong with the Maritimes' economy. Above all, it is the pat answer for any gripes from tourists.

Gray

In the eastern part of Quebec, gasoline prices fluctuated between 38 and 42 cents for the regular grade. When we crossed into New Brunswick, the price jumped to 49.6 cents per gallon at Bathurst. The station operator said that it was like everything else — it had to be brought in from Upper Canada which made it more costly.

The explanation was ridiculous. The Maritimes are served by two huge oil refineries utilizing the cheapest crude oil in the whole world. Retail prices should be the lowest in Canada. Instead, Maritimers pay the highest price for their gasoline.

We griped about the gas price at every service station and got a number of interesting explanations. One operator said the difference was the tax. It was 28 cents a gallon, he said, and when the government takes that sort of tax, the price must be out of line. Here again, the truth lay elsewhere for the New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island tax is 18 cents per gallon, compared with 15 cents in Quebec and Ontario.

Motel rates also rose sharply when we moved into the Atlantic Provinces. Excellent accommodation was obtained in Quebec City for $10 for a double room. By shopping around a little, the cost could have been reduced to $8. In Moncton, the best we could do was $14 and the same was demanded in Charlottetown. We haggled, here, and were shown a basement room for $10 and eventually a good room for $10. At Fredericton the asking rate everywhere we stopped was $14.

All the motel operators admitted quite frankly that their rates were high. But so were costs. Labor costs? No, not labor costs. Labor was cheap, but building costs and furnishings and such. Everything had to be imported from Upper Canada. "Everything" was difficult to pin down. Lumber, brick, cement and stone were all made locally. Furniture and furnishings were brought in but importation was mostly from Quebec rather than from Ontario.

While there is obviously a very real need for the expansion of secondary manufacturing in the Atlantic Provinces, the region as a whole is being adversely affected by changes in manufacturing economics. Many Ontario and Quebec communities, for example, have been hurt by migration of large manufacturers to the main population centres.

The policy decisions behind these moves have often been made by American parent companies, without regard for the hardship to Canadian small centres. Much of the agitation for Canadian control of Canadian industry can be traced to just such developments.

Just such a policy decision was recently made in connection with one of St. John's oldest industries. This plumbing supply company had been taken over by a large American corporation and was being closed down this fall, with the loss of 400 jobs.

Our informant explained that its operations were being transferred to Upper Canada and the loss of the payroll was a serious blow to New Brunswick. What was more, Maritimers would have to pay more to Upper Canada for their supplies in the future. This was the sort of thing, they said, which made it difficult for them to be friendly with Upper Canada.

It is a curious phenomenon of the Atlantic provinces that ownership of the international companies which operate there seems always to be identified with "Upper Canada" and seldom with the United States. There was not the slightest realization that the company which closed the St. John plant was wholly owned in the United States. Upper Canada was the villain in the piece and it is toward Upper Canada that the resultant animosity is being directed.

This fact-blindness is also apparent in industrial Quebec. A great deal of the unrest in French Canada is the product of policies unthinkingly pursued in Canadian branch plants. These policies affecting promotion, transfer and salary classifications have created as much unrest in Calgary, Edmonton and Windsor as they have in Montreal. They have been even greater sources of irritation in industrial Ontario.

In Quebec, "Les Anglaise" seems to have become a generic term for everybody who speaks English, whether they be fourth generation Irish Canadians, second generation Italians, immigrant English or immigrant Americans.

In Ontario and in Alberta the resentment against corporate policy decisions dictated from on high set off a wave of anti-Americanism. In Quebec, however, it set off a wave of separatism and in the Atlantic provinces it now arouses antagonism against Upper Canada.

What is obviously required in Canada today is the mass re-opening of communications. If the working people of western Ontario could get into some sort of communication with their counterparts in Quebec, they'd probably discover they had many more gripes in common than either now imagines. But what is to be done about this Upper Canada antagonism suggests no such easy solution.

AN ASSESSMENT OF PEARSON

Mr. Newman's Premature Pronouncement of Failure

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

MR. PETER NEWMAN is one of Canada's ablest reporters but, being young, ardent and idealistic, he suffers the pains of youth with peculiar intensity.

Hutchison

Thus as an apprentice in the Ottawa press gallery he expected too much from Mr. Diefenbaker and his disenchantment, six years later, produced the brilliantly devastating book, "Renegade in Power." Mr. Newman also expected too much from Mr. Pearson and now writes in Maclean's magazine that the present government's domestic policies (unlike its foreign policy) are not the "brass-band disasters" of its predecessor but represent "a gray, quiet failure" all the same.

Both of Mr. Newman's heroes have let him down. But surely it is rather early to say that the Pearson government's domestic policies have failed. To pronounce a verdict now is to miss the central point of the contemporary drama at Ottawa. For in fact the Pearson government has neither succeeded nor failed in essentials; it has only just got started after a year of confused rehearsal and agonizing reassessment.

As Mr. Newman knows, none better, the months of chopping and changing are not solely, not even mainly, the result of specific blunders in policy like the first Gordon budget. The origins of the government's dilemma go back much further than that. Mr. Pearson's misfortunes actually began at least five years ago when his experts sold him a bill of goods.

What happened then is now clear in the wisdom of hindsight. While the Diefenbaker government was struggling with problems which it never understood and using contradictory methods which were bound to fail, the Liberal brain trust understood the current situation well enough and devised certain definite remedies for it.

All these plans were aimed at a depressed and stagnant economy. Whatever their merits may have been, they were out of date by 1962. The Diefenbaker government was dying but the economy was coming to life again.

At its birth in 1963 the Pearson government was still uttering, out of mere habit, the slogans and cliches of a recession though business already was booming. By 1964, as the better minds in the government realize, the real danger to the economy is not recession but inflation that would assure another recession later on.

Difficult Admission

It took the government a full year to reconcile its thinking with the new facts of life. Under such circumstances a private person would simply admit that he was wrong and start over again. It is not easy for a government to do anything so obvious and sensible. Its precious aura of omniscience must be preserved, if possible, at almost any cost.

In fairness to him it must be said that Mr. Pearson is far less concerned with omniscience than most of our prime ministers have been. He has even admitted mistakes on television, thus breaking all the rules of politics. One cannot recall Mr. King or Mr. Diefenbaker ever confessing a single error to the people or to himself. Both these famous iconoclasts were themselves transformed into icons by the strange alchemy of power.

A certain humility has saved Mr. Pearson from this dreadful fate. It hasn't saved him from the errors of his experts. The time lag between their fixed theories and the changing facts lasted nearly a year. During that period, so distressing to Mr. Newman, the government's advances and retreats might seem almost irrational but there was logic in them, though it could never be acknowledged. The government, in short, was quietly shucking off its illusions, abandoning many impractical hopes and adjusting its mind to the new situation.

This has been a painful process in private, sometimes a humiliating process in public, but at least the Pearson government has avoided Mr. Diefenbaker's mistake of pretending that all was well and postponing his assessment until the eleventh hour.

The government is probably young and flexible enough to absorb punishment fatal in an old regime—provided it has the courage to do many unpopular things and fully learn its lesson before the next election is called.

In such a contest of events and personalities, as in the game of politics throughout all ages, ability alone will not assure success. Sheer luck must also play a major part.

Mr. Diefenbaker enjoyed unbelievable luck in his first days of triumph, the St. Laurent goverment having obligingly suffocated itself in Mr. Howe's pipeline. Soon afterwards the luck changed. A recession which Mr. Diefenbaker blamed on his predecessors but which was quite outside Canada's control long haunted his government and when it ended in 1961 hardly anyone believed the good news, least of all the Liberal experts.

Mr. Pearson's luck has been better so far. While the boom is not of his making, prosperity never hurt any government. On the other hand, a boom is a weapon of politics to be used with extreme caution lest it peter out just before the polls open and discredit those who claimed it as their own.

Hence the Pearson government can afford litle delay in its housekeeping. The timetable may be tighter than it looks, depending not so much on Canadian policy as on the economic state of the world. Still, that talented young journalist, Mr. Newman, is perhaps too impatient when he asks the government to change its mind, manner and nature overnight and pronounces his verdict of failure before the full evidence is in. After a lost weekend of some 12 months the testimony for the defence must appear or it may be too late.

Risks of Being Unwieldly

The principle of the proposed Regional Control Board which was recently discussed between the Department of Municipal Affairs and the local municipal representatives, is a sound one and is deserving of full support by the ratepayers of the Greater Victoria area.

There are, undoubtedly, problems which are common to the local municipalities, which can and should be solved by co-operative effort. Chief among these is the disposal of sewage and garbage. These questions, it is suggested, can be resolved by common effort without derogating from our respective local autonomy, of which I am an ardent supporter.

However, one fears that the proposed board may perish at birth if the size and scope is such that too many members will be occupied with too many problems, to the exclusion of solving any. In this regard it is respectfully submitted that, in the initial stages, the participating areas or municipalities be limited, and the terms of reference be such as to include only the most pressing affairs; f.e., water, sewage, garbage.

Only in this way can some true measure of the efficacy of such arrangements be measured; and, if successful, then the board can, with the confidence of the people, proceed with the resolving of other less urgent matters.

Letter of Thanks

On behalf of the Multiple Sclerosis Society, I wish to convey our sincere thanks to the many wonderful people (both men and women) who answered my letter last January and offered to visit the patients or help in any way.

It may be of interest to know that we now have a staff of 35 regular visitors who are doing so many acts of kindness, and have given the patients such a lift—something to look forward to.

Many more were anxious to help, but their problem was transportation. We still have this problem, and the need is serious. We need a few volunteer drivers with cars, also on special occasions like the yearly garden party on the first of August. Thanks to the kindness and generosity of Mr. and Mrs. L. Morgan, it is held in their beautiful garden on Pemberton Road.

There is need of transportation help for the monthly socials that the patients enjoy so much, also the Christmas dinner and party. Thanks to the generosity and hard work of the Cosmopolitan Club and the Cosmo Pals, we now have a small but beautiful bus—a great help.

When I wrote "Small miracles happen when we try to bring a little cheer and joy into someone's life" it prompted a very kind gentleman to give the society a portable electric organ.

We are very thankful for all who are giving precious time and service. I, too have been richly rewarded when the new visitors have told me that they are happy in their new work and new friendships. It indeed is a two-way street. MRS. H. W. (DOLLY) HICKS.

Gerald Waring ...REPORTING

OTTAWA—There are two poles-apart ways of looking at a career in public life, and neither is wholly right or wholly wrong.

The first is that a man standing for Parliament, say, is offering to serve his fellow citizens. There is a strong connotation of selflessness. Mackenzie King used to remark that nothing gives greater satisfaction than service to one's fellows—but it's become fashionable now to regard King as a hypocritical old humbug.

The second way of viewing public life is that your MP is "in politics" for what he can get. Everyone knows "politics is a dirty business," and that politicians are back-stabbing sticky-fingered self-seekers.

★ ★ ★

Almost every politician I know wants to get out from under the stigma of "politics." Like the garbage collector who describes himself as a sanitary engineer, he wants to upgrade his calling, to be known as a Member of Parliament, and eventually to achieve the status of Statesman.

But the record of this Parliament is convincing the people that they've elected a bunch of garbage collectors. Hardly a sanitary engineer in the lot.

Judging from press and public reaction to the MPs' waste of most of the last four and one-half months in petty bickering and jockeying for partisan advantage, Parliament is in greater public disrepute today than at any time in the 20 years I have spent in its Press Gallery.

★ ★ ★

A corollary could be that our parliamentary democracy is in acute and largely unrecognized danger.

The comment on Parliament's antics that has shocked me most came from the ambassador of a European nation that was formerly a democracy, but now is an autocracy, almost a police state.

"Your Parliament," he said, "reminds me of our Parliament after the war. Political anarchy, because there are too many parties to make democracy work."

When democracy breaks down the alternative is authoritarianism—either of the left, where Khrushchev is, or of the right, like a Goldwater.

It had seemed to me, when we elected this fractured House of Commons, that the parties had to learn the art of parliamentary compromise to avoid constant political turmoil and to get the country's work done. Prime Minister Pearson has not made the kind of compromises and deals that enable minority governments to operate in West Germany, Italy and elsewhere.

Pearson said he'd carry on as though he had a Liberal majority. Perhaps he had no choice; perhaps neither the NDP nor the Socreds would enter a political compact with him lest they be swallowed like King swallowed the Progressive Party in the 1920's and tried to swallow the CCF in the 1940's.

So the stalemate hardened, and the recent byelections have not encouraged the thought that another general election would solve Parliament's predicament.

Now, with so many items of business waiting on parliamentary sidings for green lights, it seems wise to side-track the flag debate until fall. And if it weren't for Mr. Diefenbaker, this probably would have been done long ago. But there is no co-operation between John and Mike, and any alteration in the government's schedule, however sensible, is greeted by Diefenbaker with gleeful gibes: "Another retreat," and "Another broken Liberal promise."

Maybe the main trouble with this House of Commons is that it isn't big enough for both Lester Pearson and John Diefenbaker.

STILL SMALL NAVY

Missile Ships Due West German Fleet

BONN (Reuters)—The West German Navy, a mere shadow of the fleets that threatened the world's sea lanes in two world wars, is entering the missile age.

But when the Bonn government's plans for expanding its present modest fleet of destroyers, coastal patrol boats, minesweepers and submarines are realized, the West German Navy still will rank low on any list of the world's leading naval powers.

The navy's creation and expansion in the last 10 years has been under strict supervision by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The latest project, three missile destroyers for service in the Baltic, has been developed to meet the need of NATO.

The shape of the West German Navy, well-equipped for defence but ill-fitted for offensive war, is dictated by its function under NATO to defend the exit from the Baltic, in cooperation with the Danes and the Norwegians, against a possible Communist break-out, and to defend West Germany's North Sea coast.

For many years the "capital ships" of the West German Navy were six 2,000-ton wartime United States destroyers, obsolete, wornout and ill-suited to modern warfare.

But last March 23 the first major warship built in West Germany since the Second World War went into service—the 3,000-ton destroyer Hamburg, first of a class of four which will come into service at six-month intervals.

The ship is proof against atomic, biological and chemical contamination, and her four electronically controlled 10-centimetre (four-inch) guns give her a fire-power equal to that of a wartime cruiser.

But the Hamburg and her sister ships have no rockets.

The need for missile ships to match Russian destroyers could not be ignored, and in April Defence Minister von Hassel announced that, subject to parliamentary approval, it had been "practically decided" to buy from the United States three destroyers equipped with Tartar rockets.

The advantage of these $50,000,000 destroyers is that their sophisticated communications and weapons systems have been thoroughly tested and that delivery is guaranteed within 50 months.

Their Tartar missiles are ship-to-air weapons but it is expected that they will have been developed for ship-to-ship use by the time the three German destroyers are delivered.

Commonwealth Meet Hurt by Absences

LONDON (AP) — Because of ill health or political pique, heads of three Commonwealth governments will not attend the prime ministers conference in London next week.

British authorities considered their absence a setback that would reduce the value of the long-awaited talks, which open July 8.

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India and Sir Alexander Bustamante of Jamaica are kept at home by ill health. Shastri's place will be taken by Finance Minister T. T. Krishnamachari and Mrs. Indira Gandhi, his information minister. Finance Minister Donald B. Sangster will represent Bustamante.

The president of Cyprus, Archbishop Makarios, announced Tuesday he would not attend.

Makarios said he could not be away from his turbulent island for 10 days. But the general impression was that he was angry because British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home joined Turkish Premier Ismet Inonu in a statement this week reaffirming support of the treaty rights of Britain, Greece and Turkey to intervene in Cyprus.

Douglas-Home had planned to discuss the future of Cyprus with Makarios informally during the conference. Foreign Minister Spyros Kyprianou will represent the archbishop.

NEW LEADERS UNCONCERNED

Communists Work Hard Aiding Zanzibar Regime

By DENNIS NEELD

ZANZIBAR (AP) — Russia, Communist China and East Germany are pumping men, money and machines into Zanzibar. If unchecked these things may turn the island into a virtual Communist satellite.

At the same time, President Julius Nyerere of the new republic of Tanganyika and Zanzibar is trying to assert his own authority in the island 25 miles off the east African mainland.

Zanzibar's own president Abeid Karume, 59, a Moslem, probably has no deep love of communism in his African nationalist heart. But the island leader, a seaman for 22 years, seems unversed in the ways of Communist infiltration.

Karume is the idol of the Zanzibar Negroes and the island's most powerful single personality.

Asked this month about Communists in positions of authority in Zanzibar, he replied: "What are one or two men? I have the power and I have my own eyes and ears."

WELCOMES AID

Karume cites generous Communist aid as an indication of the bloc's friendship and says anyone who helps Zanzibar is welcome.

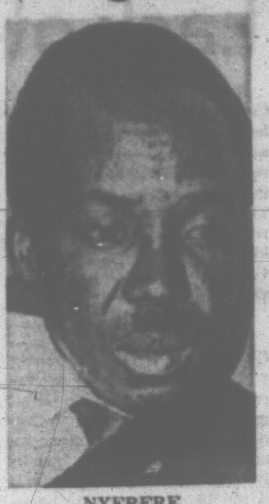

Some 150 technicians and experts from the Communist bloc are believed to be working in Zanzibar.

British civil servants have been replaced. East Germans have taken over the finance ministry and are helping run the radio station, information ministry, schools and medical services. They are doing preliminary work on projects to rehouse thousands of Negroes huddled in squalid shanties outside Zanzibar Town.

The Red Chinese are firmly ensconced in the agriculture department and are planning rice growing and other farm schemes to reduce the island's dependence on cloves.

KARUME

NYERERE

ARMY RUSSIAN TRAINED

Soviet instructors are training about 400 recruits in the People's Liberation Army in the use of their new Russian equipment.

Some of this was displayed at the big May Day parade where the public saw goose-stepping Zanzibari troops carrying Russian sub-machine-guns, big Russian trucks towing anti-aircraft and anti-tank guns, mortars, and heavy machine-guns.

As a result of Nyerere's influence, Zanzibari troops have discarded their Cuban - style caps and uniforms and now wear the standard green berets and uniforms of the Tanganyika forces.

Communist literature is everywhere.

The United States embassy, however, has also been permitted to reopen its reading room since Zanzibar and Tanganyika agreed to unite.

Karume has not been to Zanzibar's twin island of Pemba since he became president after the January revolution overthrew an Arab-dominated government. Area commissioner Diria Hassan is ruling the island like a little Stalin.

REPORT MASS BEATINGS

Three reports from Pemba have mentioned mass beatings following a refusal by the populace to take part in voluntary nation-building projects or to attend meetings.

Deputations have seen Karume to complain of conditions on Pemba and he says he plans to remedy the situation.

There have been other rumblings of discontent. Seventeen persons arrested at Makunduchi 40 miles south of Zanzibar Town, were jailed for four years for attending an anti-government meeting. Area commissioner Abdul Razak Musa Simai said it was a black magic meeting at which spells were being cast on Karume.

Under the provisional constitution, foreign affairs are the reserve of the united republic government but Zanzibar's own ministry of external affairs and trade still is in business.

Abdul Rahman Mohamed Babu, Zanzibar's foreign minister before he was appointed one of three ministers in the united republic cabinet responsibile for development and planning seems to be taking his new duties seriously, however.

There are other signs that the union is gaining strength. Nyerere has appointed two able young ministers who will have offices in Zanzibar.

'Sentimental Journey'

RANGOON (AP)—United Nations Secretary-General U Thant plans a sentimental journey to his homeland, Burma, at the end of the month. It will be his first visit there since he became secretary-general Nov. 3, 1961. Thant's aged mother has repeatedly asked her son to visit her. In recent months her health has declined.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Some Brief Answers

A dozen people who have asked me what they should do for cardiac arrhythmia want first to know what this term means. Arrhythmia is a symptom — not a disease. It means an irregular or uneven type of heart beat. Cardiac, of course, refers to the heart.

Alvarez

Often I cannot suggest any treatment, largely because I haven't the remotest idea what type of arrhythmia the person has, and what caused it. There are some types of arrhythmia, such as missing beats, which are usually harmless. The commonest type of missing beats is the one due to the coming occasionally of a little extra beat which is thrown in, perhaps by nervous action. This causes the next beat to be skipped and the one after that to be so strong that the person feels a "bump" or throb, perhaps in his neck.

A person can have such "missing beats" for most of his days without suffering anything—except perhaps a slight annoyance when he feels the throb. My father had such extra beats for the last 36 years of his life. He knew that they were not likely ever to do him any harm, but still, as he said, he didn't like them.

In another type of heart disease with an irregularly irregular pulse, the trouble is called "auricular fibrillation." It is due to the independent small contraction of hundreds of thousands of muscle fibers in the auricles (two small cavities at the top of the heart. This disease can be dangerous, but sometimes it is not. I remember an eminent surgeon who suffered off and on all through a long life with spells of fibrillation. Another patient of mine with a fibrillating heart used to lay heavy sewer pipes, and he did it for years without coming to any bad end. Sometimes the patient who is "fibrillating" can be helped, perhaps by taking a little digitalis each day.

A common complaint of people is that an X-ray film shows they have a spur on the bone in one heel. They wonder if it would help to have thespur chiseled off. Experts tell me that this is not good treatment. The pain may remain.

In most of the articles that I have read on this subject, the writers have said that the best thing to do is to put a piece of sponge rubber in the bottom of the shoe, under the heel. Then perhaps the soreness will clear away. I imagine that these spurs are more likely to come to people who have a tendency to arthritis in various parts of their body.

HOME GARDEN

By JACK BEASTALL

You Can Avoid 'Burning' Lawns

Several gardeners have reported the burning of new lawns by 2, 4-D weed killer.

Jack

This can happen very easily, especially when the tender young grass leaves are a little dry.

Watering the lawn two days before using the weed killer will help, and fertilizing it a week before will give the grass increased resistance.

In addition to these precautions it is advisable to use the weed killer at a reduced strength on new grass.

This may mean that two applications will be needed to control the weeds effectively, but it will be a lot easier on the grass.

To obtain a half-strength solution of any weed or grass killer, use just one-half the recommended amount of powder or liquid in the same quantity of water.

Weed killers are not like insecticides which can be diluted by increasing the quantity of water.

Weed killers are applied at a definite weight of acid to the acre, and that amount of acid can be mixed into 50 gallons, 100 gallons, or 250 gallons of water and still have the same strength.

If two pounds of acid to the acre is required to kill a certain weed, a half-strength spray would be one pound to the acre.

Similarly for lawns, if two teaspoonsful of acid to one thousand square feet is recommended, one teaspoonful for the same area would be half strength.

The important point when using weed or grass killers (herbicides, as they are called) is to use only the stated amount of acid on a given area.

Since no two sprayers are alike in the volume of spray released in a given length of time, it is necessary to fill the sprayer first with a known quantity of clear water and find out how many square feet it will cover.

When this is known it is relatively easy to compute how many gallons will be needed to cover the area recommended by the manufacturer of the herbicide being used.

Most lawn burning by weed killers is the result of putting too much acid on too small on area.

AN INTERIM REPORT

B and B Probers Find Lack of Understanding

Ronald Lebel, bilingual Canadian Press reporter, has covered public hearings across the country of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism. The informal discussions, reflecting a wide variety of ideas on how to strengthen Canadian unity, are reviewed in this story.

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP) — Far-reaching proposals are piling up before the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism but so far there is no clear indication how the public generally feels about them.

After 10 months of preliminary but highly controversial investigation, the commission's paramount finding is that most Canadians don't know each other and don't understand the forces pulling them apart.

"We have found considerable lack of information and lack of effective communications in the country," said Davidson Dunton, president of Carleton University, Ottawa.

His colleague, Andre Laurendeau, editor-in-chief of Montreal Le Devoir, said in a Toronto speech that if provincialism remained the prevailing influence across the country Canada "could fall apart without anyone feeling directly responsible."

Contacts Hindered

As they criss-crossed Canada, holding 23 public forums and meeting leaders of the 10 provincial governments, the commissioners were told repeatedly that geographic, language and cultural barriers were hindering contacts between Canadians.

Mr. Laurendeau said the commission has found an acute crisis in English-French relations and many secondary crises centring on various minority groups.

The 10-member commission has withdrawn from the public eye for the summer to rest and read an avalanche of 500 formal briefs from organizations and individuals. A broad research program is being launched quietly by a team of 45 university professors and post-graduate students.

Formal sessions for the submission of briefs will begin in late September or early October and run well into 1965.

At the informal meetings held this spring a familiar set of suggestions turned up with surprising regularity. Most were condemned as vigorously as they were defended and it's too early to speak of a consensus, although certain ideas seem to be gaining acceptance gradually among influential opinion leaders.

Constitution Key

The more common proposals voiced so far can be summarized as follows:

1. Constitution — Revise the British North America Act to give the English and French languages official and equal status at the federal and provincial levels. Rename it "the constitution of Canada" or something like that and set it up so that it can be amended in Canada.

2. Education—Divide the elementary and secondary school systems along language instead of religious lines. This would not necessarily militate against religious instruction. It would involve French-language or bilingual schools for the French-speaking minority of 900,000 outside Quebec, and English-language or bilingual schools for Quebec's English-speaking minority of 700,000, regardless of pupils' religion.

3. Teaching methods—Step up instruction of second languages in all provinces, stress oral methods rather than rely on grammar and literature, and start courses at elementary rather than secondary level. Teach more Canadian history and literature, replace biased or regional history textbooks with balanced, national texts. Offer European languages such as Ukrainian and Polish as optional courses with university credits. Train more language teachers with the aid of scholarships.

Extend Bilingualism

4. Public service—Encourage cabinet ministers, party leaders and top-level federal officials to become bilingual. Require federal and provincial civil servants who deal with the public in bilingual areas to become bilingual. Apply the same policies to crown corporations. Allow more informal use of French in French - speaking or bilingual military units. Permit court proceedings in French when the presiding judge agrees.

5. Cultural links—Extend the CBC's French- and English television and radio networks to all areas where a sizable minority is present. Encourage all communications media to give more attention to national news and comment and more attention to the cultural achievements of various minorities. Promote cross-Canada travel, exchanges of teachers, students and artists. Promote more inter-group social and cultural contacts in cities and areas with a mixed population. Step up university research and studies on cultural minorities.

Revamp Capital

6. Economic institutions—Encourage industry, commerce and labor unions to expand use of the second language—French or English—for the benefit of employees, customers or members who speak the second language. Encourage business executives and labor leaders to become bilingual.

7. National capital—Revamp Ottawa's municipal structure to recognize the French language and give the French-speaking element fair representation in the local government.

Whether these proposals will be translated into recommendations by the 10-member royal commission and then into government action is quite another question that probably will not be answered before 1967.

The commission must first hold formal hearings in all provinces by the spring of 1965, supervise a broad research program extending to the fall of 1965, meet privately with various professional groups and then channel bales of evidence and opinion into a report. The report itself is not expected until late 1966 or 1967.

Shun Melting Pot

The hope of at least several government figures is that the inquiry will lead to a revised constitution, changes in the educational system and public service, and that the groundwork will be laid for establishing a means of communication among Canadians. Their professed goal is to help various cultural minorities resist the tendency to sink into an American-style "melting pot" society.

The public at large, however, is not yet sold on this concept. A large body of opinion holds that the English-speaking majority should be allowed to absorb and assimilate language and ethnic minorities. They fear that to resist this would merely widen the cultural and religious cleavages in Canadian society.

Quebec separatist leaders predict that the inquiry will flop and in the process convince more and more French-Canadians that the breakup of Confederation is inevitable. They advocate a French-only Quebec republic and an English-only federation of the nine other provinces.

'Cannot Fail'

State Secretary Lamontagne said in a speech in April that Canada cannot afford to see the inquiry fail.

"Its failure could, I believe, be fatal to our country," he told a Toronto audience.

The government is sparing no effort or expense to assist the work of the 10 commissioners, who earn $100 a day when on public business.

The commission will have spent at least $2,250,000 by next March 31 and seems likely to become the costliest federal inquiry on record. A staff of 85 administrators, researchers and secretaries has been assembled in Ottawa and it will continue to grow during the summer.

As co-chairmen Andre Laurendeau and Davidson Dunton like to say, this is not a royal commission like the others.

The commission deliberately stirred up a noisy public debate on the strains on national unity by resorting to a group dynamics technique pioneered in the mid-1950s by a Saskatchewan royal commission on rural life.

Following the advice of adult education experts, the "B and B" commission held extremely informal forums and group discussions in 23 cities from March 18 to June 16. Teams of commissioners moved quickly from one region to another to create a "shock effect."

MP Widows Win First Time Only

OTTAWA (UPI)—The problem with widows of members of parliament as political candidates in their own right isn't in getting them elected.

It's in keeping them elected.

Political statistics for the past half-century show that parliamentary widows have a 100 per cent success record in their first try at the polls.

But when they go back for re-election, the story is different. Their survival record plunges steeply to a bare 20 per cent.

NOT INTERESTED

That's a situation that's giving political strategists in all the political parties real food for thought. Generally speaking, they are not too interested in a candidate whose victory potential is a single win. They prefer someone who promises greater durability than that.

Mrs. Eloise Jones of Saskatoon is the fifth parliamentary widow in the past half-century who has succeeded in retaining her late husband's seat on her first try. The four others are Mrs. Cora Casselman of East Edmonton, Mrs. Jean Casselman of Grenville-Dundas, Mrs. Isabelle Hardie of Mackenzie River and Mrs. Margaret Macdonald of King's, Prince Edward Island.

Of the quartet, only Mrs. Jean Casselman survives in the present House.

The question obviously arises: Why is the parliamentary life of four out of every five parliamentary widows so fleeting?

SYMPATHY VOTE

The common answer which your professional politician gives is that the parliamentary widow is returned in the first instance on a sympathy vote which gives little heed to the basic qualifications for the job. But the second time an election rolls around the sympathy no longer is sufficiently motivating to re-elect her, while considerations of personal qualifications have re-asserted their primacy.

Thus, under the return of normal ground rules, the parliamentary widow normally finds herself outclassed.

In other words, the performance of parliamentary widows in the Commons has been something less than impressive. If there has been any exception to this general rule it was in the case of Mrs. Cora Casselman of East Edmonton, who succeeded her Liberal husband just after the outbreak of the Second World War.

BIG CONTRIBUTION

A woman of university training and very considerable competence, Mrs. Casselman made a highly useful contribution to the work of the Commons. She was the first woman ever to occupy the chair when the House was sitting in the committee stage on bills. Her handling of legislation became somewhat of an example for other chairmen to emulate. She achieved an accolade from the late prime minister Mackenzie King when he chose her as a delegate to the founding meeting of the United Nations in 1945 in San Francisco.

The irony was that Mrs. Casselman's demonstrated competence didn't save her. She went down to overwhelming defeat by the East Edmonton Social Credit candidate in the general election held in 1945 while the San Francisco charter meeting was still in progress.

English Still Must In Cuban Schools

By RICHARD DAW

HAVANA (AP)—The teacher's questions boomed out in clear, crisp English:

"Whose classroom is this?"

The answer from the 15 students came back in unison, also in English:

"It is ours."

English is the only required foreign language in Cuba's school system.

'ONLY LOGICAL'

"You shouldn't be surprised that we require the study of your language," the teacher told a United States visitor. "It's only logical.

"Why should we allow ideological differences between our government and yours to affect our teaching of a language that is so necessary these days in international dealings and advanced technological study?"

All Cuban students must begin studying English in the seventh grade and continue through the ninth. From the 10th through the 12th grades those who have demonstrated an adequate knowledge of English may switch to French. Experimentation is being carried out with classes in Russian for the same grades.

WAS ARMY CAMP

Situated on the edge of Havana, Liberty City used to be Camp Columbia, the main base of dictator Fulgencio Batista's army garrison. About 7,000 students attend school here now. The education they get is socialist-oriented. They are taught that the social union is the leader of the free, peace-loving world.

A sixth-grade textbook says: "In general, the North American people are noble, good, sound and industrious, and have made great contributions to civilization; but these people are dominated and governed by great monopolistic interests which oppress the weak people of the world, whom they exploit and subject to the worst tyrannies."

Signwriter W. A. Blake Dies at 81

Pioneer signwriter William Alfred Blake, 81, of 1234 Oakmount, died Monday night after a lifetime in Victoria.

A member of prominent lacrosse teams in his youth, he was for 40 years the proprietor of a downtown sign shop, retiring only in recent years.

Mr. Blake was born May 31, 1883 in what later became Victoria's North Ward, attended North Ward School and was secretary of North Ward Athletic Association.

In 1910 he was a member of the association's lacrosse team that won the junior city championship.

As a boy he remembered the sailing ships and whaling fleet that used the harbor and docks.

Mr. Blake was a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

His wife Hazel predeceased him in 1956, and his death leaves only a sister, Mrs. W. P. (Helen) Beal, of Vancouver, a son Hudson Blake, a Victoria businessman, and daughter Mrs. W. (Peggy) McAllan, also of Victoria.

Funeral arrangements by Sands are set for 11 a.m. Friday in the chapel, Rev. Emma M. Smiley officiating.

Vancouver Garages Face Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — Representatives of 13 Vancouver area garages Monday informed the Automotive Workers Union that they are not prepared to increase the earlier wage offer.

A threat of a strike by mechanics now appears certain.

The workers earlier voted 72 per cent in favor of strike action to back up their demands.

The companies have offered wage increases totalling 40 cents in a three-year contract. The union is seeking a two-year contract, with a 20-cent increase this year and 15 cents next year.

The current agreement expired April 1. So far, two garages have settled their dispute, using the 20-15 formula.

The union said it is working towards strike action. About 450 men are involved.

Oak Bay Wins AOTS Rally Shield

Oak Bay won the attendance shield at the eighth annual Vancouver Island AOTS rally at George Pringle Camp, Shawnigan Lake, recently.

The award was made on percentage of club members present plus points for miles travelled.

Runners-up were Chemainus, followed by Duncan and then Esquimalt.

More than 400 members and friends from 14 clubs attended the rally which was followed by an open-air service, conducted by the Rev. Howard Turpin, of Esquimalt United Church.

Also taking part in the service was a 20-man choir from Duncan.

COLUMBIA TREATY

U.S. in Trouble Over Payment?

WASHINGTON (CP) — Interior Secretary Stewart Udall said Wednesday that delay in congressional approval of a huge $697,000,000 electrical transmission system on the West Coast may endanger U.S. performance under the Canada-U.S. Columbia River power treaty.

Udall and his aides told a Senate appropriations subcommittee that under the treaty U.S. power distributors in the Pacific Northwest must make an advance payment to Canada of $254,400,000 by Oct. 1 to cover the 30-year sale in the U.S. of Canada's share of power benefits resulting from harnessing of the Columbia.

Udall hinted the U.S. may not be able to meet that payment deadline if the proposed long-distance transmission inter-tie, to transport surplus power from the Pacific Northwest to Los Angeles and other parts of southern California, is not approved.

An adviser to the secretary later suggested Udall's remarks were aimed primarily at Congress and that in all likelihood there would be no delay in meeting the Oct. 1 payment of $254,400,000 to Canada.

This adviser reported that a non-profit company to market Canada's power share has already been formed and that the money this company will require to pay Canada likely will be obtained in August by floating a large non-taxable bond issue.

However, the U.S. government is anxious to get congressional approval of the proposed north-south extra-high-voltage inter-tie because this would allow surplus power in the northwest to be sold in California during 1968-75.

Charles Luce, head of the government's Bonneville Power Administration in the northwest, told the subcommittee that if the forecast surplus is not sold in California during 1968-75, there may be a revenue loss in the northwest of about $100,000,000.

QUESTIONS AIDES

Senator Thomas Kuchel, California Republican, concluded from the remarks of Udall and his aides that the Canadian power would be surplus to U.S. northwest needs only until 1975 and asked what would happen to California's needs after that year.

Udall noted that British Columbia will have huge power supplies by harnessing the Peace River and part of this power also may be marketed in the U.S. Luce added that in any case Bonneville planned to keep the proposed long-distance transmission lines loaded with power for California even after 1975.

RE-ELECTED president of West Germany Wednesday was President Heinrich Luebke, 69, who drew 710 votes, far exceeding the 520 needed of the 1,024 cast to entitle him to a second five-year term. Election took place in Berlin, despite earlier Communist protests.

Thousands Brave Heat for Celebrations

OTTAWA (CP) — Sizzling heat for the second straight year took some of the zip out of day-long Dominion Day ceremonies on Parliament Hill.

The temperature in the 80s made conditions distinctly uncomfortable Wednesday for the several thousand spectators at morning and afternoon ceremonies.

A slight breeze made conditions more pleasant for the evening's military ceremonies.

The temperature on Parliament Hill during last year's Dominion Day ceremonies was 98 degrees, equalling a record for July 1 set in 1931.

This year's ceremonies had an unofficial send-off at midnight Tuesday. Three young marchers from the Revolutionary Movement of Canada paraded on Parliament Hill carrying the proposed maple leaf flag among the Dominion Day display of 56 Red Ensigns on flag poles surrounding the centre lawn in front of the Peace Tower.

Jean Fournier, leader of the marchers, said the movement had organized the demonstration "to remind anyone who stands under these Red Ensigns . . . that there is a change coming."

MANY VOLCANOES

Mount Etna in Sicily has formed so many craters and cones—about 200—that it actually is a cluster of volcanoes, rather than a single peak.

The marchers were ordered off Parliament Hill early Wednesday morning by the RCMP.

This year's ceremonies also featured the arrival of the vanguard of a pre-centennial youth travel movement organized by the National Centennial Commission to promote national unity and understanding.

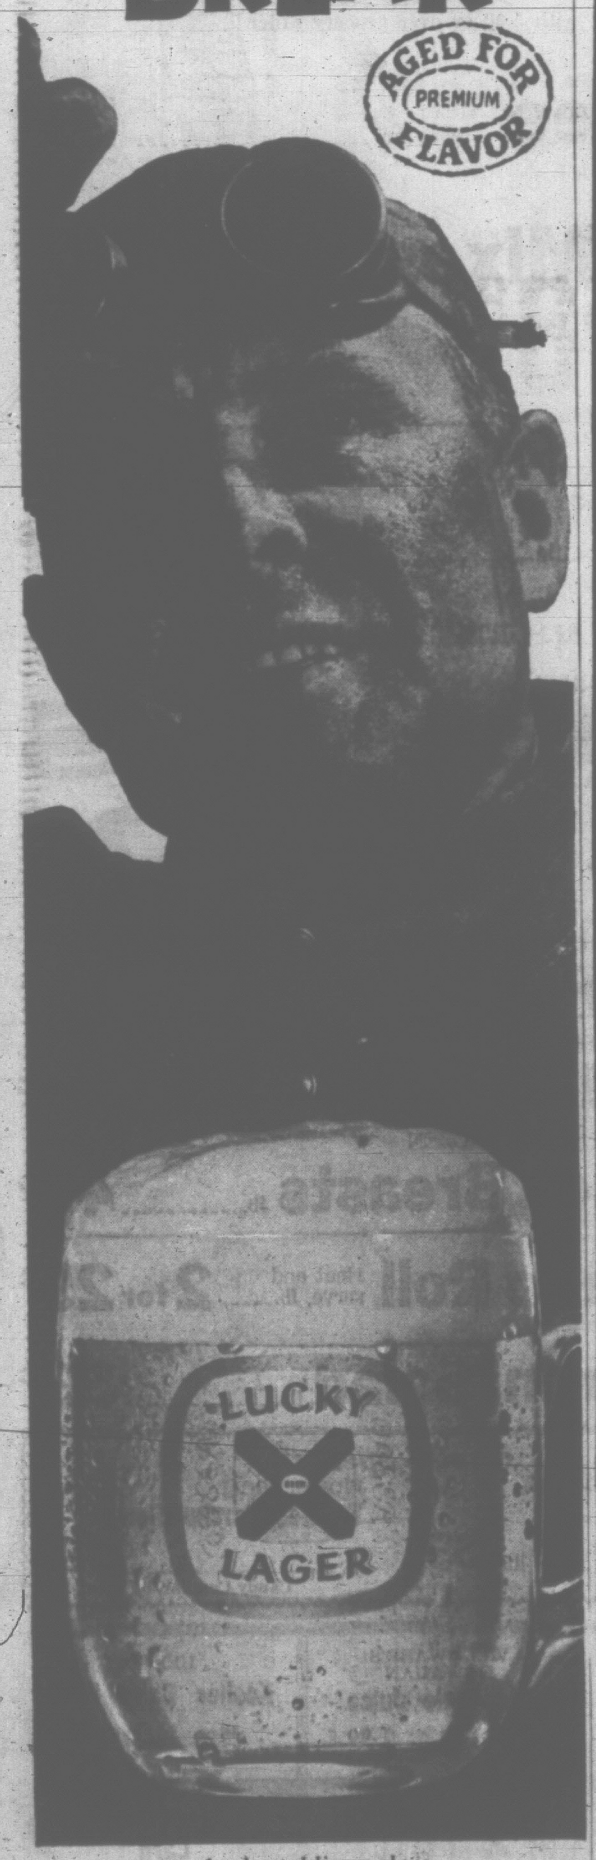

Under this plan some 1,000 high school students this year will visit and live with Canadians in various parts of Canada. The 6 students in Ottawa Wednesday were from the Toronto-Hamilton area and from Montreal and district.

Those from Toronto and Hamilton are en route to Edmundston, N.B., and those from Montreal are travelling to Saskatoon and Vancouver.

NORAD Counts the Pieces Of Man-Made Junk Space

OTTAWA (CP) — North American Air Defence Command reports there now are 438 man-made objects in space and predicts that there may be as many as 10,000 by 1975.

Wednesday marked the third birthday of NORAD's space detection and tracking centre to which the Canadian Defence Research Board's radar laboratory at Prince Albert, Sask., and RCAF space camera at Cold Lake, Alta., contribute information.

The centre was established at NORAD headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo., July 1, 1961, to keep track of all space objects in case Russia tried to sneak an armed satellite into orbit without anybody else finding out about its presence among the space traffic.

At the time the centre became operational three years ago, there were already 121 objects in space dating from Sputnik I launched by Russia Oct. 4, 1957.

NORAD'S present catalogue for the U.S. and Russia Payloads in orbit, U.S. 89, Russia 9, space probes, 5, Russia 5, orbiting debris, U.S. 312 Russia 9, probe debris, U.S. 4, Russia 0, total space objects U.S. 410, Russia 23.

Canada has a total of three space objects and Britain two.

"These figures do not include space objects which have decayed or burned up in the earth's atmosphere.

NORAD says the space population increased approximately 30 per cent in the last year.

A total of 199 objects was catalogued during the year; 84 decayed. A total of 77 payloads—satellites, space probes or research rockets — were launched, 58 by the United States, 18 by Russia and one by Britain. Of these 21 U.S. and 11 Russian objects decayed. In the same period, 122 pieces of space debris—mainly rockets used to get satellites into orbit—began circling the earth.

Canada's Alouette I satellite was launched in September, 1962. The two pieces of orbiting debris are the two rockets which put it in space. The Alouette II will be launched next year.

NEW SATELLITE LAUNCH HOLDS KEY

Direct TV From Olympiad Planned

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Canadian broadcasting officials will meet with European and U.S. representatives here Monday to plan direct television coverage of the October Olympic Games, in Japan.

The Canadian officials were not identified, but it was expected they will comprise members of the publicly-owned Canadian Broadcasting Corporation (CBC).

The Canadians, members of the 14-nation European Broadcasting Union and New Communication Satellite Corporation (Comsat) officials will discuss means to supply full direct television coverage of the games to more than 20 countries.

Officials say the plan has a good chance of success if various technical arrangements—including the launching of a new communications satellite — can be made in time.

The plan for live satellite coverage of the games was disclosed at the annual meeting of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics which ends today.

It's picture quality will not be as good as that of "Early Bird," the first commercial Comsat satellite to be launched in early 1965, but it is expected to be good enough for the "special event" demonstration being planned for it.

'Frigates for Fascists' Contracts Cancelled

LONDON (CP)—The Spanish government has torn up a £14,000,000 ($52,000,000) contract to build British frigates under licence after the deal was attacked by Labor opposition leaders.

The "frigates - for - fascists" issue threatens to stir up a mild political storm here. After news of the cancellation was received, the Labor party stuck to its guns with a statement saying "the deal should never have been started."

Under the contract Spain was to have built three or four Leander-type frigates using British designs and material. It is believed a light cruiser was also included in the program. The United States now is likely to get the Spanish order.

Labor Leader Harold Wilson attacked the contract in the Commons June 16. He asked whether it was necessary for Britain to sell frigates to a fascist country "for a few million pounds." He said the agreement would not create much employment in British shipyards.

Delegation Pleads Case For Ferry

PORT ALBERNI—A large delegation, supported by all the communities on Alberni Inlet and Barkley Sound, will go to Victoria on Monday to plead the case of the Mv. Lady Rose.

The Lady Rose, which does the Alberni-Bamfield run, is in danger of going out of service unless highways department officials change their minds about dropping the $1,900-a-month subsidy paid Alberni Marine Transportation to keep the Lady Rose going.

A letter from the department to Alberni Valley Chamber of Commerce states that a recent survey shows that passenger and freight traffic on the ship is "very light."

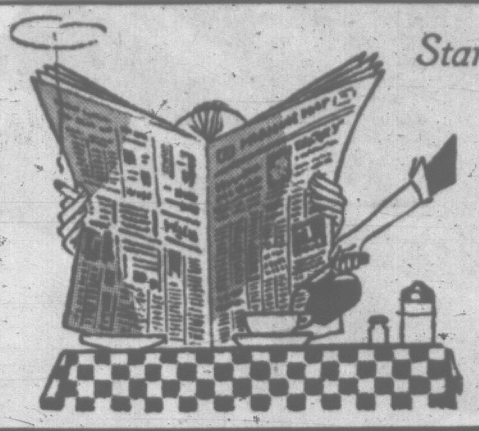

It also showed people at nearly all the places at which the Lady Rose calls have their own boats.

Also it was pointed out, roads have been completed to Ucluelet and Bamfield since the ferry began its service.

In addition to local support for the service, the Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau has appealed to the government to continue the subsidy.

JOHN ERB
. . . new chief

LIONEL HART
. . . new deputy

Victoria Man Civil Defence Co-Ordinator

Native-born Victorian John Erb, 55, of 2183 Beach, today became B.C. co-ordinator of civil defence, replacing James Lister, who died last month.

Mr. Erb has been associated with provincial civil defence since May 1961, when he was named deputy co-ordinator and public relations chief.

He attended Victoria schools and a Chicago technical school and was associated with the brewing business in the Kootenays before returning to Victoria.

He was active in community affairs in the Interior of B.C. but latterly has devoted himself to civil defence.

Lionel Hart, 49, director of training, since 1957, becomes deputy co-ordinator.

Born in Hobart, Tasmania, in 1915, Mr. Hart was educated in South Africa and England, graduated from Royal Military College for service with the British army and attended staff college at Quetta.

In 1951 he joined the Port of London Authority and five years later came to B.C. civil defence as operations officer.

Mr. Lister had served as co-ordinator since early in 1961, replacing G. A. McCarter, who died shortly after his retirement.

Exceptional Performance

A small audience responded enthusiastically to the premier performance of the Harvard Glee Club and the Radcliffe Choral Society in the Royal Theatre Tuesday night.

It was the first of a series of Canadian concerts given by the 90-voice group, of which the Harvard Glee Club is the oldest college chorus in the United States.

The singing was notable for its tonal quality and excellent teamwork under the conductorship of Elliot Forbes, assisted by Albert L. Blackwell and Cecelia Miles.

Outstanding was a group of three madrigals saluting the first Queen Elizabeth and the present Queen. Fair Nymph I heard one telling (John Farmer) and The Lady Oriana (John Wilbye) were written for Queen Elizabeth I; the third, Silence and Music (Ralph Vaughan Williams) honored the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II.

BOATMAN'S DANCE

The Harvard Glee Club gave a splendid performance of The Boatman's Dance, a rollicking minstrel song, in which Robert McKelvin sang the solo passages.

The glee club and choral society were effectively combined in Les Deux Cities (Darius Milhaud) and Lark (Aaron Copland.)

The choral society excelled in their performance of Tumbling Hair and Bought Locks (Peter Mennin) and I Know Where I'm Going (arr. Colman.)

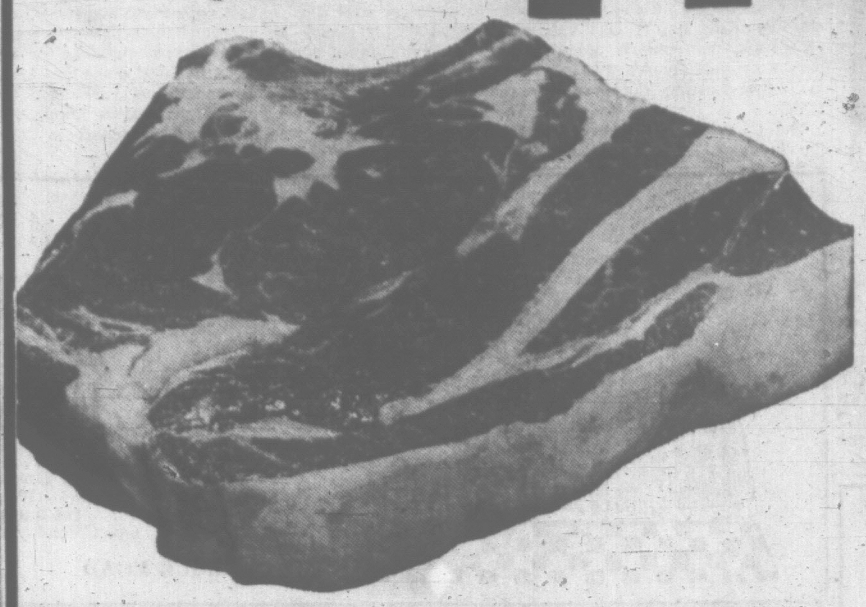

The one-night performance was presented under auspices of Greater Victoria Celebrations Association.

Founded in 1858, the Harvard Glee Club abandoned college songs for great choral music in 1912. It appeared first with the Boston Symphony Orchestra in 1917 and toured Europe in 1921.

The singers appeared in Vancouver Wednesday night and will travel eastward across Canada.

U.S. Planning New Measures Against Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government is expected to seek a new indictment soon against the Communist party in the U.S. which has refused to register as an agent of the Soviet Union.

This, it was learned, is the course most likely to be followed by the justice department in reaction to a court decision upsetting a 1961 conviction of the party on the same charge.

Government sources indicated the new indictment will be painstakingly timed — possibly this summer—to allow the government to avoid the pitfall which won the Communists a reversal of the 1961 conviction.

At that time, the party was convicted of failing to register with the attorney-general, as required by the U.S. Internal Security Act of 1950, and sentenced to pay a $120,000 fine—$10,000 each of 11 days past the deadline in which the party failed to register, and $10,000 for failing to file a registration statement.

The U.S. Court of Appeals reversed the conviction last December. A three-judge panel decided that the party officers who should have registered had the constitutional right to protect themselves from self - incrimination. The panel held further that the burden was on the government to prove that there was someone available to voluntarily register the party — someone who would not be concerned with possible self-incrimination.

NEED NOT JOIN

The government, demanding full-court reconsideration, said the law requires that the party be registered, not that the person who performs the registration be a member of the party.

The government made it clear that it felt the party's use of the fifth amendment to the U.S. constitution was a sham. It said the party, through its wide - open propaganda program, never has hesitated to be represented in public by its officials, who clearly label themselves members of the party party and disregard the possibility of self-incrimination.

Nevertheless, the court refused to reconsider the decision. And the Supreme Court, when the department took its case there, also declined to review it.

The loss was a bitter pill. It had taken more than 10 years of litigation before the Supreme Court, in June 1961, upheld the constitutionality of an order of the subversive activities control board, which had found that the party was a Communist-action group, dominated and controlled by Russia.

The justice department still is considering what new steps to take against the party, in the light of the court of appeals decision. It has been studying two principal alternatives —whether to indict the party again or to retry the old indictment.

The latter would require the government to prove that a volunteer was available, back in 1961, to register the party. That course of action would be enormously complicated and tenuous, at best, in the courts.

That's why, it was learned, government experts are nearly sold on the reindictment — and on this unusual plan:

—To seek out a volunteer, be he lawyer, newspaper man or other unaffiliated individual.

—To inform the party, somehow, that a volunteer is ready, willing and qualified to register it.

—To give the party a reasonable time to take up the offer and register.

—To go before a grand jury, should the party balk, and obtain a new indictment.

The official decision, of course, won't be disclosed until the indictment is returned.

Once registered, the party—as the only Communist action group in the United States — would be required to make available its records, report its finances, label its publications and in other ways disclose to the government virtually every move it makes.

It's for that reason that the party—already whittled down to less than 10,000 members—is fighting to the last ditch to avoid formally registering with the justice department.

City Jaycee Top Talker In Nation

Victoria Jaycee Don Mathison has won the Jaycees' all-Canadian championship in public speaking.

He talked his way into the position this week during a speak-off at Kelowna.

Using the topic "Biculturalism in Canada," the same subject he used to win the Western Canada championship in Calgary last month, he defeated John Wright of Kitchener, Ont.

The two finalists presented their speeches at the Junior Chambers' national convention.

Mr. Mathison is a past president of the Victoria association.

British Bookies May Limit Bets After the Great Coup

. . . PULLS A DOG-GONE DANDY

LONDON (AP) — Bewildered British bookies are considering limiting bets on dog races after a brilliantly organized betting coup threatened them with losses of at least £10,000,000.

The bookmakers refused to pay off and are busy working out plans to prevent similar coups in the future.

The coup was pulled off Tuesday at a small suburban dog racing track by a ruthlessly efficient syndicate. It was staged on the parimutuel forecast pool, where bettors try to pick the winner and second dog in a six-dog field.

The gang bet heavily on 24 combinations they expected to lose, thus building up a big parimutuel pool. On the remaining six combinations—covering three dogs — they took only one ticket each. The result was that the parimutuel odds paid a fantastic 9,872-1.

More than 50 tough-looking men monopolized the 31 betting windows at the track keeping most other bettors from affecting the odds. Meanwhile, other members of the gang placed bets with bookies throughout Britain on the winning combination.

Because of the gang's activities at the track the odds on the winning combination remained abnormally high.

Both at the track and outside there were some genuine bettors who stumbled on to the winning combination without having any part in the plot. Now there is a dispute about whether these people will be paid.

The difficulty is to determine the difference between a genuine bettor and one of the gang.

Jack Swift, a big London bookmaker, said: "We are not paying anyone over this race. From today all greyhound bets will be subject to a limit of £10 for a two-shilling stake."

Betting shop magnate Joe Coral said: "We will be having another meeting of the top bookmakers very soon to formulate plans to combat these betting coups."

As the bookies scratched their heads for a solution and genuine bettors clamored for payment, an inquiry into the coup got under way at the track.

Among genuine bettors who wondered whether they had landed a fortune was London coalman Brian Harding.

He spent his last £2 on a forecast on the winning combination and stood to win £10,000 if the bookies pay out.

"I went wild when the result of the race was announced. But then came the official announcement that no money was to be paid out pending further investigations," Harding said.

Under Britain's Gaming Act legislation, a bettor cannot sue a bookie or vice versa.

STOLLE SHOCKS McKINLEY

Marg Gains Momentum In Bid for 'Big Slam'

(Times News Services)

WIMBLEDON, England — Margaret Smith of Australia continued her relentless drive toward the "big slam" of amateur tennis today when she defeated Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., 6-3, 6-4, to move into the finals of the Wimbledon championships.

Billie Jean's volleying, normally her most devastating weapon, deserted her and although she continued to scramble against the more powerful Australian girl, she was thoroughly outplayed.

Thus the United States was left without a single representative in either the men's or women's singles. Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Tex., was eliminated in the men's semi-finals by Australian Fred Stolle wednesday.

PLAYS BUENO

In the finals on Saturday, Miss Smith, the defending champion, will meet Maria Bueno of Brazil. Miss Bueno, champion in 1959 and 1960, became the other finalist when she scored a 3-6, 6-4, 6-4 victory over Lesley Turner of Australia.

Margaret already has won the Australian, French and Italian titles this year and needs only the Wimbledon and United States championships to become the first woman ever to complete a "big slam" of the world's major tournaments in a single year.

Stolle, 25, eliminated his 23-year-old American opponent in a semifinal match by winning 4-6, 10-8, 9-7, 6-4, in a grim two-hour and 23-minute power battle on a sun-baked court.

EMERSON MOVES

Roy Emerson, the No. 1 seed who meets Stolle for the championship, earned his berth Wednesday with a 6-3, 15-13, 6-0 victory over unseeded Wilhelm Bungert of West Germany.

In last year's final McKinley defeated Stolle to take the championship and the Aussie wasn't supposed to do as well this year. The Wimbledon committee seeded him sixth. McKinley was the No. 2 seed.

The Emerson-Stolle match is expected to prove somewhat embarrasing for the Australian Lawn Tennis Association, which banned the pair from Australia's 1964 Davis Cup team for ignoring a decree that players should not compete abroad before March 31.

The Aussie rebels are here on their own and are not sponsored by the Australian association.

In women's play Wednesday, Miss Moffitt teamed with Karen Susman, also of the U.S., in the semifinals of the women's doubles. They defeated Americans Donna Fales and Belmar Gunderson 6-2, 6-3.

LACKED SPARKLE

Stolle's play Wednesday showed the Wimbledon officials and McKinley he is a vastly better player than a year ago, although McKinley did not show the sparkle that won him the Wimbledon crown.

McKinley had trouble with his service throughout, double-faulted eight times and missed a set point at a vital stage of the third-set. The point in the 10th game of the third set cost him his title.

Fleming Wins At Cowichan

DUNCAN—Gorge Vale's Bob Fleming dropped a tricky four-foot putt on the 36th green to force a playoff, then won top honors in the annual Cowichan Open golf tournament on the first extra hole Wednesday.

The one-time professional, who declined a prize because of the possibility of returning to amateur ranks, defeated Cedar Hill pro Dick Munn in the sudden-death playoff.

Both had scored two-under-par 142s to tie for first. Former B.C. amateur champion Bill Wakeham, also of Gorge Vale, finished third with an even-par 144.

Royal Colwood's Roger Ross captured low net honors, finishing in front of Gorge Vale's Dave Fanthorpe and Dick White of Cowichan.

Fleming won the playoff when Munn three-putted the first playoff hole.

Coast Rower In Semi-Finals

HENLEY ON THAMES (CP) John Lecky of Vancouver and John Roche Kiely of the United States rowed easily into the semi-finals of the Silver Goblets for paired oars at the Henley Royal Regatta today.

Rowing for the Leander Club of England, the two North Americans defeated M. J. Theaker and P. J. Phillips of the Derby Rowing Club by four lengths.

Their time was eight minutes 21 seconds over the one-mile, 550-yard course.

Kiely and Lecky, both students at Cambridge University, are perhaps the strongest pair rowing in Britain today.

Their time was well outside the record 7:48 which they set in winning the first round of the event Wednesday.

GUSTY BREEZE

A gusty breeze blew up across the Thames River and conditions on the second day of the four-day regatta did not favor more records.

In a surprise victory, Groton School of Massachusetts defeated Britain's Eton College by three lengths in the second round of the Princess Elizabeth Challenge Cup for schoolboy eights.

This is the first year that the Princess Elizabeth Challenge Cup has been open for non-British crews.

In the first round of the Grand Challenge Cup, a powerful Soviet eight defeated the Harvard Junior Varsity crew by 30 yards in a time of 6:30, equalling the record set for the event in 1957.

The Soviet crew, Club Zjalghiris Viljijus of Lithuania, had been favorites to win the first-round clash.

If they win the Grand Challenge Cup, they are expected to represent the Soviet Union at the Olympic Games in Tokyo this October.

RUSSIANS WIN EASILY

The official verdict on the race was that the Russians won "easily"—the polite Henley way of saying that the margin was too big to mention.

In the Diamond Challenge Sculls, Peter Johnson, the U.S. national champion in the 150-pound category, romped to an easy victory over Australia's Gerry Hubbard to reach the semi-finals.

The American's time was a leisurely 9:01 and the official verdict was that he won "easily." The record for the event is 7:54 set Wednesday by Seymour Cromwell of the United States.

SUCCUMBS

Race car driver Glen "Fireball" Roberts died today of burns received May 24 in stock car race at Charlotte, N.C. Roberts was burned over 75 per cent of his body as a result of a three-car wreck.

Money and Machines All Around Speedway

The prize money was spread around, and so were the cars at a special holiday meet at Western Speedway Wednesday night.

The only double winner of the night was Fred Issacson who took the trophy dash and the first heat for jalopies. Issacson also chipped two hundreds of a second off the track record, setting a new jalopy time of 22:54.

The jalopy main event was a wild affair, with 22 cars starting and only six surviving the spin-out and crashes. Two cars rolled over.

Bill Smith took the modified main event, his first win of the year. Dennis Praud won the modified trophy dash, and Murray Nixon took the third jalopy heat.

Vavina Cooper, daughter of sports car driver Dave Cooper, showed the 1,800 spectators she has some of her father's talents by winning the powder puff derby against 14 other contenders.

Champs 'Serious' About the Game

VANCOUVER—The three-way traffic jam on top of the Inter-City Lacrosse League standings seems to have the defending Canadian champions worried.

Vancouver, the 1963 Mann Cup champion, is calling its veterans back into the fold to do something about New Westminster and challenging Victoria.

All-star goalie Merv Schweitzer was back in the nets for the first time this season Tuesday as Vancouver dumped Nanaimo 11-7 to snap a four-game losing streak.

John Cervi will be back when the clubs play again Saturday at Nanaimo, Fred Usselman is in uniform again, Bill Barbour is attending practices, and Wayne Pecknold is expected back any day.

Vancouver regulars are still holding their own, however, as individual scoring leader Sid Warick fired two goals against Nanaimo to bring his points total to 60.

Gordie Gimple collected two goals and two assists to tie New Westminster's Paul Parnell for second place.

B.C. Field Hockey Teams Win, Draw

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. teams tied one game and won another Wednesday in the first round of Olympic field hockey trials here.

In the first game Alberta came from behind to tie the B.C. "A" team 2-2, and in the second the B.C. "B" team defeated an eastern Canadian representative team 2-1.

Today, Alberta plays the "B" team and Eastern Canada plays the "A" team.

Barry Provides Spark As Irish Roll to Fifth Straight Victory

Westminster 5, Shamrocks 10

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Diehard Victoria Shamrock supporters didn't take too kindly last season when Inter-City Lacrosse League selectors snubbed Barry Ashbee at all-star picking time.

So the tub-thumpers are coming out early this time around.

Big Barry stirred some of them Wednesday as the hot Rocks reeled off their fifth straight victory, and their 11th in 15 games. The score was 10-5, New Westminster the victim.

Besides being the hottest entry in league, Shamrocks are the biggest. They also have more depth and balance than one was permitted to see in the green-and-white at any time during the past six, or so, years.

Goalie Skip Chapman looms as another potential all-star candidate, but Barry Ashbee still has to be considered as an important leaders of the revival.

Because the rugged defenceman is consistently good, the Shamrocks stand knocking at the door of opportunity.

With Wednesday's big victory, Shamrocks moved a point past Vancouver and to within two of Jack Byford's pace-setting Westminster crew. Wednesday's rivals pick up again tonight in New Westminster, and the Shamrocks have high hopes of muscling into a share of the league lead.

BARRY ASHBEE
. . . shows the way

Moves Not Dazzling, But Effective

Ashbee, voted the most valuable player on the team last year, Ed Kowalyk and Jack Showers set the defensive pace for Victoria's latest triumph.

Offensively, it was Ashbee who stood tallest. He hasn't the most exciting goal-scoring moves, but you can't rap his effectiveness.

The rugged defenceman scored two goals. They rate as the key ones that helped the Rocks to pull away for good.

Barry's first, polishing off a fine move by Jim McNeill, came in the dying seconds of the second quarter. It gave Victoria a two-goal cushion (6-4) with which to start the final half.

Each team counted once in the third, so that cushion remained for the start of the fourth and final quarter. When Ashbee made it 8-5 at 6:43 of the period, the handwriting went up on New Westminster's wall.

Ed's Parting Shot Was a Good One

Ed Kowalyk, appearing in what is to be his last home game before leaving for a tour of Europe, capped his night's chore with two goals. Singles were credited to Bill Gray, Don Ashbee, Dick Crompton, Jim McNeill, Ray Beech and Rod Kilduff, the latter recruited from junior ranks.

Cliff Sepka, with two, Paul Parnell, Ron Loftus and Bill Wilkes hit for Byford's bunch.

Chapman turned in another fine performance for the Rocks, and it helped him move ahead of Westminster's Les Norman in the goal-tending race. Chapman blocked 20 shots, Norman 28. Both included several big stops in their totals.

Despite the hard checks tossed around, it was a relatively clean game. The crowd—2,639 paid—didn't appear over-appreciative of the officiating, but the Shamrocks came out on top this time.

Victoria was assessed 12 minutes, Westminster 26. The mainland team's total included a match misconduct to Terry McKibbon. That means McKibbon will sit out tonight's game.

Westminster is still without the ailing Jack (sore back) Bionda, and Victoria may also encounter manpower problems tonight.

Bill Munroe remains on the sidelines and will be joined by Showers.

Classed as "doubtful" are playing-coach Don Ashbee and Crompton. Ashbee played with a touch of the flu Wednesday while Crompton came up an arm injury.

Baseball Fans Riot In Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — Tokyo is spending some $62,000,000 to stage the 1964 Olympic Games—and 30 times that much to face-lift the city before an expected 30,000 foreign visitors descend on it.

The expenditures include $25,500,000 in Olympic operating expenses and another $35,750,000 for building, expanding and renovating game sites.

In addition, $1,861,000,000 is being spent on improvement projects related to the games—$647,000,000 for new subway construction, $469,000,000 for road construction and improvement, $80,000,000 for railway improvement and $57,000,000 for airport improvement.

Also included is $93,000,000 in subsidies for hotels and inns, where a crash building program was necessary to provide living space for games visitors and $66,000,000 for improvement of communication and broacasting facilities.

Housewife Gets Job Done Fast

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver housewife Wednesday broke the Canadian women's open 100 metres record at an all-comers track and field meet here.

Mrs. Irene Piotrowski, 23, who runs against boys for competition and is coached by her husband, won the race in 11.7 seconds.

Her time was one-tenth of a second better than the recognized mark set by Nancy Lewington of Hamilton in 1960.

It is not known if the record will stand.

Mrs. Piotrowski, a stocky woman with long, quick strides, has had trouble getting competition this year, and because of the lack of female opponents, she has done much of her running in exhibition races against boys.

She shares the Canadian women's open 100 yards record of 10.7 seconds with Yvonne Breeden of North Vancouver.

New Golf Competition

Mrs. M. Green and Mrs. C. Valo of Royal Colwood Golf Club won the inaugural Vancouver Island senior ladies' buttons match, defeating Gorge Vale's Mrs. R. Saunders and Mrs. G. Pumfrey.

LIONS SIGN HOLDOUTS ON WHARF

'Hurry, Will Y'a? The Boat's Leavin'!'

COURTENAY (Special) — It was close but all the B.C. Lions are in the fold.

Guard Steve Cotter and defensive halfback Neal Beaumont were still holdouts Wednesday as other players and tons of equipment were being loaded on the ferry at Vancouver.

Beaumont signed his contract just in time to catch the boat.

Cotter signed too, but by this time the ferry was on its way.

He was flown to the Vancouver Island camp where the Lions will drill until July 11.

The contract hassles and other arrangements took longer than expected and forced cancellation of workouts here. The Lions get down to twice-a-day sessions today.

Their biggest pre-camp announcement concerned the signing of corner linebacker Paul Seale to a five-year pact, the longest ever given a Canadian player in Canadian football.

A product of Vancouver College and Oregon State University, Seale was runnerup to Peter Kempf, Lions' kicking specialist, as Western Football Conference Rookie-of-the-Year.

Elsewhere on the Canadian football scene . . .

Edmonton Eskimos regained a valuable commodity—a top Canadian prospect—when tackle Tom Machan, 21, 6'3", 270-pounds, changed his mind after telling the club he was giving up football "for personal reasons."

Coach Neil Armstrong said he was happy to see Machan return to the team's closed training camp at Holy Redeemer College but would have to fine him for four day's absence.

The fine usually amounts to $25 or $50 per day.

One the Esks didn't get back was Mike Peterson, an end from Spokane's Whitworth College. Peterson said he was leaving to be married.

Regina coach Bob Shaw doesn't believe in wasting time.

SHAW HAS ROUGHIES HITTING

He had his Roughriders don pads and move right into hitting drills July 1 as camp officially opened.

Shaw plans no player cuts until after the inter-squad game July 14, but two players have left voluntarily. They were import quarterback Gerry Gross from University of Detroit and George Paddington, a junior.

Two others are missing. Defensive end Ron Meadmore, tied up with crops at his farm outside Winnipeg, was classified as a holdout. So was Al Benecik, All-Star tackle. He has asked for his release to play with New York Titans of the AFL but the Roughriders indicate they are not interested in obliging him.

Ottawa Rough Riders gave ace quarterback Russ Jackson a two-year contract with a "hefty increase" and announced the signing of four other veterans.

Linemen Kaye Vaughan, Roger Kramer, Jim Cain and fullback Jack Nichols penned their signatures to Ottawa pacts.

Grand National 'Loses' Aintree

LONDON (CP) — It's the end of the trail for Aintree, home of the most celebrated steeplechase of them all.

"There was nothing like it and nothing can ever take its place," commented jockey John Lawrence, expressing what many others felt in the wake of the death - knell announcement for the famous old course on the fringes of Liverpool.

Mrs. Mirabel Topham, the formidable and strong - willed woman who runs Aintree, announced Wednesday night that the 1965 Grand National will be the last to be run there. The course is being sold for a housing development. The national may be transferred to Ascot.

BOTH GETTING OLDER

"I believe in facing facts," said Mrs. Topham. "Racing is in rather a sorry state and the buildings, like myself, are getting older and older." Mrs. Topham is 72.

The Grand National was first run in 1839. Its 4½ miles and 30 intimidating fences are regarded as a tremendous test of horse and rider. And the history of the race glistens with famous names—Tipperary Tim, Battleship, Golden Miller and many others.

The atmosphere won't be the same at Ascot. For one thing, it is only 1¼ miles in circumference. And there is nothing to compare with Becher's Brook, that towering fence named for the British Army captain who catapulted off his horse into the watery ditch, and so the story goes, complained:

"How dull all this water is without brandy!"

The passing of Aintree is part of a national trend. Its 270 acres of open land are cheek to jowl with an exploding metropolis.

The green acres, surrounded by canals and railways, are urgently needed for houses and factories. So Aintree goes the way of Hurst Park in London, whose home stretch now is a housing estate. Developers are also looking closely at two other famous courses, London's Alexandra Park, universally known as "Ally Pally," and Sandown Park in Surrey.

One result of recent racing takeovers may be a greater centralization in Britain, with fewer courses concentrated in a smaller area and having many more racing days each year. At present there are some 50 tracks, some of which operate only two or three times a year.

BABY ROCKS TO WIND UP HOME STAND

Victoria Junior Shamrocks, who have clinched an Inter-City Junior Lacrosse League playoff berth, play their last home game of the regular season tonight.

Shamrocks take on last-place Norburns at Memorial Arena, starting at 8 p.m.

Victoria Leading Virtue Cup Series

Victoria's cricketers have taken a big step forward in their bid to capture the Virtue Cup from Vancouver.

The local side defeated a short-handed mainland select by six runs Wednesday at Beacon Hill Park in the first of the home-and-home Inter-City series. Victoria needs only a draw in the return game on Labor Day to grab the cup from defending Vancouver.

Victoria, batting first, started slowly. Down five for 51 at one time, the local side recovered to finish up with 131, thanks to brilliant innings by John Moss.

The Alco star hit out a beautiful 41. Sam Jackson added another 14, not out, and last man Ivor Ford contributed a useful 15.

For the visitors, D. Paris took five for 63 and S. Beer three for 32. Ex-Victorian Wallace Tait took two for 17.

Vancouver went in and, like Victoria, also experienced a slow start. Six for 69 at one stage, Vancouver finished up with 125 runs.

Vancouver played with only 10 men when the 11th was unable, at the last minute, to come to Victoria.

Moss also proved a standout bowler, claiming four for 64. Jackson took three for nine.

Koufax Can't Shake Giants' Swift Juan

Pitching Aces Lead Majors With 11 Wins

Associated Press

Sandy Koufax just can't shake Juan Marichal.

Or is it the other way around?

Koufax had his greatest season in 1963, winning 25 games. And so did Marichal.

Now Koufax, with seven straight victories, has brought his victory total for this season to 11. And so has Marichal.

Marichal, the right-handed ace of the National League-leading San Francisco Giants, got in a little earlier this time, becoming the majors' first 11-game winner in a 2-1 day game victory over Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday.

Koufax, the lefthanded ace of the eighth-place Los Angeles Dodgers, followed suit in a 3-2 night game triumph over Philadelphia that dropped the second-place Phillies 1½ games behind the Giants.

Neither had an easy time of it. Marichal, 11-3 on the season, was touched for eight hits. Koufax, 11-4, allowed five, including a two-run homer by John Callison that provided the Phillies with an early lead.

STRIKES OUT 10

Downing the Phillies for the eighth straight time, including last month's no-hitter, Koufax struck out 10 batters—the fifth time this season he has accomplished that feat and the 56th time in his career.

Besides Koufax and Marichal, two other pitchers who will be on the National League All-Star team—Chicago's Dick Ellsworth and Houston's Dick Farrell—went after victory No. 11. Neither got it.

Pete Rose's homer in the 10th inning made Ellsworth a loser as Cincinnati edged the Cubs 6-5. Farrell was tagged hard, but escaped without a defeat as New York Mets pounded out 16 hits and whipped the Colts 8-6.

SIMMONS WINS

In the other NL game, Curt Simmons won his ninth as St. Louis Cardinals belted Milwaukee Braves 6-1.

Marichal got all the support he needed in the first two innings as Willie Mays cracked his 23rd homer in the first inning and the Giants scored again in the second against Bob Veale on consecutive doubles by Del Crandall and Jose Pagan.

In the American League, Baltimore Orioles defeated Los Angeles Angels 4-2, Kansas City Athletics edged New York Yankees 5-4 in 11 innings, Chicago White Sox nipped Washington Senators 8-6 and 2-1 and Minnesota Twins bombed Boston Red Sox 14-3.

Buddy Austin and Don Leo Jonathan go at it Saturday night in the main event of the professional wrestling card at Memorial Arena.

Al Costello takes on Roy McClarty, Roy Heffernan goes against Bearcat Wright, and "Gorilla" Marconi battles Ted Christy in the preliminaries, starting at 8:15.

TWELVE-YEAR-OLD MISS NETS 60-POUND SALMON

ANACORTES, Wash. (AP)—It took 30 minutes of hard work but Terri Ensign reeled in the largest king (spring) salmon of the year Tuesday in Puget Sound near Hope Island.

It weighed 60½ pounds and measured 40½ inches long.

Terri, by the way, is 12 years old, weighs only 70 pounds, and is 58 inches tall. She is the daughter of Bob Ensign of Everett.

TOURNEY THREATS

The Glove Men Deserve a Hand

If the hitters and pitchers can keep pace with the glove men, Greaves' All-Stars will be a tough team to kayo in the forthcoming baseball tournament at Royal Athletic Park.

The Senior Amateur League's $1,000 tournament — an eight-team squabble for the prize-money — starts Friday evening with Greaves facing Chemainus, Victoria McLarens, Vancouver Boilermakers, Haney-Hammond, Port Moody, Vancouver O'Keefes and Courtenay step up for their first-round swings on Saturday. The tournament will wind up on Sunday.

BRILLIANT FIELDING

Victoria's two entries went through warmup motions Wednesday afternoon. The Greaves squad nipped Jim Moody's McLarens 5-3 with thanks, in the main, to some brilliant glove work.

Almost everyone got into the act, but the usually-unheralded defensive players stole the show. Greaves' infielders reeled off four snappy double-plays, all instigated by slick-moving Larry Montgomery.

Tom Moore sparked the hitters, banging out two doubles and a single in five trips up for Greaves.

Mainland Trio Scores Twin Tennis Triumphs

Maureen Watts and Bob Moffatt of the Vancouver Tennis Club and Susan Eager of the Jericho Club each won two events as play concluded Tuesday in the fifth Pacific Regional Junior Tennis Championships.

Moffatt defeated Bob Bardsley in the boys' under-18 final, 6-3, 7-9, 6-1, in one of the best matches of the entire tournament. Moffatt scored repeatedly with a fine back-hand which, together with a steady all-around game, finally prevailed against his heavy-hitting opponent.

Bardsley and Moffatt later combined to win the under-18 doubles, playing their best tennis of the tournament to decisively defeat Dave Cox of the Jericho Club and Vic Rawlings of the Vancouver Club 6-1, 6-2 in a sparkling final.

Attractive Maureen Watts defeated her twin sister Lindsay, 7-5, 6-4, to win the under-18 girls' singles. Both girls hit very hard in a final which produced exciting rallies and many errors. The twins played together to take the under-18 doubles, winning from Marg Maysmith and Theodora Booker of the Racquet Club, 6-2, 6-1.

SKILLINGS WINS

Victoria's Roger Skillings retained his under-14 singles title by easily defeating Ted Kaplan of Vancouver, 6-0, 6-0. Both these boys are left-handers.

Dave Rollins of Vancouver defeated left-hander Geoff Harris of Edmonton, 8-6, 6-1, to win the boys' under-16 singles.

Nancy Green of Toronto, Ontario's leading junior, used a fine forehand to great advantage in winning from Miss Booker of the Oak Bay club 9-7, 3-6, 6-1 in the girls' under-16 final.

Miss Eager retained the girls' under-14 singles championship by taking the measure of Janice Tindle of the Vancouver Lawn, 6-1, 6-3, and later partnering Janice to win the girls' under-16 doubles from Vickie Woodcock and Kerry Holloway of West Vancouver, 6-1, 6-2.

TWINS TRIUMPH

Fair Gordon of Capilano and Tommy Hammill of Edmonton became the tournament's youngest champions, winning the girls' and boys' under-12 singles. Gordon defeated Susan Hogg of the Oak Bay club, 6-1, 6-0, while Tommy defeated Mark Tindle of Vancouver Lawn, 6-3, 6-4.

MEXICAN, NEW ZEALAND CHAMPS TO VISIT B.C.

Mexico and New Zealand both will send two junior tennis champions in July to compete in a series of matches in B.C. and the rest of Canada.

Brian Cavendish, of the B.C. Tennis Patrons Association, said confirmation had been received from Mexican and New Zealand tennis officials.

The Mexican juniors who will come were identified as Marcello Lara, 16, and Luis Garcia, 15, both unbeaten in their age group. The New Zealand representatives were not immediately identified.

Getz in Running For Team Berth

MONTREAL (CP) — Montrealer Mike Carpenter won his two matches Wednesday, the second day of trials being held at the Mount Royal Tennis Club to fill two empty berths on Canada's Davis Cup team.

Carpenter now has four victories to his credit and is the only player to come through the two-day meet without a loss.

He beat Don McCormick of Victoria 6-2, 4-6, 6-4 in his early match and later took Bob Puddicombe of Vancouver 6-1, 6-1.

Montrealer Val Harit and Reider Getz of Vancouver came out of Wednesday's play with three wins and one loss each.

Getz won both his matches, downing Terry O'Donnell of London, Ont., 6-2, 6-4 and Harit 2-6, 6-2, 6-4. Harit defeated Jim Ioanidis, formerly of Winnipeg and now playing for the host club, 6-1, 6-1.

Another winner of two matches was Brian Flood of London, Ont., who dismissed McCormick 6-4, 6-2 and Puddicombe 13-11, 6-1. In Monday's trials, he had lost both matches.

Ioanidis won the final match of the day against O'Donnell 7-5, 6-8, 6-3.

Both Ioanidis and O'Donnell came out of the second day of the matches with two wins and two losses while McCormick and 17-year-old Puddicombe were winless.

Today all eight competitors resume play.

The winners of these trials will join Quebec aces Francois Godbout and Keith Carpenter, currently winding up a European tour, in the Davis Cup tie to be held here against Australia July 17-19.

Visit to Burned Church Began Mississippi Drama

By WILL GRIMSLEY

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) A simple, frame Negro church burned to the ground near here June 17, setting off a chain of events that shook the nation to its capital.

Within less than a week three young civil rights workers disappeared. The burned skeleton of their blue station wagon was pulled from snake - infested swampland 13 miles northeast of this Neshoba County seat.

The FBI took charge of a dawn to dusk search of the red clay hills, thick marshes and pine forests.

President Johnson sent Allen Dulles to Jackson, Miss., to look into the state's racial problems. He ordered 100 navy men and helicopter units to join the hunt.

Meanwhile, eight miles from Philadelphia's red brick court house, a charred bell lay on the ground—all that was left of what once had been the Mount Zion Methodist Church.

On Sunday morning, June 21, Andy Goodman, 20, of New York City, decided he would like to take a look at the burned out Negro church.

MENTIONS HIS IDEA

He and some friends were lounging around the cramped upstairs headquarters of the Council of Federated Organizations, or COFO, in Meridian, Miss., when the idea was mentioned.

COFO consists of a collection of groups dedicated to pushing civil rights in Mississinpi. It is made up predominantly of the Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee plus the Congress of Racial Equality, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

COFO is engaged this summer in co-ordinating the Mississippi summer project which is sponsored by the National Council of Churches. The summer project includes voter registration, establishment of community centres and freedom schools where Negroes learn about citizenship.

Goodman had arrived in Meridian only the night before—one of 175 out-of-state volunteers trained in Oxford, Ohio, to work on voter registration and education projects.

He had two quick takers for his 38-mile expedition into the neighboring county — Mickey Schwerner, 24, of Brooklyn, and James Chaney, 22, a Negro living in Meridian.

It is assumed the three drove to the somewhat isolated area of the burned church and perhaps even questioned some of the Negro residents of the Longdale community, although no one has admitted seeing or talking to them.

ARRESTED FOR SPEEDING

The next person to see the trio was Cecil Price, a deputy assigned to the office of Neshoba County Sheriff L. A. Rainey. He arrested them for speeding.

Goodman, Schwerner and Chaney cooled their heels in the county jail for six hours, but Price explained it was just a case of circumstances.

GOODMAN

SCHWERNER

"To fix bail, I had to get the justice of the peace — that's Judge Tom Warren," the deputy said. "I kept calling the judge and couldn't reach him."

It wasn't until around 10 o'clock that the deputy finally got the judge and bail was set at $20.

"Then I took the boys out to their car, parked about a block from the jail, and watched them get in," Price said. "I asked them where they were going, and they said, 'back to Meridian.'

"I had to go over to State Avenue where I'd heard there had been a lot of drag races, and so I escorted them to the junction at Highway 19. They made a circle and turned south on 19 toward Meridian. I headed for State Avenue. That's the last I saw of them."

FBI MOVES IN

The next morning, Monday, when there was no news of the missing workers, the FBI was placed on the alert and quickly moved on to the scene.

On Tuesday at 2:35 p.m., the FBI in Meridian received a telephone call from a tipster—never identified—who said he had spotted the wreckage of a car off Highway 21, some 13 miles northeast of Philadelphia.

Within minutes, federal, state and local authorities swooped down on the cold murky area where Owl Creek backs away from its bed and forms an unsightly backwater slough.

There they found the station wagon, about 50 feet off the highway, but clearly visible from the road. It was a shell.

The wreckage was cold, indicating it had been burned many hours before.

It was towed to a garage on the edge of Philadelphia where investigators checked every inch of it for possible clues. On Wednesday, the FBI announced it had found no trace of bullet holes or human blood.

ESTABLISH TIME

On Friday the investigators said the station wagon was placed in the swamp between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday.

"We have evidence that a motorist made a turn at 11 o'clock Monday morning near the spot where the station wagon was later found," a state highway patrol investigator said. "The station wagon, which could have been seen easily, was not there at that time.

"Some Choctaw Indians have confessed that they stole a couple of hubcaps off the car at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. They said it was still smoking at the time. So we must assume that the car burned between 11 and 5."

President Johnson sent Dulles to Jackson to confer with Governor Paul B. Johnson, church, civic and business groups. Later, without consulting the governor, he ordered federal forces—in this case sailors from a base at Meridian—to join the search.

The disappearance of the three civil rights workers fanned the flame of racial turbulence previously stoked by integration at the University of Mississippi and the projected summer project for Negro registration and education in the state.

MASSIVE DIRECT ACTION

Negroes to 'Enforce' Rights Bill

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Negro organizations will take "massive direct action" in some southern cities which fail to comply with terms of the civil rights bill, says Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

King, who has been directing segregation demonstrations at St. Augustine, Fla., stopped briefly at his home in Atlanta before continuing to New York for conferences with other civil rights leaders.

He said his Southern Christian Leadership Conference will urge businessmen to comply with the provisions of the bill voluntarily. If they do not, he declared, court action will be taken.

King said the Alabama cities of Montgomery, Tuscaloosa, Gadsden, Birmingham and Selma are being considered at present for demonstrations similar to those at St. Augustine.

In other racial developments, civil rights leaders turned their attention to the national political conventions.

WILL DEMONSTRATE

The head of the Congress of Racial Equality said at Kansas City that his group would demonstrate at both conventions and attempt to unseat the Mississippi delegation to the Democratic convention.

James Farmer, national director of CORE, outlined the group's summer program as the organization's 22nd annual convention got under way.

He said the program would include voter registration drives in Mississippi, Louisiana and north Florida; and a step-up of CORE community centres in Mississippi, especially in central Mississippi where three civil rights workers disappeared recently.

More than 400 navy men continued to search for the three missing men. They searched swamps and bottomlands in Newton County, adjoining Neshoba County where the men disappeared June 21.

Missing are Michael Schwerner, 24, Andrew Goodman, 20, white New Yorkers, and James Chaney, 22, a Negro from nearby Meridian.

Malcolm X, leader of a new civil rights group he calls Afro-American Unity, said his organization has telegraphed King that it is ready to send help to St. Augustine if the federal government does not provide aid.

At a press conference in Omaha, Neb., where he was born, Malcolm X said his people "are ready to give the Ku Klux Klan" a taste of its own medicine in St. Augustine and Mississippi.

"We can send enough help to get results," Malcolm X said. "The day of turning the other cheek to those brute beasts is over. . . .

"It's time to start swinging. The only thing that stops a man with a shotgun is another man with a shotgun.

"It's ridiculous to send our people into an area and tell them to be peaceful when they are confronted there by blue-eyed whites armed with the most vicious weapons imaginable."

At St. Augustine, a group of the city's leading businessmen met and pledged anew to abide by the civil rights bill when it becomes law. They were backed by a resolution from the chamber of commerce.

UNIONIST FEARS SO

Strike-Breaking Role for LRB?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Labor leader Pat O'Neal said Tuesday the Labor Relations Board is in danger of becoming a strike-breaking instrument of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Company.

Mr. O'Neal, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labour (CLC), said the board will be put in the position of legalizing strike-breaking if it finds in favor of company in hearings next month.

He was referring to a board decision to hold hearings July 7 on MacMillan-Bloedel charges of restricting production against four unions involved in the costly strike against company operations in Port Alberni.

FOUR UNIONS

The charge is laid under the Labor Relations Act against locals of the International Woodworkers of America, International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mills Workers, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the United Paper Makers and Paper Workers Union.

Three thousands members of those unions have refused to cross picket lines of 49 striking members of local 15 of the Office Employees International Union which is striking for union security. The strike started in May.

Mr. O'Neal asked that all elements of organized labor send the strongest possible protests to Premier Bennett and Labor Minister Peterson "stressing that under no circumstances is the government or Labor Relations Board to be used as an instrument by J. V. Clyne and his associates to endorse strike breaking."

J. V. Clyne is chairman of the board of the company.

FOOD SHIPPED

Meanwhile the federation said it has sent three truckloads of food supplies—from Vancouver, Victoria and Nanaimo—to the workers in Port Alberni.

Lloyd Wishard, third vice-president of the federation and chairman of the relief committee, said union members have donated about $10,000 toward relief of the strike victims.

The money was used to buy meat and other perishable food in Port Alberni. The food is distributed by the trucks.

"The local merchants are being so good to the strikers that we want to spend all the money with them."

CENTRAL JUNIOR

40 Named In List Of Awards

Top senior scholar at Central Junior Secondary School in 1963-64 was Elizabeth Dunn, who was recognized with nearly 40 others in the school's closing exercises.

The grade 10 student also won an award for language proficiency, and head division one.

Andrew Schroeder was named top leader of the school, winning the Arthur Hunkin trophy. His name was also added to the grade 10 scholastics achievement roll and he was leading student of division two.

Citizenship awards went to Richard Couch, who was also leading boy athlete, and Gillian Wallace, who won a French government award for proficiency in French and made the grade 10 honor roll.

Leading girl athlete was Kathryn Holborn, who with Richard Couch, won trophies offered in their categories for the first time.

Other winners were William McQuade, for progress; Arthur Chin, Foxgord safety patrol; Robin Paterson, French award; Margaret Kelley, library reading; Andrew Wharton, F. G. Ward band trophy; Irene Gamey, Canadian history award from IODE; William McQuade, art award; Robin Paterson, commerce; Susan Bancroft, home economics; Cedric Zala, industrial education; Diane Hayward, music;

The memory of Mrs. Margaret Jenkins was perpetuated last week with prize-giving held in the school of her name.

Patricia Ingram was given the Margaret Jenkins prize for proficiency by school trustee Edward Wood in the school's grade seven awards day.

Mrs. Jenkins was a beloved school trustee some 50 years ago when the school was built and the award has been given for almost as long.

Traffic awards, activities crests and sports awards were given in a ceremony held in the school auditorium, attended by guests Tony Lort, Mrs. A. Leacock, Walter Boyes, Mrs. Leslie Macdonnell, Mrs. R. T. Ober and Cons. Ray Thomas.

Jeanne Boldt and Robert Fish were winners of intra-school cups for sports; Julie Thomson won the social studies prize; citizenship awards were given to Fred Cliff (Muncy shield) and Maxine Peach (Marshall shield).

Craft Classes All Together At Mt. Newton

Preparations are being made to house all School District 63 occupational classes in Mount Newton Junior Secondary School in September, board chairman Reginald Sinkinson said today.

The program involves remodelling temporary army huts and completion of a ground-level addition to the main building for industrial education and home economics classes.

Tenders were called today for the construction work, planned by architects Peterson and Lester.

Bids will be opened July 14 by school trustees.

Work on the main building involves interior finishing and partitioning of a 12-foot "crawl space" beneath the school.

This will be made accessible to the interior and ground level by means of an outside stairwell.

All home economics classes will be located in this area on its completion.

Industrial education classes will be housed in the renovated army huts.

Ranchers Name New President

British Columbia cattle rancher, Gordon H. Parke, has been elected president of the 1200-members B.C. Beef Cattle Growers' Association.

Retiring president, Harold Allison of Princeton, has been elected an Honorary President of the Association.

Newly elected vice-president is Brigadier W. N. Bostock of Pritchard, B.C.

Interest Raise Feared Unless Banks Multiply

If the government removes the six per cent ceiling on bank loans, competition, in the form of more banking institutions will be necessary to prevent a strong rise in interest rates.

This was predicted on Tuesday by Peter Paul Saunders, president of Laurentide Financial Corporation Ltd., Vancouver, at a joint luncheon meeting of Victoria Kiwanis Club and Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Saunders said he favors removal of the ceiling, as recommended by the Royal Commission on Banking and Finance.

But he believed the step would be self defeating if not accompanied by action to increase competition through the creation of more banking institutions.

SEEK CHARTER

Mr. Saunders heads a group seeking a charter for the Laurentide Bank of Canada. This application has passed second reading in the Senate and is now being considered in committee.

He said some bankers seem to be interpreting the Royal Commission's recommendation for increased competition in the lending field as "more competition among the existing banks."

But, he declared, "Canada is badly served by narrow-minded and self-promoting spokesmen" who say there is no need for new banks to serve the specialized needs of western business.

DISPUTES THEORY

He told the meeting: "Certain important Eastern businessmen and politicians have made strong statements to the effect that a bank head office, whether in Toronto or Montreal, does as much for the West as a bank with a head office in Vancouver would.

"I think only an Easterner could come up with such a conclusion."

He said: "Since the persons making these statements have never lived in British Columbia, they can hardly be considered experts on the economic problems of this area.

"The very fact that they so confidently express their opinion is to me an indication of their lack of appreciation of the facts as they exist."

He also questioned the claim that Canadian banks have so many branches that all citizens are being well served with banking facilities.

"Opportunity, rather than need, should dictate the number of competitors in any given field," he declared.

Canadian Missionary Still Missing

OTTAWA (UPI)—A Canadian missionary missing in the Congo for more than two weeks still has not been located, an external affairs department official said Wednesday.

Robert L. Greenhow, 45, a native of Windsor, Ont., who has been in the The Congo for 18 years, stayed behind in Albertville when the area was overrun by rebels.

His wife and two children, Virginia, 12, and Richard, 6, are believed to have been evacuated.

There have been no communications for some time to Albertville where Greenhow operated a religious book store.

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin said all effort would be made to ensure the safety of Canadian civilians remaining in the Congo after the withdrawal of United Nations troops.

But he "regretted" to report there were already persons missing.

Department officials, however, said they have learned of no further missing Canadians.

Vancouver Island Revisited

FRIENDLY COVE—Here where it all began, where the two cultures met, a boat puts out from the beach below the forlorn straggle of houses. It is not a canoe, for those are gone, but a smart white man's toy with an outboard motor on its transom.

It veers in to Uchuck III's black side, neatly handled by a couple of Indian boys, Mrs. Johny Jackson descends a ladder lashed to the lower deck rail. One of Skipper Esson Young's crewmen hands her baggage down, then the plastic 16-footer churns in through the West Coast rain toward the crescent of houses and the three paintless totem poles which no museum has yet bagged.

Mrs. Johnny Williams of the Friendly Cove Nootkas, 65 and dark-haired still, has been strawberry-picking on Vashon Island near Seattle. A recruiting agent of sorts, she's come home to enlist other pickers from her band. If they wish, these casual traders between Canada and the Pacific Northwest states can work on successive berry and tree fruit harvests through summer into fall.

The boat runs its nose into shingle. Mrs. Williams' people stroll down to meet her. They all go up to the houses, and Friendly Cove—its name a mockery on such a day as this—is left to the seabirds and the endless rain.

★ ★ ★

They were a proud and hardy clan once, these Nootkas, great hunters of the sea otter and the whale. But the five-foot otter is gone with his rich pelt, and other craft hunt the few whales remaining, and of Mrs. Johnny Williams' people, only about 150 now live at Friendly Cove.

I found her sitting alone at a little table in Uchuck III's coffee shop as we plowed Muchalat Arm's rain-dimpled calm.

She wore a brown cardigan over a plain, dark dress ornamented only by the pendant that hung from her neck. She was sitting quiet in her corner, hands idle on the table top, looking straight ahead at nothing.

Things haven't gone very well for the Nootkas, she told me, since the cannery closed down and the able-bodied men turned from fish- to logging.

The young ones don't come home very often, especially now they can drink among white men, in the towns.

As for the older Nootkas, said Mrs. Williams in a voice flat and quiet as the grey day around us, they don't see much cash in a year.

The berrying brings in a little, and so does the occasional sale of baskets to tourists.

(We have some of these at home, bought when Nootka cannery along the sound ran full blast through summer into fall. The seiners and tall-poled trollers came and went; the big salmon gleamed in the conveyor, women wore head-kerchiefs colored gay as holiday balloons.)

"It was better," Johnny Williams' wife said, "when we had the cannery."

★ ★ ★

Back along Nootka Sound, the cannery buildings still stand. Grass grows from roofs of some. One day, I suppose, the wreckers will move in for what they can salvage, then the gutted ruin will make a bonfire. Faster transport, improved techniques and the falling-off of the China trade—these have combined to doom the West Coast canneries.

As a girl, Mrs. Williams was fetched from Friendly Cove, her birthplace, to Alberni Residential School.

Her voice warms when she speaks of her strict Presbyterian mentors. "They did a lot for us. Those people really helped the Indians."

Mrs. Williams' husband, Johnny, is 68 years old and in shaky health. He claims to be American born, but has no recorded surname on record. Back when he was born, his wife explains, Indians were given but one name.

This lack of documented birth date and family name, she claims, is making it hard for Johnny to get his pension. He has been in and out of Alberni several times this last year, trying to get things straightened away.

Mrs. Williams' own Christian name is Ada. She and Johnny have two sons and three daughters.

"All married," says Ada, smiling for the first time in our conversation, "and all the boys are working in the woods."

We open Friendly Cove where almost 200 years ago, with song and oration, a gift of sea otter pelts and a scattering of swan's down, Maquinna of the Nootkas welcomed Captain Cook.

Two slattern trollers ride at anchor. The crackerbox houses watch from the foreshore. On the point, the cairn that marks the white man's first landing challenges a hostile sky.

SEVERE HEAD INJURIES were suffered by 11-year-old Buddy Lee of Port Alberni when car driven by his father crossed Island Highway just north of Nanaimo on Wednesday morning and slammed into ditch. Buddy was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital here to be near neurosurgeon, and is in fair condition. His father, Jack Lee, is in Nanaimo General Hospital with broken legs. It was the only severe accident to mar the Dominion Day holiday on the Island. A blowout is suspected to be the cause of the accident. (Agnes Flett photo.)

Fourth Suspect Says 'Guilty'

Bank Holdup Case Nearing Completion

Philip Arthur Carew, fourth man to be arrested in connection with an April 24 Saanich bank robbery, today pleaded guilty.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded the 27-year-old beer parlor waiter one week for sentence.

Three other men have already been sentenced to 10 years each for their part in the $7,300 holdup.

Saanich police say the only thing left to clear up is the location of about a quarter of the loot, "and we're working on that now."

Detective Sergeant Robin Stewart today testified Carew was the bank robber who vaulted the counter and scooped up the cash.

Testimony at the earlier trial of Clarence William Kraft, mastermind of the robbery, was that Carew's .45 automatic was the only gun used in the holdup that would fire.

Two other men went into the Cook Street branch of the Bank of Montreal—Jean Robitaille and Roland Dagenais—but Kraft said he gave them ammunition that did not fit.

In the dock this morning, Carew was dressed in a neat, dark suit and spoke in a low voice.

Det.-Sgt. Stewart testified that Carew went from here to Vancouver, then to Toronto and then to London, Ontario, where he turned himself in to police June 26.

CAREW BROKE

Carew had no money on him, the sergeant said.

No evidence of a previous record was entered, and Carew was remanded to await a presentence report.

Saanich police have recovered about half the loot, and believe about a quarter of it is not recoverable.

Some of that portion was spent, and some of it was restolen in the United States from a girl to whom Dagenais had given some of his share.

Carew is the third man to turn himself in. Robitaille and Dagenais surrendered in Victoria and Detroit respectively, within a week of the robbery.

Kraft was arrested in Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Dagenais and Robitaille both pleaded guilty to armed robbery when arraigned here, and were sentenced to 10-year terms.

Kraft originally pleaded not guilty, then changed his plea after police found him bleeding in his cell, his wrist slashed with a razor blade he apparently had hidden in his clothing.

He too was sentenced to 10 years.

$17 Million Construction In Six Months

Victoria maintained a record construction pace last month, surging ahead of Saanich, the usual leader, at the half-way point in 1964.

Victoria set a new six-months record at $7,955,629 while Saanich, at $6,928,245, was more than $1¼ million behind its own mark of last year.

Oak Bay also fell slightly behind at $1,139,198, but Esquimalt boomed past its 1963 pace with a $1,154,533 total to date.

Compilations of June statistics showed 543 permits were issued by City Hall with a value of $2,551,363 compared with 546 permits worth $2,377,075 a year ago.

LESS PROJECTS

This brought the Victoria totals to date this year to 3,141 permits worth $7,955,629 compared with 3,154 permits worth $7,697,365 for the comparable 1963 period.

Saanich issued 96 permits worth $1,236,425 last month including 48 dwellings valued at $692,100, down from the 111 permits worth $2,089,725 including 47 houses worth $757,800 a year ago.

This brought the half-year totals to 581 permits and $6,928,245 for 1964 compared with 632 and $8,253,772 in 1963.

Last month Oak Bay endorsed 32 permits worth $108,506 including two dwellings valued at $59,700 compared with 32 permits estimated at $194,462 including one house worth $16,000 in June last year.

The totals to date include 214 permits worth $1,139,198 compared with 212 worth $1,213,206 a year ago.

Esquimalt reported 19 permits valued at $130,550, including three houses worth $49,100, were issued last month. In June, 1963, it issued 13 permits worth $16,750 including one house at $13,500.

The six-months figures for this year are 95 permits worth $1,154,537. Last year they were 87 and $828,073.

FIRST WOMAN to be elected chairman of the Victoria Presbytery, United Church of Canada, Rev. E. Laura Butler takes office today. Born in Victoria, Miss Butler was educated in Seattle and graduated from the University of Washington with a BA degree. She has been assistant minister at Metropolitan United Church here since 1954.

No Vacations From Learning At University

Nearly half the winter enrolment of University of Victoria is represented today on campus as 1964 summer session begins.

Most of the 890 men and women taking summer courses are teachers who are extending their qualifications or taking subjects that will put them in closer touch with modern developments in education.

But summer session director Prof. Hugh Farquhar said students taking summer session arts and sciences are on the increase.

This is due both to natural growth of the university enrolment (2,100 last winter) and a wider selection of arts offerings.

These include classical studies, economics, English, German, French, history, geography, psychology, maths, political science, biology, theatre, sociology, and philosophy.

A special non-credit course is offered for the first time in computers.

Last summer there were 866 persons enrolled, 515 women and 351 men.

Vancouver Island Witnesses Rally Opened Today

Jehovah's Witnesses of Victoria and Vancouver Island opened a four-day district assembly at Alberni today.

Clifford Roberts of Victoria delivered the opening address entitled "Love one another as I have loved you," and introduced the theme of the assembly, "Fruitage of the Spirit."

Gerald Brookall, supervisor of the Central Congregation, Victoria, is conducting an interview on "Bringing up children in Right Principles."

New ministers will be ordained at a baptismal service Friday morning.

On Sunday Reginald Arnott, district supervisor, will give a public address entitled "Peace among men of goodwill — Armageddon — Which?"

A peak attendance of between 1,500 and 1,800 is expected at the sessions, which are being held in Alberni Athletic Hall, Beaver Creek Road.

9-Year Record Spoiled When Safe Stolen

A man convicted of stealing a safe from Victoria Bottle Exchange, 587 Discovery Street, was sent to jail this week for 14 months.

Kenneth A. Fisher, 1021 Cook Street, was caught after a chase by police who saw him loitering at the Bottle Exchange. An accomplice escaped.

Magistrate William Ostler noted Fisher has an extensive police record but told him that it was "to your credit" that he had kept out of trouble for the past nine years.

WATCH DROWNING

Girls Helpless To Save Youth

Two teenage girls watched helplessly Tuesday afternoon while 17-year-old Lynn Moen Wilkins drowned in Beaver Lake.

Known to be a weak swimmer, the boy went under in the north end of the lake and never came up.

His weed-draped body was found by skindivers about an hour after he first sank just before 4 p.m.

Wilkins, a Victoria High School student, of 1362 Pandora, was swimming at the lake with Paul Franklin, 2639 Mt. Stephen, said Saanich police.

Watching them from the shore were Lynn's girl friend, Darlene Lawrence, 2749 Shelbourne, and Anita Barnes, 1510 Holly.

OUT TOO FAR

"He wasn't a very strong swimmer. He'd never been out that far before," said Franklin.

The body was recovered about 100 feet from shore.

"I was about 20 feet ahead of him when he called out," said Franklin.

"I turned to help him, but he went down."

The youth said the muddy, weedy lake bottom had been stirred up and he couldn't see Wilkins in the water.

Darlene, a non-swimmer, saw Wilkins in trouble.

"Paul turned. He shouted to him to lie on his back, but he didn't.

'JUST WENT DOWN'

"He just went down. Paul was too tired to help."

The youths were swimming at a point only a few hundred yards from the main beach and concession, but at least half a mile away by the trail.

Navy skindivers were called in at 3.55, and had a fully-equipped team on the way within 20 minutes.

LYNN WILKINS
. . . body in weeds

They crossed the lake by raft from the main beach to save time, but heavy traffic delayed them half an hour before they got to the lake.

Participating in the search were CPO George Ackerman, PO Garneth Shaw, AB Lawrence Johnston, and AB David Arthurs.

Wilkins was born in Victoria.

Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Wilkins, brothers Lee and Lawrence, 16 and 14; and grandparents.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 3:30 in Sands Funeral Chapel at Colwood, followed by burial at Hatley Memorial Gardens.

'RAIN FOREST' FIRE HAZARD SEEN EBBING

Vancouver Island's alternate wet and hot weather is producing a lush "rain forest" growing year and reducing the summer fire hazard in evergreen woods.

B.C. Forest Service said today the fire situation is good, "better than last year," and woods are benefiting from heavy rains such as fell in most parts of the Island overnight.

Normal campfire permits are required, but there is no other restriction in effect.

TOPICS of the DAY

Fire destroyed the kitchen and part of the attic at 1020 Queens at 12:45 p.m. today.

The fire apparently started in a kitchen closet. The family of Mrs. C. Crosby were all out at the time at Central Park, two blocks away.

A small earthquake about 200 miles northwest of Victoria was recorded at 10.04 a.m. PDT today by the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory.

The location was off the northwest part of Vancouver Island. An observatory spokesman said the disturbance registered at 5½ to 6 on the Richter Scale.

Victoria Kiwanian Jack Lee and his family, of 2298 Lansdowne, are among 16,000 delegates attending Kiwanis International 49th annual convention in the Sports Arena, Los Angeles, this week.

During the program, ending on Friday, they will hear talks by many personalities in various fields, including Kiwanis International president, Charles A. Swain.

An 18-year-old youth who beat and kicked two newspaper boys because they wouldn't give him a cigarette will be sentenced for the assault next week.

Douglas Forscutt, 971 Dunn, will be in custody until then. He pleaded guilty in city court Tuesday. He attacked his victims in a newspaper shack at Hillside and Fifth shortly before 6 on the morning of June 20.

Detective Walter Calwell said Forscutt asked the two newspaper boys for a cigarette. He punched one of them with his fist and then kicked him above the eye. He threw the other one against a wall and tried to kick him.

A man charged with impaired driving was told today "you are most fortunate not to be charged with something more severe."

John Hosker, a Work Point soldier, got a tongue-lashing, a $400 fine and license suspension in city police court today from magistrate William Ostler.

Court was told Hosker was chased along Government Street early Wednesday morning at speeds up to 70 miles an hour, and on Douglas his speed got as high as 80.

He was weaving from lane to lane all the while, the court was told.

Cheque Charge Brings Penalty Of Four Months

A man who cashed a worthless cheque while he was waiting trial for a similar offence was sentenced to four months imprisonment Tuesday.

Surgit Singh, 884 Colville Road, earlier told Magistrate William Ostler he cashed the worthless cheques to feed his wife and family. But the magistrate said a pre-sentence report showed the accused was not living with his wife.

The magistrate said that despite the lack of any record of previous offences he could not accept the probation officer's recommendation that Singh be given a suspended sentence.

Victoria Athlete's Body Found Off Japanese Beach

The body of Victoria sports stat Robert G. McKee has been recovered from the waters of Akiya Beach near Tokyo, Japan.

McKee, a UBC graduate, drowned last Saturday while on a swimming party with some friends from Tokyo. He was visiting there in course of a tour of Asian countries. He was on his way home to Victoria after three years in England.

A private funeral in Tokyo, followed by cremation, has been arranged through the Canadian embassy. The ashes will be sent home to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Gerald McKee, 954 Terrace.

A memorial service for him will be held in the sanctuary of the Metropolitan United Church here at 2:30 p.m. Friday.

FIRST TENANTS at the new science building at the University of Victoria were eggs, not eggheads. High on the scaffolding on the east side of the building a robin built her nest, laid her eggs and hatched her young. Piece by piece the scaffolding came down but it was not until the whole family had taken to the air that Dave Shoemaker, of 280 East Burnside, removed the last three-foot-long supporting beam. SUPPORT ASKED FOR MUNGO FUND

Public donations to a $5,500 fund to finance a memorial plaque to the great Indian carver and artist Mungo Martin were invited today.

Colin Graham, curator of the Victoria Art Gallery heads up a committee in charge of the fund.

The fund was announced at a ceremony Monday when a Canada Council medal was presented to Martin's daughter, Mrs. Helen Hunt.

The Times and Colonist have agreed with the committee to accept donations and will acknowledge them in the paper as they are made.

They should be sent to "Mungo Martin Memorial Fund," care of the paper.

To launch the fund each of the Victoria newspapers has donated $100.

The seven-foot copper plaque will be erected in Victoria, probably in Thunderbird Park, when it is completed by Vancouver artist Bill Reid, another famous Totem carver.

Donations of any size will be accepted and it is hoped that many children will participate as they did in buying-shares for the "World's Tallest Totem Pole" carved by Chief Martin for Beacon Hill Park. The plaque is a community tribute to the famous carver and preserver of Indian lore.

The campaign will continue through the summer until the total required for the project is reached. Receipts will be mailed.

Fashions for the Infant Range From Sportswear Up

By PENNY SAVER

Children's outfits I found in one shop today will set the eyes of many a parent—or grandparent—aglow.

Styles ran the gamut from easy-to-wash highbulk dralon one-piece romper sets for boys, through sportswear, to elegant christening gowns.

Rompers are priced at $5.99 and can be washed and dried easily and quickly without felting or losing their shape. They are made in Holland and fabric is also mothproof.

Other styles for infants included imported bonnet, sweater and booty sets made of shrink-resistant orlon.

Several of these sets combine white wool flowers enchained with silver crocheting. Feet of the booties are made of solid orlon with floral pattern used as a border across the top. Price ranges from $5.99 to $7.99 a set.

Ideal for summer and beach wear are the short and "pop-top" sets in cottons, linen or denim that are selling at $2.29. Shorts have elasticized back waistline and many are styled with back pockets. They come in either plain or striped colors and tops are in toning prints.

If there is a first christening coming up in your family, now is the time to start the tradition of an heirloom christening gown. Ones I found today are made of delicate nylon chiffon over taffeta and are trimmed with wide white lace. Lace trim is repeated around the skirt to a panel effect in front and accent is completed with two tiny white doves on either side of the skirt.

If you are wondering where Penny shopped, call her at 382-3131.

Engagement has been announced of Margaret Elizabeth Murray, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gordon Murray, "Hollyacres," 1829 San Juan Avenue, to Mr. Reginald Gunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Charles Gunn of Hurworth-on-Tees, Durham, England. The marriage will take place on Saturday, July 11, at 2 p.m. in Metropolitan United Church with Rev. C. R. McGillivray officiating. WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Hair stylist John Christy, whose salon is just a stone's throw from the World's Fair, has some interesting ideas about hairdos for hot weeks and busy sightseeing days.

Lowman

He finds that the simple hairdo is the vote getter this summer. The coiffure he suggests is short, three to four inches in length, and tapered at the back from two inches to a mere nothing. The hair generally is cut blunt since chic women today want the natural look.

The short hair style is a boon when travelling or when engaging in fascinating but windblown hectic days at the Fair. Mr. Christy feels that you will be in trend for fall, too, since many fashionable coifs will be tapered softly to the natural hairline, many with a moderated V at mid-centre back. Also, the short hairdos dry quickly after a set.

For formal evenings, when you have no time for a set, this specialist suggests using a swatch of maline or silk gauze wrapped around the head in turban fashion with an open crown at the top of the head. Then pull the hair up through the open crown and set the ends on very large rollers. Spray these large rollers with hair spray or dampen the nair and use a hand dryer. This is an interesting and practical idea. The color of the turban can match or blend with the color of your eyes or your gown.

There are two more great aids when on vacation. Remember the dry shampoo when you do not have time or cannot get to a beauty salon. Then there are those little extra hairpieces which are such a boon. You can be windblown or swim for hours and still look glamorous for evening activities if you have one or more

The topknot types are very practical. This can be a cluster of curls placed on top of your head, after having swept your damp hair upward, or the false hair on top can be combed in with your own hair, thus giving your coiffure body and shape.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Stars in Your Crown," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Reflection and Happiness!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR READERS—Today is a very special day for me. It is my 25th wedding anniversary, and I have this to say:

I was reared in a home with a mother and father who really loved each other, so I know what love is.

I have seen both a son and a daughter safely through the trials of their tempestuous teens, so I know what satisfaction is.

I have had by my side for 25 years the gentlest, kindliest, most considerate human being I have ever known, so I know what happiness is.

I have prayed. And my prayers have been answered, so I know what faith is.

And because I have known all these things, I know what wealth is.

Truly yours,
Abigail Van Buren.

DEAR ABBY—A new family moved into our neighborhood, so I called on them and made them feel welcome. I told them if they had children the ages of mine to send them over to play. (I have three boys, 4, 7 and 8). Well, they have two girls, 11 and 16, who are no company at all for mine. The 11-year-old started coming to my house every day, pretending to "play" with my 8-year-old boy, but all she does is follow ME around and ask me questions until I think I will go out of my mind! Abby, I don't need an 11-year-old girl friend. She is at my door every time I turn around, and she never goes home until I suggest it. How can I get rid of this little pest?

FRAZZLED NERVES.

DEAR FRAZZLED—If you haven't the courage to tell an 11-year-old child that you do not have the time to visit with her, then you probably lack the courage to speak to her mother about it, which is my alternate suggestion.

DEAR ABBY—I recently attended a tea for the wife of a member of Parliament. When I arrived I was told (not asked) by one of the guests to take off my hat because the guest of honor was not wearing one. I did not remove my hat because I felt that it was my affair if I chose to wear a hat. I noticed that about two-thirds of the women at the tea were hatless. I felt that the woman who told me to remove my hat was rude, and I am certain that she felt that I was rude to keep mine on. In your opinion, who was wrong? STUBBORN.

DEAR STUBBORN: The woman who demanded that you remove your hat may have been well-intentioned, but she was out of order. It is conceivable, however, that a hostess might suggest that her guests remove their hats in order to put a hatless guest of honor at ease. And, by the way, a tea such as the one you describe definitely calls for a hat.

DEAR ABBY—The expression that one's sex education begins with the birds and the bees is classic irony because there is still much mystery surrounding the behavior and habits of birds. Maybe I shouldn't disillusion canary owners, Abby, but it is a fact that a happy canary never sings. M. R. Z.

DEAR M. R. Z.—I would like to know WHO, besides another canary, could possibly known how "happy" a canary is? And if a canary sings only when he is miserable, what can you expect from a birdbrain?

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to ABBY, Box 69700 Los Angeles, Calif., 90069, for Abby's booklet, "HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS."

Memories of Slavery and Massacre Haunt Quiet Nootka Sound

By PAT DUFOUR

It took a Canadian spellbinder to bring alive a book that I knew as a child in England.

The Canadian is Esson Young, skipper of the Mv. Uchuk III, that took us up Nootka Sound on one of the first tours arranged by a division of Vancouver Island Coach Lines for every Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday this summer.

Dufour

The book is John Jewitt's journal which he kept while he was a slave of the Nootka Indians from 1803 to 1805.

Esson Young comes by his talents honestly. His father is the late Dr. Henry Esson Young, a former British Columbia minister of education. His mother, the late Dr. Rosalind Young, received an honorary degree for her work as a pioneer teacher at Victoria High School.

Now 53, Esson Young becomes a Canadian Mark Twain as he plies his route, carrying tourists and freight along the Sound that has such a violent history.

My ears perked up as he pointed out Boston Point, named after the ill-fated vessel that was captured at Friendly Cove by Chief Maquinna and his braves.

As if he had a photographic memory, the captain told the tale that caught my imagination, years ago.

John Jewitt had been the armourer of the trading vessel, Boston in 1803. When the ship first put in to trade at Friendly Cove all went well. Indeed, the ship's captain, Capt. John Slater, had presented Maquinna with a double-barrelled musket as he left the ship.

The musket was to cause a massacre. Maquinna came back to complain it was faulty and the captain lost his temper.

A few days later, the chief was back again, this time in friendly guise, to invite the ship's company to go fishing. The ruse worked, the captain and crew were taken off guard and slain.

Maquinna would have made an astute business tycoon. He decided to save Jewitt and the ship's sailmaker, Thompson, so that they could make him whale-harpoons, sails and other necessities.

As we steamed along the quiet waters, Esson Young told of that horrifying moment when John Jewitt was brought on deck after being locked below for hours.

He quoted almost verbatim from the Jewitt journal: "The chief led me on the quarterdeck and told me to look at all the people's heads that were placed in a line, at which sight the reader can better imagine what were my feelings than I can describe them."

The Nootka band still live at Friendly Cove but their descendants have varied their diet since Jewitt's time. In those days they knew nothing of baking or frying. Every thing was eaten raw or boiled. The only way in which they could boil water was by immersing hot rocks.

Everything was laced in sauces, made from blubber of sea cows, whales, seals or porpoises, all guaranteed to turn the stomach of even a hard-living seaman like Jewitt. Even on strawberries and fruit, they were always the same.

Although Jewitt and Thompson were slaves, the Indians treated them comparatively well. Indeed, the chief insisted on buying a wife for the armourer.

When he did escape, Jewitt left behind him a "divorced" wife and a five-month-old son.

Every day during his 30-month captivity, Jewitt managed to make an entry in his diary although the journal tells of the difficulties he met in keeping it from the chief's eyes.

In it is recorded in terse sentences, a graphic description of life in the Indian village.

He recalls the panic when there was an eclipse and the "moon was swallowed by a cod fish."

Although they conformed to the Indian way of life, going naked on the chief's insistence, the two white men never gave up hope of being rescued.

Each Sunday morning, they'd sneak off to say prayers and Jewitt smuggled 16 messages out through chiefs of other bands who came to trade.

All went astray except one received by Capt. Samuel Hill, master of the brigantine, Lydia. By enveigling Maquinna aboard and holding him hostage, Capt. Hill managed to rescue the "slaves."

With Jewitt and Thompson safely aboard, the chief was released.

Later, Jewitt married, settled down in Middleton, Conn., and began his writing career.

Official Dinner Parties

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes will give a dinner in Government House on Friday in honor of His Excellency the Ambassador for France and Mme. Bousquet.

On Saturday evening, the lieutenant-governor and Mrs. Pearkes will go to Vancouver, where they will attend a dinner in the York Room at Hotel Georgia at which the ambassador for France and Mme. Bousquet will be the hosts.

Yesterday evening His Honor and Mrs. Pearkes attended a dinner in the social suite of the Hotel Vancouver, prior to official opening of the seventh Vancouver International Festival. Capt. R. W. Rudd was the aide-de-camp in attendance.

Extended Visit Overseas

Christmas in Switzerland is the dream of Miss Heather Macdonald and Miss Gerry Miller, who plan extensive travels in Europe in the coming months, with work in the British Isles between Continental trips. Itinerary includes travelling to Toronto by train and then to New York for the World's Fair before embarking in the Ss. Rotterdam for Southampton. On arrival overseas they will visit Wimbourne, Eng., as the guests of Mrs. Jean Punnett and her son Perry. Mrs. Punnett will be remembered as a member of viola section in the Victoria Symphony Orchestra for some years. She currently plays with the Bournemouth Symphony and with a chamber music group. Parents of the travellers are Mr. and Mrs. Ian Macdonald, Interurban Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Miller, Goward Road.

In San Francisco

Several holiday seekers from Victoria have signed the visitors' book in British Columbia House in San Francisco. Among them are Dr. and Mrs. G. B. B. Buffam and their son, Robert; Mrs. M. Deveson, Mrs. Amy Drayson and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Scott.

At Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. H. Samson of Eugene, Ore., were among out-of-town guests present at the recent Toone-Marsh wedding. Other guests were Mrs. George Marsh and Donnie of Oromocto, N.B.

Honored

Miss Marilyn Braun was recently honored at a shower given by co-hostesses, Mrs. Ron Jay and Mrs. Bert Bertoia, in the Jay home on Balfour Avenue. Corsages were presented to the guest of honor and to her mother, Mrs. I. Braun. Terry Jay, Miss Braun's small godson, presented gifts from a decorated umbrella. Guests included Mrs. R. Skillings, Mrs. A. Smith, Mrs. L. Smith, Mrs. R. Marshall, Mrs. G. Stewart, Mrs. R. McBride, Mrs. V. Fry, Mrs. H. Pillar, Mrs. N. Kowalky, Mrs. H. Harvey, Mrs. R. Jones, Mrs. K. Wilson, Mrs. R. MacDonald, Mrs. W. Williams, Mrs. A. Jay, the Misses Elizabeth Simmons, Christina Jay and Doreen Falkner.

Gifts In School

A miniature schoolhouse held shower gifts for July bride-elect, Miss Judith Smirl, who is a teacher at Cordova Bay School. Corsage of red and white carnations was presented to the guest of honor at the party given by Mrs. Paul Johns in her Bank Street home. Mothers of the bride-elect and groom-elect, Mrs. R. Smirl and Mrs. A. C. Burgess, were each presented with a gift. Other guests invited were grandmother of the bride-to-be, Mrs. R. Warner, Stanwood, Wash., Mrs. J. Dunn, Mrs. N. Kelly, Mrs. J. Smirl, Mrs. P. Green, Mrs. J. Fagan, Mrs. M. Michell, Mrs. John Boyd, Mrs. D. Walker, Mrs. R. Cartwright, Mrs. A. Pendray, Mrs. T. Pendray, Mrs. J. Fairclough, the Misses Adele and Arlene Smirl, Joanne Dunn, Jill and Jay Kelly, Jacquie Fairclough, and Janis Michell.

Visits Parents

Dr. Hugh A. Arnold, president of the Alberta Medical Association, recently spent a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Arnold, in their Howe Street home. While in Vancouver attending the Canadian Medical Association Conference he also visited with relatives. He left Victoria recently to fly back to his home in Lethbridge, Alta.

Looking forward to an extended tour of Europe and Great Britain are Miss Carol Dumbleton, right, and Miss Connie Downey. The girls will leave Vancouver on Monday aboard the P&O Oriana. During their tour, they plan to visit relatives in England. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Dumbleton, 2275 Lansdowne Road, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Downey of Sidney.

Good Luck Horseshoe In Bouquet

A silver "good luck" horseshoe, sent from Australia by her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. S. Wilkins, centred the white and red carnation bouquet carried by Joan Patricia Marsh when she exchanged marriage vows with Terry Lorne Toone.

She wore a floor-length gown of organdy over taffeta accented with Guipure lace appliques. Skirt fullness extended into a chapel-length train. Her only jewelry was a silver brooch with the Royal Canadian Dragoon crest, gift of her brother, Sgt. George Marsh. The bouffant tiered illusion net veil misted from a coronet of crystal and seed pearls. She carried a white lace handkerchief.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Marsh, 3027 Fifth Street, and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Toone, 1003 Moss Street.

Mr. Marsh gave his daughter in marriage. Rev. Roy Hoult officiated at the ceremony in Christ Church Cathedral.

Identical gowns of royal blue French nylon over pale blue taffeta were choice of matron of honor, Mrs. J. Marsh, Oromocto, N.B.; bridesmaids, the Misses Susan Toone, Beverly Jones, and Lynn Larson, and flower girl, Miss Saundra Whittaker.

RING HEADBANDS

All wore wedding ring headpieces en tone. White carnations were in their colonial bouquets.

Frank Rowby was best man and ushers were Mike Rigby, George Barr and Jack Marsh.

At a reception in Union Centre Hall, the bride's table was centred with a four-tier wedding cake decorated in silver and white and topped with pink rosebuds. Toast was proposed by Jim Larson.

For travelling on a honeymoon motoring trip to Washington and Oregon, the bride wore a pale blue linen suit with frosted blue coat, white accessories and white carnation corsage.

The couple is now living at 2657 Mt. Stephen Avenue.

Carole Heyd Married In Herefordshire, Eng.

St. Michael's Church at Brenton, Herefordshire, Eng., was setting for the wedding of Carole Helen Heyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Heyd, formerly of this city and now of Bristol, Eng., and Andrew Connell, son of Andrew Connell Sr., Glasgow.

Flowers decofated the church for the ceremony at which Rev. Haynes officiated.

Dainty hand-embroidered rosebuds enhanced nylon overskirt of the white satin floor-length gown worn by the bride. The bodice was fashioned with scooped neckline and elbow-length sleeves. It dipped to a V at back from the natural waistline and extended into a chapel length train. A satin rose headpiece held the shoulder-length veil. Deep peach roses, stephanotis and lily of the valley were in the bouquet.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Only attendant, Mrs. D. Charlwood, chose a street-length gown of midnight blue brocade. Veiling en tone misted from a gold satin head bow. Gold satin shoes and bouquet of yellow roses and lily of the valley completed her ensemble.

Christopher W. Greene, Ireland, was best man. Guests were ushered by David Knights, Herefordshire, Eng., and Dereck Limb, Edinburgh, Scotland.

Jack Dobson proposed the toast at a reception in "The Cottage of Content." Connell tartan decorated a two-tier cake on the bride's table.

For travelling on honeymoon in England and Scotland, the bride wore a wool boucle Chanel suit of peacock blue with blouse en tone. Her green silk straw picture hat was an Edward Mann original.

The newlyweds are living in Herefordshire.

Bride Wears Original Victor Gown

A directoire silhouette gown of white silk-faced peau, designed by Victor, was worn by Sandra Lynne Fryer when she exchanged marriage vows with Robert Michael Renaud.

The floor-length gown was highlighted with pale pink Alencon lace appliques. Skirt extended into a court train from a large self-fabric rose at waistline. Juliette cap of pleated silk-face peau with pink lace appliques, held the white tulle veil. Pink roses and stephanotis were in the bouquet.

Dr. S. J. Parsons officiated at the ceremony in Centennial United Church. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Fryer, 212 Robertson Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Renaud, 3251 Bellevue Road.

Mr. Fryer gave his daughter in marriage. Organist was Mrs. Margaret Wilmshurst and soloist, Miss Frances Scott.

Slim floor-length gowns of chiffon over taffeta in pink and turquoise tones were choice of maid of honor, Miss Judy Barr; bridesmaid, Miss Sandy Johl, and bridesmatron, Mrs. K. Houston. All wore single strand pearl necklaces, gifts of the bride. Bouquets were white and toning carnations to match their gowns.

Ken Houston was best man and ushers were Robert Clarke and Robert West.

A three-tier wedding cake flanked by silver candelabra and pink roses centred head table at a reception in Uplands Golf Club. Toast was proposed by Bruce Barr.

Following a honeymoon trip to Banff, the couple will make their home at 1002 Walema Avenue.

The bride's going-away outfit was a beige silk shantung dress and coat with beige and taupe accessories, pink petalled hat and corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

Engagement of two former professional skaters with Ice Capades has been announced. Miss Marilyn Mae Braun, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ike Braun, 2183 Florence Street, will exchange vows with Mr. John Harry Bate, only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bate of Vancouver, on Saturday, July 11, at 7 p.m. Ceremony will be held in First United Church with Rev. Leighton S. Streight officiating. (Photos by John Reid of Hollywood, Calif.)

Cars Needed

Plans have been made by the Women's Auxiliary to Veterans Hospital for the annual outing for patients to be held at Royal Victoria Yacht Club on July 15. Those who may wish to assist in transporting veterans in their cars are asked to telephone the picnic convener, Mrs. F. T. S. Sehl, EV 4-9403. There will be no meetings of the auxiliary during July and August.

Gulf Islanders Plan Unique Show Here

Between 60 and 70 exhibitors are expected to take part in a unique handicraft and hobby show and sale in Hudson's Bay Douglas Room, July 17 to 25.

Show will be sponsored by the Gulf Island Branch of the British Columbia Historical Association with entries from Salt Spring, Galiano, Mayne, Saturna, North Pender and South Pender islands.

One of the features will be a three-piece screen of monk's cloth, decorated with wool embroidery in designs of the coastal Indians.

Screen will be raffled and proceeds used to start a fund to be used for a yearly bursary for an Indian student.

A huge quilt, made of embroidered squares depicting island scenes will be another "star." This quilt was made two years ago to finance the branch's book, "A Gulf Island Patchwork," which tells the history of the islands' pioneer families.

HANDICRAFTS

Quilts, made at bees on North Pender Island; handmade rugs, wood carving, driftwood, copper and silver jewelry, weaving, ceramics, painting, metal work, lapidary, wool spinning and other crafts will be shown.

Show was the inspiration of Mrs. B. J. Freeman, South Pender Island, charter president of the group and now the branch's first vice-president.

General convener is Mrs. F. E. Robson, Galiano Island. She will be assisted by Mrs. Freeman, Mrs. A. M. Brown, Salt Spring; Mrs. G. B. Jennens, South Pender; Miss M. Busteed, North Pender; Mrs. W. J. R. Beech and Mrs. J. M. Campbell, both of Saturna; Mrs. M. Kline and Mrs. A. DeRousie, both of Mayne.

Show will be open during store hours.

Short Skirts Vie With Colorful Saris at Shows

NEW YORK (AP) — Some saucy young fashions by Oleg Cassini shared the limelight with exotic Indian models wrapped in 14-carat gold saris.

Just as contrasting as the subjects were the backgrounds for two shows this week, both a part of the American designer series arranged by Eleanor Lambert for style writers previewing fall collections at the world's fair.

Blue, purple and grey woven stripes go this way and that on this collarless jacket and slim skirt, designed by Jacques Tiffeau for Tiffeau and Bush fashion house. Costume was shown to the nation's style writers during the present fashion week arranged by Eleanor Lambert in New York and featuring well-known American couturiers. (AP Wirephoto.)

Among the knee-length daytime dresses modelled were those with military flavor—brass buttons and epaulets.

Low-belted dresses had flirty short skirts. Some with satin form-fitting sheaths were dressed up with white collars and cuffs.

White touched up black dresses. A wide white collar, for example, framed the bare back of a slithery black crepe Cassini affectionally calls "Missionary's Downfall." A white, big-sleeved blouse kept the "Farmer's Daughter" model from exposing too much in her low cut gown with its zany jewelled suspenders.

Cassini's most modest answer to the topless trend is a black velvet floor-length gown with a nude colored fabric bodice laced with velvet lattice work.

Indian models then introduced designer Adele Simpson and her sari-inspired clothes.

Created at the request of the Indian government from rich silks and brocades, the princess formals, mandarin coats, tunics, or theatre suits had simplicity of line.

Norman Norell showed trousers for women.

A few years ago Norell created a stir by making the culotte skirt respectable daytime dress. Every year since the designer has dallied with a version of the divided skirt, long or short, pleated, harem or bell-bottomed.

This year's trouser, crisply creased and slim-legged, is for travelling or for country living.

Worn over these are jersey vests, short, double-breasted raglan sleeved overcoats with perky double collars that cup the chin, or loose smocks.

TODAY'S RECIPE

JELLIED HAM ROLLS

Four ounces cream cheese, 1 package lemon-flavored jelly powder, 1½ cups boiling water, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 6 thin slices cooked ham (6 to 8 ounces), 1 to 2 tablespoons horseradish, ⅓ cup white seedless raisins.

Let cheese soften at room temperature. Dissolve jelly powder in boiling water. Stir in salt and vinegar. Pour jelly mixture into a 9½x5½-inch loaf pan to a depth of about ½ inch and chill until partly set. Chill remaining mixture until syrupy.

Cream the cheese, blend in horseradish and spread evenly on ham slices, allowing 1 to 1½ tablespoons to each slice. Roll up rather loosely, fasten with toothpicks and arrange in partly set jelly, making sure that toothpicks are upright. Sprinkle half of raisins between rolls, add the rest to the syrupy jelly mixture and pour over rolls. Chill until firm, about three hours. Remove toothpicks. Unmold and garnish with lettuce. Cut through jelly between rolls and serve with salad dressing or mayonnaise. Six servings.

NEW YORK—Are we ready for girls in transparent-top gowns? Heck, we may not even notice 'em.

I previewed this fashion of the future (maybe) at the World's Fair's prim, non-girlie amusement area, where Jane Zachary and Gloria LeRoy of "To Broadway With Love" wore them with misgivings—and very little else.

They sat in the Texas Pavilion's Frontier Palace, practically ignored by diners around them. Above the waist the girls wore very thin black net over very thin beige net—and that was all—but nobody stared.

Jane, a demure type, said, "I tried to phone my mother to get permission to wear this, but she wasn't home. Anyway," she went on, tearing a napkin to shreds, "I'm not nervous any more."

Gloria, billed as "The Reluctant Stripper" when she works in cafes, said, "You'd think I'd be used to this, but I'm not. There's nothing wrong with it, though. In London it's called a 'shock frock' — and isn't this what Marlene Dietrich wears in her act?"

"But I wouldn't wear it on the street—the world's not ready for it yet. Of course, there's no nudity at the Fair."

The can can dancers came out, and Gloria said, laughing, "They don't wear much, do they?"

(I wonder what Robert Moses will think of this? And what do you gals think? Are you going to wear the topless or transparent attire?)

A World's Fair visitor who'd had too much to drink got into a cab, told the driver to take him to Manhattan, stumbled and fell out of the cab on the other side. Brushing himself off he said to the driver, "That was really a fast trip. How much do I owe you?"

Although the marriage of Gina Lollobrigida and Dr. Milko Skoffic is strained by all their separations, Gina swears to me that there are no plans for any legalized split-up . . . "If there had been anything to those rumors, the truth would have come out in the five years you've been hearing them," she said.

Gina is pursued by the rumors all over the U.S. and Europe. She's gone to her home in Crans-sur-Sierre, Switzerland, to get away from the rumors . . . and photographers.

"The last romance they reported I had was with a young boy of about 21," she said. "They had a picture of me with him. He is the son of the Countess des Cars, a good friend of mine. She had asked him to drive me in her car, and the photographers make us a romance!"

PLASTIC BIRDS—Scientists have come up with a new use for plastic: in building an airplane. The glass fibre-reinforced plastic plane uses two pusher-type propellers and has a wing span of 23 feet, less than two-thirds the span of the smallest propeller-driven military airplane currently in use. Called the GA-39 by its designers, the Goodyear Aerospace Corp., the plane is one of the designs under consideration in the search for a counter-insurgency plane, or flying police car, designated as COIN.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Gordon Hayes, age 12, of Transcona, Manitoba, Canada, for his question:

How do they grow tea?

The province of Assam follows the bumpy foothills of the Himalays across the northwestern corner of India. Tigers and leopards, rhinos and elephants still roam wild through its steamy jungles and fertile slopes. Assam claims more showers than any place on earth, and 200 to 600 inches of rainfall are expected to water its rich slopes and valleys every summer. The wild ancestors of the tea plant, the experts suspect, got their start in the warm, wet climate of these hills and dales.

The wild tea plant is a smallish tree up to 30 feet tall. The cultivated tea plant is pruned down to a thick bush no taller than three to six feet. A pot of refreshing tea is brewed from certain leaves that have been picked with tender care and prepared with patient skill. When leaves are properly pruned away, most plants fight back by producing more and more new shoots and leaves. With constant pruning, the cultivated tea plant becomes a denser-than-dense bush of leafy foliage.

One leathery leaf sprouts from one side and another from the opposite side higher up on each tender shoot, and the tenderest foliage is the opening bud at the tip of the twig. The tapering leaves are like wide willow leaves, and those not gathered for market may grow more than three inches long. Once a year, the bushy plant bears blossoms like miniature wild roses, pink or white with round centres of dusty yellow stamens.

Made from Bud Leaves

A new tea plantation is set with four-to-six-inch plants placed close together. The rows are four feet apart. The growing plants are pruned, and in four years the youngest leaves are picked and sent to a processing factory. The chores of tea growing are pruning, picking and tending the soil. The rest is done by the warm wet weather and the fertile highlands that tea plants need to grow their fragrant leaves.

Tea is grown in India and Ceylon, China and Japan, Java and Sumatra, Pakistan and Formosa, and the world crop is almost a million tons. More than 1-50th of this grows in Assam, native home of the tea tree, a region one-third the size of Canada's Manitoba.

The best pekoe tea is made from the bud leaves at the ends of the twigs. The first, second and third leaves on the young shoots are picked to make other grades of tea. At the nearby factory, the fresh leaves are wilted and rolled, aired and heated, sifted and packaged to be sent to markets around the world.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Kevin Heffernan, age 10, of Scarborough, Ontario, Canada, for his question:

Are there people like us on Venus?

The solid surface of the planet Venus is hidden below a blanket of clouds that cannot be pierced, even by our best telescopes. But in 1962, the spacecraft Mariner II set forth to probe our nearest planet neighbor. As it brushed past Venus, its sensitive instruments gathered masses of new information and relayed the fact back to scientists on the earth.

Before the voyage of Mariner II, we could only guess what things were like on Venus. Now we know for sure that there are no earth-type people on the golden planet. Its dense clouds shut out the sunshine, and its gloomy surface is waterless, dusty-hot and dry. Earthlings could not live there. If there are living things of any kind on Venus, we shall not known until the first spacemen land there and make an on-the-spot search—but they will not be earth-type creatures.

Teaching Has Many Rewards

By JACK HUTTON

Believe me, it's no small shock when your own mother officially retires from the classroom.

Last weekend my mother left behind a brood of Grades 4 and 5 tads forever. She has already cleaned out her desk. And two weeks ago she was given two silver trays for her service.

I'm told that about 10,000 teachers across Canada are polishing their fishing gear, studying travel folders or just rocking on the porch, their classroom chores ended.

It's one thing to look at a statistic. It's something else to realize they're making speeches of gratitude to a quiet-spoken, gracious, youthful-appearing lady who still has more energy than you any day of the week.

When I read the newspaper story from St. Catharines, Ont., describing the retirement of several teachers under a heading that said "lifetime of service," I wondered how many fledgling teachers realize what sort of profession they'll enter next fall.

New Tappings

I also wonder how many young teachers realize that the parking lots, staff rooms, regular salary increases, green blackboards, well-equipped laboratories and tape recorders weren't there forever.

My folks decided to get married early in depression years because Dad had a job as a country principal just outside North Bay, Ont. I came along one year later—just about the same time the salary of every local teacher was cut.

You're right. They couldn't slash salaries today. But they did in 1933, all across Canada.

When I spent a winter teaching 25 students (the girls were almost as old as I was), both parents taught within reassuring distance. And they had one piece of advice: "Son, don't try strapping the whole room at once."

I didn't.

As far back as I can remember, talking to the folks wasn't the same as talking to anyone else. The difference: they were constantly marking papers, making up lesson plans or preparing tests while they sat and talked.

Long Hours

If you're thinking of teaching as a career, don't be fooled by the hours. The first year is the worst, but after more decades than they like to remember the folks still spend countless hours with piles of paper around the kitchen table.

But maybe I'm piling up the bad points. As a kid I also remember marvelling at the number of people who looked up the family whenever we travelled somewhere. They were former students who remembered the folks.

Telephone calls came from former students who had just been married and wanted the folks to meet the bride or groom. Or they wanted to drive over and show off their first child.

Those are rewards that can't be counted in money. And they are something to look forward to if you're hoping to make your mark as a teacher.

I asked Mother, who didn't know I was writing this column, if she intended making a little farewell speech or something similar. "No, no," she said. "Nothing so trite. We'll just keep busy."

But she remained a teacher to the end. During the second last week, she entered her classroom to find a blackboard note: "You've got till June 19 to bring your money."

Ignoring the fact that this was obviously for a going-away present, Mother summoned the author to the blackboard. And under her direction the girl corrected her sentence: "You have until June 19 to bring your money!"

Somehow, I like that.

MIKOYAN REFUSES DETAILS

Indonesia Will Get Arms From Soviet

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) —Shipment of Russian arms to Indonesia, engaged in a bitter struggle with British-backed Malaysia, is part of an over-all agreement announced Wednesday by Indonesia and the Soviet Union. The foreign ministry announced "complete agreement" had been reached in talks on political and economic issues during a 10-day visit by the Soviet first deputy premier, Anastas I. Mikoyan.

He refused to give details of new arms deliveries.

Speaking at a press conference shortly before ending a 10-day visit to this key Southeast Asian country, Mikoyan also said:

1. The Soviet Union supports Indonesia in its opposition to the British-backed federation of Malaysia.

2. He had at least gained "sympathy" from the Indonesian Communist party for the Soviet position in the Moscow-Peking dispute.

3. Part of the Soviet Union is in Asia and because of this geographical fact there is no need to dispute the question of Soviet participation in a second Afro-Asian conference planned next year. Red China opposes Soviet participation.

4. Said that "bombardment by American planes" in Laos made it doubtful that a Laotian peace conference would be fruitful.

Mikoyan and his delegation of members of the Soviet parliament later stopped in Burma for a two-day visit en route to Moscow.

During his visit here he held a series of talks with President Sukarno and other high Indonesian officials.

Tories Cut Back Staff at Ottawa

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—Four of the national headquarters staff of the Progressive Conservative Party have been dismissed in a combined economy and reorganization move.

Richard Thrasher, national director, said today that four of his staff are leaving. However, he vigorously denied that the dismissals were because of a lack of funds.

The four staff members are:

Paschal Hayes, director of information.

Pat Macadam, director of research.

Paul Champagne, assistant research director.

Roland English, who handled French-Canadian problems for the organization.

There have been rumors that the cutback in Conservative headquarters staff was due to the inability of the Progressive Conservatives to get financial contributions from Bay Street and other sources. But Mr. Thrasher said this rumor had no foundation.

He acknowledged that organization funds were not as plentiful as the party would like, but it was getting its share.

The Conservative staff is still larger than the Liberal organization staff. There are 24 remaining on the Conservative party's payroll with three stationed in Toronto. The Liberals have 20 on their staff.

Gov't Railways Meet Under Strike Threat

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson and Labor Minister MacEachen meet the presidents of Canada's two major railways today to discuss federal railway legislation against a backdrop of a possible transcontinental railway strike.

CNR President Donald Gordon and CPR President N. R. Crump are expected to indicate their positions in the current wage dispute involving 100,000 railway workers in Canada.

At the same time Mr. Pearson likely will assure the railway chiefs of the government's intention to proceed early in the fall with legislation to streamline the operation and freight rate structure of the railways.

Facing the railways is an extra $50,000,000 wage bill during the next two years if they agree to a 19.1 cent hourly increase for their non-operating employees—as proposed about a month ago in a majority report of a federal conciliation board report.

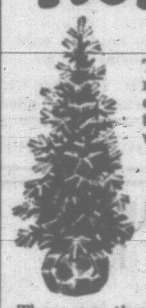

The 15 unions, representing railway workers who actually do not operate trains, have accepted the conciliation board report. They also decided to hold a strike ballot if and when the railways rejected the report.

So far the railways have kept their silence, pondering the economic impact of a wage increase in the current uncertainty over government plans for its long-promised railway legislation.

Philip In Iceland

REYKJAVIK (Reuters) — Prince Philip went bird watching Thursday in the game-rich area of Lake Myvatn in northeast Iceland. Philip, on a three-day tour of Iceland, flew to Lake Myvatn after salmon fishing with Iceland President Asgeir Asgeirsson.

"slow" gin:
What it is, and what it isn't.

"Slow" gin is a London Dry Gin—not a Sloe Gin. Most unlike Sloe Gin—which is flavoured with sloes instead of juniper berries—our "slow" gin is very, very dry.

Its listed name is Burnett's Sterling. We call it "slow" because we make it slowly.

Most gins on the market are mass-produced. They run from modern, mammoth stills in oceans. But our Sterling is distilled in small, unhurried batches. What limits the amount—and sets the pace—is our little old copper Pot Stills.

The one you see on the right is more than 100 years old. We brought it from England in the 1920s—when we imported Burnett's complete distillery.

By today's standards, our old Pot Stills are miniatures—and slowpokes. But the men who mind them know them as a good cook knows her seasoned pots and pans. Watching, sipping, tasting, they let Sterling take its time. They believe that nothing excellent was ever turned out in a hurry.

We'd save money, of course, by switching to mass-producing equipment. But our Sterling Gin would cease to be a "slow" gin.

And it wouldn't taste the same.

Beacon Hill Echoes To First Concert

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

The green glory of Beacon Hill Park was matched by music of every shade and hue Wednesday afternoon when Capt. James M. Gayfer conducted a Dominion Day concert sponsored by the A.F. of M. Trust Fund and the City of Victoria.

Capt. Gayfer, who is head of the tri-services school of music at HMCS Naden, led a Victoria Musicians' Union band through a varied program of light and classical music that was notable for balance, precision and clean brasswork.

Musicians from the Naden school and two students from Gordon Head secondary school made up the ensemble.

The fine instrumental work was complemented by the expressive singing of Adele Goult Lewis, soprano, whose offerings included the Drinking Song, from La Traviata; Summer Time, from Porgy and Bess; the waltz song, Kiss in the Dark, and I Could Have Danced All Night, from My Fair Lady.

HUNDREDS HEARD

An audience of between 700 and 800, sitting and standing around the Cameron bandshell, responded enthusiastically to the uninterrupted flow of singing and playing.

Most difficult of the instrumental selections was the colorful Portrait in Oils: Tulsa, by Don Gillis, which ranges in mood from pastoral serenity to the breaking of an oil well and the martial strains of a city parade.

The band also played the lively Festival of Preludes (Reid), The Force of Destiny (Verdi), Trumpets Wild (Walters), The Voice of the Guns March; two rhythmic Latin-American numbers; Gimme Cracked Corn and I Don't Care; a selection from The King and I; and Capt. Gayfer's own composition, March Past of the Royal Dental Corps.

LITTLE GIRL LOST

A three-year-old girl got lost in the park and wandered into the bandshell. Picking her up in his arms, Capt. Gayfer carried her onto the conductor's rostrum and said:

"Here is a very sad little lost girl! Who is she?"

Two worried parents came forward—later.

The concert—first of a series to be given in Beacon Hill Park this summer—was introduced by Vince Butler, president of Victoria Musicians Association. He said the A.F. of M. Trust Fund had set aside $6,000,000 from royalties on recordings to give free open-air music to the people of North America.

Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson, representing Mayor R. B. Wilson, said the city was happy to cooperate with the A.F. of M. in giving the people of Victoria "first-class music in a matchless setting."

Low Cut Gown, Wig Set Off Royal Couple

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret danced in a low-cut gown Wednesday night and her husband, Lord Snowdon, sported a wig with a bow in it.

Along with the wig, the princess' husband wore an eggplant-colored velvet jacket with huge lace cuffs and a flyaway panel at the back. Knee Breeches, white stockings and a gold waistcoat completed Snowdon's ensemble.

The princess wore a wig, too, a smoky blue creation to match a jeweled gown of pale blue silk. The neckline plunged down to a corselet embroidered in gold and pearls.

A huge butterfly clasp holding a fichu ensured that it stopped somewhat short of toplessness.

Around her neck the princess wore more jewels ending in a magnificent pendant.

Neither the princess nor Lord Snowdon was setting a new fashion. They were guests of London's Lord Mayor Clement Harman at a Georgian ball and all the guests wore the styles of two centuries ago.

In those days the low neckline was customary and raised no eyebrows.

Empty Bunks In Bunkhouse At 'Y' Camp

More than 50 boys boarded buses at the YMCA, Wednesday, and headed for a two-week vacation at Camp Thunderbird around Glinz Lake in Sooke.

Boys came from as far away as Alaska, Wisconsin and Washington, but still there are 30 bunks which will remain empty during this first two-week session.

Camp officials said today the next two-week session, beginning July 15, is filled but there is still room for more in the third and last session for boys starting, July 29.

The one and only girls camp this year starts on Aug. 12, and at present only 50 out of a possible 90 registrations have been filed.

Registrations forms are available at the YMCA, Blanshard Street.

Montreal Fair Gets Island Site

MONTREAL (CP)—Fireworks flared, guns boomed out Wednesday as the 1967 Montreal world's fair corporation took formal possession of its site in a dazzling midnight ceremony on the edge of the St. Lawrence River.

The ceremony, which featured bands, the RCMP's musical ride, musket drills from the 18th century and folk dancing, took place on St. Helen's Island site of the fair.

Mayor Jean Drapeau and Pierre Dupuy, the fair's commissioner-general, signed the documents in a temporary, floodlit bandshell before thousands of Montrealers and representatives of the federal, provincial and municipal governments.

The 70-acre site will be operated by the fair until after it ends in October, 1967, and then will be turned back to the city.

TV QUIZ WINNERS

Victoria Team Grasps the Top

Four Greater Victoria high school students reached for the top Tuesday night and grasped it, bringing home the victor's cup and $1,500 in scholarship grants.

Lindsay Hodge and Randy Burgoyne of Mount Douglas High and Steve Bigsby and Jack MacDonald of Oak Bay High defeated an Okanagan team in the finals of the television quiz show Reach for the Top.

The score was 370 ponits to 205.

The final contest was the culmination of 39 weeks of elimination matches involving 256 students from 67 British Columbia high schools.

Two teams from the Greater Victoria area entered the contest.

They met in the quarter-finals and the Victoria One team, comprised of students from Victoria, Esquimalt and Mount Douglas high schools, was eliminated.

The two teams won a total of $5,475 worth of books and scholarship grants to be divided equally among the five Greater Victoria high schools.

U.S. AID BILL PASSES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. House of Representatives passed a $2,200,000,000 foreign aid bill Wednesday after rejecting efforts by Representative Otto E. Passman (Dem., La.) to slash another $247,000,000. The 208-198 vote against the cut severed Passman's 10-year-long dominant influence over foreign aid funds in the House. The vote on passage was 231 to 174.

WONDERFUL! THE BUTCHART GARDENS' GREAT SYMPHONY CONCERTS ARE BACK AGAIN!

HIGHLIGHTING their 60th Anniversary, the Butchart Gardens will again present the VICTORIA SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA in a series of 4 concerts . . . Sundays of July 5, 19 and Aug. 2, 16. All at 4 p.m.

THE BEST LOVED MUSIC of the masters . . . music that is popular, that everyone knows and enjoys . . . will be played under the direction of MR. OTTO-WERNER MUELLER. Dynamic—sensational—internationally in demand—he's rated as Canada's finest conductor.

GUEST STAR: RAFAEL MASELLA, one of the continent's cleverest clarinetists.

PROGRAM: MOZART — Serenade in C for String Orchestra (Eine Kleine Nachtmusik); GRIEG—Peer Gynt Suite (Excerpts). Intermission. MOZART—Concerto for Clarinet and Orchestra (soloist, Rafael Masella): STRAUSS—"The Blue Danube" Waltz.

IMAGINE! Music of the Masters, played by one of Canada's finest orchestras . . . from the stage of one of the world's largest, most famous private gardens—30 acres of gorgeous blossoms, fragrant blooms (the rose garden is simply superb!) . . . plus romantic night illumination after dark.

AND YOU ARE INVITED to come early, stay for the whole evening and enjoy it all! Bring your camp chairs, rugs to sit on, a picnic supper. Pick a good spot and prepare yourself for one of your happiest occasions. No extra charge—your one admission at regular price covers everything.

AMPLE ORGANIZED FREE PARKING FOR THOUSANDS, so plan now! Make it a family affair. Invite a friend or two. Share your car to the last seat. It's much more fun going together.

SPECIAL COACH LINES SERVICE. Lv. Depot 2:45 p.m. Ar. Gardens 3:15 p.m. Lv. Gardens 6 p.m. Ar. Depot 6:35 p.m. Total price $2.60 including return coach fare and admission into Gardens and Symphony Concert.

SEE YOU SUNDAY! JOIN THE THOUSANDS . . . EVERYBODY'S GOING TO THE BUTCHART GARDENS FOR THIS GREAT EVENT.

Note: In case of inclement weather the concert will be held the following Suday, 4 p.m. Keep tuned to Sunday newscasts for special concert bulletins—Radio Stations C-FAX, CJVI, CKDA.

Subdued Bravos Open Vancouver Festival

VANCOUVER (CP) — Conductor Charles Munch, moving an opening-night audience first to bravos and finally to subdued and prolonged applause, Wednesday lent the stamp of French culture to the 7th Vancouver International Festival.

Launching a month of varied festival productions in the French theme, the 73-year-old conductor made the point early with the playing of the national anthem, the Marseillaise.

From that gesture, which took 2,800 persons by surprise, Dr. Munch led the Vancouver Symphony and later a 90-voice choir through moods of Bizet, Debussy and Poulenc.

The night had a poignant note. Dr. Munch asked VIF officials to announce the death earlier Wednesday in Maine of his good friend Pierre Monteux, another renowned French-born conductor. He dedicated the final work, Poulenc's Le Gloria, to Monteux.

Its impressive solos, by Canadian soprano Audrey Farnell, and a descending Amen, by the Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society, left the audience briefly silent, and finally almost quiet in their applause.

THE BEST MAN
Victoria Premiere
Atlas Theatre

Party politics run riot when Henry Fonda, a former U.S. secretary of state, and Cliff Robertson, an anti-Communist senator, contend for the presidential nomination of a certain political party.

The subject is timely in view of the approaching political conventions south of the border and the story, based on a Broadway play by Gore Vidal, has been deftly handled by director Franklin Schaffner.

★ ★ ★

As the rival candidates, Henry Fonda and Cliff Robertson engage in some pretty ruthless tactics even by political standards. Robertson's agents dig up a report that Fonda was once treated by a psychiatrist and this is considered bad medicine in the wicked world of vote-catching.

In retaliation, Fonda's assistants discover a man who served with Robertson in the U.S. army and who now alleges he engaged in immoral practices. Robertson, of course, denies the accusation and Fonda suddenly develops a conscience about making the charge public . . .

★ ★ ★

The question raised by all this is: Does the Best Man always get to the White House? Whether you take the story seriously or not, it is good entertainment of its kind and the story packs plenty of tension with some humor along the way.

Those who remember Henry Fonda as Young Mr. Lincoln will be intrigued by his realistic but less inspiring performance as a modern political candidate. Cliff Robertson, who played the late President Kennedy in PT 109, turns in a vigorous performance as the rival candidate.

There are good supporting performances by Margaret Leighton, Edie Adams, Shelley Berman, Lee Tracy and Gene Raymond.

This is the seventh in the series of Premiere Showcase attractions presented by the one-man enterprise Atlas Theatre.

Renowned Conductor Pierre Monteux Dies

HANCOCK, Me. (AP) — The music world mourned the death Wednesday of Pierre Monteux, the French-born conductor whose career spanned more than half a century with the world's great orchestras.

It was joined by the 800 residents of this Maine coastal town, who knew him as Pierre, as the community's honorary fire chief, and as a man who had adopted Hancock as his home with zest and affection. Monteux, 89, was still permanent conductor of the London Symphony Orchestra when he died in his sleep at 2 a.m.

His sister, Mrs. David Michlin, said Monteux suffered a concussion in the fall in London several months ago. She said he returned to Hancock to recuperate, but suffered several brain hemorrhages.

Members of the London orchestra were shocked at the news. They had expected Monteux to lead their world tour starting in September.

PAYS TRIBUTE

The honorary president, Sir Arthur Bliss, said "Pierre Monteux was a great musician who devoted his whole life to music.

"Contemporary composers especilly owe him a deep debt of gratitude for his magnificent support of their music."

Another spokesman said "he enriched us both artistically and as human beings."

Monteux also was once permanent conductor and often guest conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, whose present music director, Erich Leinsdorf, said of him:

"Any composer could be sure that his music would be heard undisturbed and in its own glory. Pierre Monteux was a true blessing for music and all who love music."

Monteux began his musical career as a viola player in a string quartet in his native Paris. He fought as a French Army enlisted man in the early days of the First World War and came to the United States as conductor of the Ballet Russe. He stayed on as conductor of the Metropolitan's French repertory.

WORKED IN HOLLAND

In the five years starting in 1919, he was music director of the Boston Symphony. Then followed nine years with the Concert-gebouw of Amsterdam.

Monteux joined the faltering San Francisco Symphony in 1934, and continued improving the orchestra there until his technical retirement in 1952, after that, guest appearances and other work kept him on the move.

He once told an interviewer: "I don't like abstract music or abstract painting, either. Modern is all right, but not abstract."

He commented that he liked Brahms, Beethoven, Schumann and Wagner—in that order.

'Greatest Authority' On Law Dies at 93

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Roscoe Pound, considered in legal circles the greatest authority on law though he never earned a law degree, died Wednesday at the age of 93.

A memorial service for the former Harvard law school dean will be conducted Tuesday in Memorial Church in Harvard Yard.

In 1961, an association of lawyers in Spain voted him "worldwide patriarch of comparative law."

Fellow lawyers have called Pound "the man whom lawyers recognize as the greatest student of common law of all time."

Universities and law schools conferred on Pound some 20 honorary degrees—yet he never held an earned degree in law.

DIDN'T FINISH COURSE

He went to Harvard to study law in 1889, but he never finished the course.

Pound earned his A.B., master's and PhD degrees at the University of Nebraska — in botany.

Roscoe Pound was born in Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 27, 1870. His father was Stephen B. Pound, who eventually became a lawyer and a judge. His mother, Laura Biddlecome Pound, a native of New York, was Pound's first teacher.

Neither Roscoe nor his two sisters, Louise and Olivia, attended public elementary schools. Louise eventually became a professor at the University of Nebraska.

Pound entered the University of Nebraska just before his 14th birthday. He received his A.B. degree in 1888, when he was 18, and his M.A. degree, also in botany, a year later.

ENTERS LAW PRACTICE

He went to Harvard in the fall of 1889 and entered the law school. At the end of the year he returned to Lincoln, Neb., to enter law practice. He passed the bar without a law degree.

In 1910, Roscoe Pound was summoned to Harvard, to begin what has been described as one of the most illustrious law professorships of all time.

In 1916, he was made dean of the Harvard law school, a post he was to retain until his retirement in 1936. He agreed, however, to stay on as a professor.

Pound resigned in 1947 and at the age of 76 accepted an invitation from Chiang Kai-shek to codify Chinese laws.

While on that job he added Chinese to the list of languages he already knew. They included French, German, Italian, Spanish, Greek, Latin, Hebrew and Sanskrit.

CBC Urged To 'Dispose' Of That Film

OTTAWA (CP)—Marcel Lessard (SC — Lac-St. Jean) suggested in the Commons Tuesday that the CBC turn its controversial film, Mr. Pearson, over to Crown Assets Disposal Corporation.

He said the Crown agency might be able to sell the film and recover part of the $35,000 cost.

Douglas Fisher (NDP — Port Arthur) asked whether the CBC would reconsider its decision not to sell the film to the Independent Television Organization (ITO), which offered $30,000 for it.

A lot of people think the CBC is afraid to show the film or to sell it because to do so would show that it is well within the CBC's technical standards, Mr. Fisher said.

State Secretary Lamontagne said he would pass Mr. Fisher's question on to the CBC but said he was sure there would be no change in the decision. Rejection of the ITO offer had been ratified by the CBC board of directors.

'The Group' Banned

LODI (AP)—Mary McCarthy, author of the novel The Group, has been ordered to stand trial in Italy on charges that her book is obscene and ordered copies of an Italian edition confiscated.

8 CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to the many friends who gave their kindness, sympathy and beautiful floral offerings during the illness and death of our dear Mother and Grandmother, Mrs. L. C. Gregory. Special thanks to the Sister and nurses of Mount St. Mary, pallbearers, Rev. Allen and McCall Bros.—The family.

9 IN MEMORIAM

LEEMAN—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, James A. Leeman, July 2, 1958.

His smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall;
He had a kindly word for each;
And died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet him,
Some day, we know not when.
To clasp his hand in the better land,
Never to part again.
—Ever remembered by his loving wife, Lily, and daughter, Shirley.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Any youngster with his eyes on the stars would benefit by a new science program which debuted on Channel 2 Monday. The program, titled "Space: The New Ocean," smacking of thorough research, is presented so vividly and lucidly even a layman would have no trouble absorbing the facts.

Stephen

The show was the first in a half-hour taped series produced by WCAU-TV, Phidalephia, in co-operation with NASA and the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia.

Host Herb Clarke guided viewers through "The Two-Thousand-Year Countdown" which traced early contributions to space science.

Clarke used graphics and film, some of it made at the turn of the century, to point out development in the rocket field. This method allowed facts to be digested very easily.

Rockets were probably invented by the Chinese about the 13th century. Until the Second World War, the use of rockets, usually powered by black gunpowder, was limited by their poor accuracy and unpredictable behavior.

The British, however, did use rockets to some extent during the Napoleonic Wars and in the War of 1812 during the attack that led to the burning of the city of Washington, D.C. In 1909 the American Robert Goddard began the first detailed research on the rocket, and subsequently (1919) published the paper, A Method of Reaching Extreme Altitudes, considered a classic in the field.

Goddard's extensive work involved mainly the use of liquid propellants, generally the combination, frequently used in modern long-range rockets, of gasoline and liquid oxygen. He suggested, also, the use of the multiple-stage rocket.

The Germans, who made advances in the rocket field and used them to bomb London, based their development on Goddard's findings.

The above information was not written down as the program progressed. Rather, it was gleaned by listening to Clarke and watching the actual film which accompanied the narration.

It was that simple.

The program is of excellent quality and educational benefits derived should more than pay for the half-hour taken off from the sunshine out of doors.

The Ed Sullivan Show, normally live from New York, will be presented on tape during the summer, from Sunday, July 5, to Sunday, Sept. 20.

The 12-show summer schedule will consist of four new and eight rebroadcast programs. Three of the rebroadcasts will feature the appearances by the Beatles on July 12, Aug. 23 and Sept. 20.

The American touring version of the Moscow State Circus, widely acclaimed when it comprised the Sullivan show full hour last April 12, will also be one of the summer highlights.

Headliners

7:00: Channel 4: Explorations Northwest presents a documentary, "Salmon Troller." Viewers travel with the Wilhelm Jordan family on a trip on the fishing boat Nohusit off the coast of Southeast Alaska as the family looks for king salmon.

7:30: Channel 5: U.S. Route No. 1: American Profile documents the historic route that stretches from Maine to Florida. The trip includes visits to historic sites. Film clips show the late President John F. Kennedy officiating at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Channel 6: Jack Benny's guest is Carol Burnett, who does a dance to the David Rose tune, "The Stripper." In a sketch, Jack and Carol are transported to a steaming jungle—and into the roles of Tarzan and Jane.

8:30: Channels 2, 6: British comedian Eric Sykes is featured in this new series. Tonight, Eric invites his employer and his employer's wife to dinner, but an unexpected guest creates chaos.

10:30: Channel 4: "GOP: Platform Preview" studies the influence of previous GOP platforms of Republican presidents and examines the kind of platform the party may write for 1964. Also scheduled: interviews with some of the candidates for the Republican nomination.

Tonight's Movies

5:30: Channel 12: "Crossfire" (1947). An ex-GI is murdered. Robert Ryan, Robert Mitchum, Robert Young.

7:00: Channel 11: "The Purple Heart" (1944). After bombing Toyko, eight American flyers are captured by the Japanese. They are to be tried for murder, not as prisoners of war. Dana Andrews, Richard Conte, Farley Granger.

11:00: Channel 12: "His Butler's Sister" (1943). A girl with a good voice and ambitions goes to New York. Deanna Durbin.

11:30: Channel 4: "Damn Yankees" (1958). Joe Boyd, an avid baseball fan, would sell his soul to the Devil if the Yankees lost the pennant to the Washington Senators. Tab Hunter, Gwen Verdon, Ray Walston.

11:35: Channel 2: "The Dark Man" (English, 1951). When he realizes that an actress knows he has committed murder, a killer sets out to get rid of her. Maxwell Reed, Edward Underdown.

12:15: Channel 12: "Murder, My Sweet" (1945). A private detective becomes involved in a gang of blackmailers. Dick Powell.

WE PLANNED OUR HOME FOR YEAR-ROUND LIVING
WE PONDERED FOR HOURS OVER EVERY DETAIL—BELIEVE US, IT'S PLANNED.
Here are the features that will excite you as they have us:
—3 BEDROOMS, one of which we converted to den. SUMPTUOUS is the only way we can describe it.
—BRIGHT, EFFICIENT KITCHEN
—Easily arranged LARGE LIVING ROOM
—DINING ROOM: we feel it was meant for candlelight dining.
—2 BATHROOMS, no more need be said, one just isn't enough.
—KING-SIZED LOT, 90x142. We enjoyed barbecuing and built a patio to take advantage of our hobby.
—2-CAR DRIVE-IN GARAGE (there'll be no arguments here.)
Pamper yourself at a price you can afford.

PEOPLE SHOULD DECIDE

'Why Let Experts Pick Our Flag?'

OTTAWA (CP) — A former Conservative cabinet minister said Tuesday the selection of a new national flag should be a matter for all Canadians.

Alvin Hamilton (PC—Qu'Appelle) said the view of the ordinary Canadian on the Liberal government's maple leaf banner ought to carry as much weight as that of the flag experts, lawyers, members of Parliament and intellectuals.

This was one reason why the government should accept Opposition leader Diefenbaker's amendment to the flag resolution and hold a national plebiscite, the former agriculture minister said.

Mr. Hamilton said he personally supported the concept of Parliament making decisions, but there were some emotional and moral issues that should be decided by all the people.

One of these had been the conscription issue of 1942, which went to a plebiscite. Canada might still be torn by dissension had the then-Liberal government not given the minority a chance to express itself.

There was a large number of Canadians—though still a minority—who felt they were being trampled upon. They wanted the opportunity to be heard through a national vote on the flag.

These people and organizations—supporters of the Red Ensign—had pledged to support the majority opinion. Surely this was the way to preserve unity.

John R. Matheson (L—Leeds) said Canada would celebrate its 97th birthday without an official flag.

The country had stumbled into use of the Red Ensign, the sea flag of Britain's merchant navy. This should not be allowed to continue.

H. W. Herridge (NDP—Kootenay West) said his heritage included Norman, English and North American Indian and this allowed him to deal with the flag issue with complete objectivity. He felt there should be a plebiscite.

Prime Minister Pearson had committed a "series of unfortunate blunders" in dealing with the flag and if no plebiscite was held, another blunder would be added.

Mr. Herridge said the prime minister's initial announceme t of his flag intentions to a group of foreign-language newspaper editors was a blunder that did not generate the support expected. It was another blunder to make the flag issue a question of confidence in the government; in giving the flag l·gislation precedence over other bills, and issuing a stamp with a likeness of the flag design.

OPPOSES VOTE

Grant Deachman (L — Vancouver Quadra) opposed a plebiscite. "We were sent here to participate in the political leadership of Canada," and members would be shirking their responsibility if they referred the matter back to the people.

He said the situation in Western Canada, "3,000 miles from the bicultural front," was far different from the East. A decision in favor of the Red Ensign would mean asking 5,000,000 French-speaking Canadians to accept a flag that Wolfe flew on his ship.

A plebiscite would "be a beast let loose on the land to tear at the guts of national unity."

Nicholas Mandziuk (PC—Marquette) said there were some Canadians who would prefer rabbits or any other objects on the flag just to get rid of the Union Jack.

There were others who felt just as strongly for retention of the Union Jack. Therefore the government should order a plebiscite to search out the wishes of the country.

Cancerphobia Worse Than Cancer Itself?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A St. Louis surgeon who specializes in treating lung cancer testified Monday: "I do not believe that lung cancer is caused by cigarette smoking, and I do not believe smoking is reponsible for any shortening of life."

The surgeon, Dr. Thomas H. Burford, said "so long as the cause of cancer is unknown it would seem only reasonable that to raise an alarm about cigarette smoking is unwarranted."

WORSE DISEASE

"We are producing a disease worse than cancer—cancerphobia," Burford said in testimony before the House of Representatives commerce committee.

The committee is considering 10 bills proposing various ways for the federal government to curtail cigarette smoking.

The Federal Trade Commission, basing its decision on the report, issued a rule last week requiring cigarette labels and advertising next year to warn customers that smoking is a dangerous health hazard.

Testimony by Burford and two other witnesses, a statistician and a heart specialist, disputed the health service report.

The statistician, Alan S. Donnahoe, said the report was based on haphazard statistical methods.

INCONSISTENT

Donnahoe, executive vice-president and assistant publisher of the Richmond, Va., Times - Dispatch and News Leader, testified that the report's statistical data "are internally inconsistent, lead to unreasonable implications, and are contradictory not only with other research of a competent nature, but also with other facts known to be true."

Emergency Welfare Plan Aired

Welfare experts from across B.C. will be shown and discuss a provincial emergency welfare plan during a four-day course starting Monday at Keating Crossroad training college.

Civil defence planners have set up the program for emergency welfare centre managers, all but four of whom are volunteers among the 26 expected to take part.

It is the third such course offered, including emergency measures, organization, encouragement of planning, and operation of welfare centres in fire, flood, earthquake or war.

Function of the centres covers feeding, clothing, lodging, personal services, registration and inquiry for persons displaced by a disaster.

Provincial department of social welfare and municipal welfare administrations have been charged with responsibility for emergency aid, but the plan takes in volunteer help and the agencies of such organizations as the Red Cross, Salvation Army, Seventh-Day Adventists, Mormons and Mennonites.

Opening remarks were to be made by R. J. Burnham, assistant director of welfare for B.C., and welfare department personnel attending will include E. B. Davis, Victoria district office; Harold Luepplev, Victoria city office; and Trail representatives Mrs. Laura Culdicott and Brian Earthy.

Guest lecturers will include F. G. Hassard, superintendent of Brannen Lake Boys' School and provincial chief of emergency feeding; Mrs. C. M. Lauder, Victoria district welfare supervisor, and C. W. Gorby, co-ordinator of juvenile delinquency prevention and chief of registration and inquiry.

Natural History Outing Planned For Goldstream

Members of Victoria Natural History Society and friends will have the opportunity of seeing their junior group in the field Saturday morning.

After visiting the juniors in camp at Goldstream Park under Freeman (Skipper) King, the senior group will move to the picnic grounds for lunch, followed by a botany tour of the Goldstream area led by Miss M. C. Melburn.

The group will meet at Monterey parking lot, corner of Douglas and Hillside, at 10 a.m. Saturday for the trip to Goldstream.

There will be no field trips for the junior group during the next two weeks.

The Nature House at Francis Park will be open every day from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Poison Lock-Up Proposed for All New Houses

Municipal building bylaws should require every new home to include a special locker for poisons, it was suggested Tuesday.

This would encourage storing of weed killers and other poisonous chemicals in a locked cupboard out of reach of children, a spokesman for the poison control centre in Royal Jubilee Hospital said.

The centre treated 38 cases last month, including children and adults, involving poisoning from a variety of substances ranging from paint remover to pills.

Dirksen Backs Barry

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Barry Goldwater's name will be placed in nomination at the Republican national convention two weeks hence by Senator Sverett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Dirksen said Wednesday. The Illinois senator, Republican Senate leader, came out publicly for Goldwater at a caucus of the Illinois convention delegation in Chicago Tuesday.

Major Magic 'Cap Winner

VANCOUVER (CP)—Major Magic romped ahead of the field at Exhibition Park Wednesday to win $3,650 in the Dominion Day Handicap.

Jockey Dennis Terry rode the five-year-old chestnut to the win in 1:43 2-5.

The closest contender was Ky. Miracle and Blue Hawk was third. Major Magic was claimed recently by the Serpentine Stable for $15,000.

The Exacto in the fourth race paid $100.70 when Fleet Abdullah made it to the wire despite a strong drive by Billaroma, a 10-1 long shot.

Attendance was 10,635 and the wagers totalled a record $328,455.

Escapee Hunted

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police on the Lower Mainland were alerted Wednesday night to be on the lookout for James Badron, 34, who escaped from the Essondale mental hospital earlier in the day. Police said he could be considered dangerous if drinking.

ROME (Reuters)—Christian Democrat parliamentary leaders proposed to President Antonio Segni Wednesday that resigning Premier Aldo Moro be named to head another Italian centre-left coalition.

Gov't Can't Ignore Separatists—Mike

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons Tuesday the government should not ignore Quebec separatists, but instead gather information on Canada's economic ties to show how wrong the separatists are.

He said his office is planning a comprehensive study of the economic inter-relations binding Quebec and Canada's other regions.

"It (the study) will show, I hope and believe, how the parts of Canada need each other," the prime minister said at the opening of Tuesday's sitting.

In an apparent swipe at Opposition leader Diefenbaker, he said it would be dishonest and irresponsible for the government to close its eyes to "the noisy activities of those few who would divide us."

Mr. Diefenbaker charged during the weekend that the government was giving official recognition to a few separatists who did not deserve it and carrying out an "unconstitutional" study of Quebec secession.

The Conservative leader missed Tuesday's Commons sitting because of a heavy cold, but former Labor minister Michael Starr commented that Mr. Pearson was again forced to clarify one of his "careless statements."

Spokesmen for the three smaller parties endorsed the new study, but disagreed on what it should lead to.

NDP Leader Douglas said Canada is in great danger of becoming "regionalized." A strong central government was needed to apply national economic planning.

Creditiste Leader Real Caouette and Guy Marcoux (SC—Quebec-Montmorency) said it was rash for the government to predict already that Quebec independence would prove unfeasible economically.

53 FLOATS ENTERED

3,000 CHEER

Teamwork Puts Zip in Sidney Celebration

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Sidney residents proved Wednesday that community spirit is an ingredient of success.

They demonstrated this by staging one of the best Dominion Day festivals in years.

It ran smoothly from start to finish — evidence of teamwork between various village organizations, each responsible for some part of the all-day program.

The program started at 10:30 in the morning with a half-hour parade and ended with a dance with Fred Usher and his orchestra.

More than 3,000 residents and visitors lined the route of the parade led smartly by the Esquimalt Legion pipe band. There were a total of 53 entries including floats from Victoria and Central Saanich.

Sidney Kinsmen Air Cadets, the Lions Chinatown Drum and Bell Corps and Baton Corps, and the Moose Drill team from Duncan added to the pageantry.

A novel entry was a mounted knight of King Arthur's Round Table with his lady, followed by a pair of mounted Arabians. The knight and "his" lady were Dawn Helps, 16, of Deep Cove, Brenda Hague, 11, of MacDonald Park Road; the Arabians, Suzan Chranows, 13, Henry Street, and Terry Hague, 14.

The Army, Navy and Air Force Assoc. won first prize for the best all-around float bearing a huge life-like model of a fish. First prize for the best commercial float went to Slegg Brothers.

The procession moved down main street and then entered Memorial Park where Sidney queen Joan Gardner was crowned by Linda Douma, retiring queen and Miss PNE. At the queen's side were her two attendants, Princesses Ann Jeffrey and Dahpne Grieve.

The ceremony was attended by Miss Victoria Linda Gower, Donna Chidlow, Luxton queen, and Pixie Thorburn, Ganges, pixie queen of Salt Spring Island.

HIGHLAND FLING

Under the direction of Frank Minns, master of ceremonies, the program of entertainment got underway with a highland fling and sword dance performed by Wendy Allnutt, 10, and Sherry Grover, 10, the youngest members of the Esquimalt Legion Pipe Band. Piper was Pipe-Major A. C. Allnutt.

This was followed by an exhibition of trained dogs by Michael Williams, a performance by the Chinese Drum and Bell Corp and the New Westminster Drill Team, square dancing by the Junior Swinging Eights and band music.

At the same time there were plenty of side attractions for youngsters and grown-ups—pony rides, bingo games, shooting galleries, hot dog and hamburger stands and dancing for teen-agers.

A high point of the program was Fred Usher's variety show featuring songs and dances of the twenties, Irish and Hawaiian numbers and westerns.

But a good deal of credit for the show's success must go to Terry Cain, vocalist, and the song and dance group composed of Anne Appleby, Adele Nielson, Virginia Lefevre and Mavis Veness.

PLENTY OF ZIP

The girls put plenty of zip into their numbers and were warmly applauded.

The festival wound up with a dance in Sanscha Community Hall.

Alan Spooner, chairman of the Sanscha Hall committee, was here and there and everywhere attending to the various events.

He hopes the proceeds from the festival will clear a $10,000 bank loan raised to help pay for the construction of the $50,000 hall. Only $1,800 is now required to retire the debt.

The hall has become the centre of community life. It is used by service clubs, and for concerts, cultural, social and athletic activities.

The newly formed 20-member Sidney Boy's Club played its part in making the day a success. Members constructed the bleachers for the outdoor entertainment. Timber from the old Brentwood water tower was used for the project.

HIDDEN TREASURE SEARCH BEGINS

NANAIMO—A modern day gold rush is on just a few miles from here.

Scene of the "diggings" is Ruxton, a tiny island paradise in the DeCourcey group.

This new rush to find hidden treasure follows the subdividing of the island by a local real estate firm which plans to sell summer cabin lots.

Owners of the lots are now following up a rumor that a former owner of the island, a religious quack who duped his "disciples of $350,000 in gold coins and jewels, before fleeing to Switzerland in the 1920s, may have buried the cash there.

So far however, picks, shovels and mine detectors have failed to uncover anything.

Only registered lot owners with written permission from the real estate company are being allowed to hunt the loot.

Driver Charged In Road Death

CAMPBELL RIVER — The 22-year-old driver of a car which smashed into a telegraph pole on Tuesday, killing a passenger, has been charged with criminal negligence.

Jose Matias, of Campbell River, who was not injured, was charged late Tuesday morning and released on $4,000 bail.

Police said Douglas Anderson, who moved here recently from Courtenay, died after the car sheared off a power pole on the Island Highway, only 400 yards from the RCMP station.

Another passenger, Clarence MacAskill, of Willow Point was treated in hospital and allowed home. Howard Cameron, whose home address was not given, is in satisfactory condition in hospital.

No inquest will be held.

VICTIM BLAMED

LAKE COWICHAN—A coroner's jury on Tuesday blamed the victim after two trucks collided and caught fire on Youbou Road, June 20.

The jury inquiring into the death of Youbou logging contractor Harold Whittingham, 36, called the death accidental.

They said Mr. Whittingham's truck was on the wrong side of the road and cleared the other driver of any blame.

The second driver, A. G. Abrahams, of Howard Road, Duncan, testified that the pickup truck "came straight at me . . . I jammed on the brakes . . . there was an explosion."

A doctor said Mr. Whittingham died of heart and brain injuries.

Comet Visible To Sky Gazers With Glasses

A new comet will be faintly visible to Greater Victorians for the next few weeks.

The comet, named Tomita-Gerber-Honda after the three scientists who first sighted it, is expected to appear as a faint point of light low on the northwest horizon shortly after sunset.

It has very little tail and will appear much like a star.

Dominion Astrophysical Observatory says the comet is of the fifth magnitude of brightness, too faint to be visible without binoculars or telescope.

Tomita-Gerber-Honda was first sighted June 6 headed toward the sun in the early morning hours.

It now has passed the sun and is visible heading away in the evening between the constellations of Gemini and Cancer.

Sunday Sports Ban Proposed

NANAIMO—United Church women here have asked for a partial ban on Sunday sports for children.

The women feel the children are participating in organized sport instead of attending church.

Specifically, the group asked for passage of a bylaw in the city that would make it an offence to organize any sport or recreation for children at certain times on Sunday.

DUNCAN — A life saving course, sponsored by Cowichan district council, will start today at Cliffside preparatory school, Shawnigan Lake, for 20 boy scouts from Cowichan Valley.

In charge of the 10-day camp will be F. E. Blanc, of Duncan. Course instructor will be Rod Bailey, member of the Royal Life Saving Society, from Victoria.

★ ★ ★

CLAYOQUOT—Linda Craig, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Craig, of Tofino, won the Dominion Day Contest here.

She was crowned queen during the traditional holiday sports. Her younger sister Cindy was flower girl.

★ ★ ★

PORT ALBERNI — Alberni Valley Chamber of Commerce has supported the motion of parks committee chairman Jack Perry, that Recreation Minister Kiernan be invited to a chamber meeting to discuss China Creek Park.

Another motion asked the twin cities councils to urge an early start on the project.

MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., has exchanged land with the recreation department to provide for the 60-acre park, which may take up to five years to develop.

★ ★ ★

NANAIMO—A firm of planning consultants will begin surveying the harbor area between Departure Bay and the Indian Reserve later this summer.

The survey is a preface to an urban renewal project by Central Mortgage and Housing, and will be conducted by Miss Mary Rawson, of Vancouver.

The survey, approved by the civic advisory commission Tuesday, will indicate which areas have the most problems. The "study in depth" will include traffic patterns, economic situations and waterfront capabilities.

NANAIMO (CP)—Monday's council meeting began with a surprise for Mayor Pete Maffeo.

John McMinn announced he had carried Nanaimo's best wishes to the Lord Mayor of Cork on a recent trip to Ireland. The Lord Mayor gave Mr. McMinn a book from Cork City Hall which was presented to Mayor Maffeo.

The mayor balked, however, when asked to read the Irish inscription.

"Do you know what nationality you're talking to?" he said with a smile.

Family Crew Wins Honors In Long Race

A Royal Victoria Yacht Club crew of Mr. and Mrs. Daye Anstey, sons Chris and Dave and daughter Louise, Monday captured class honors in a long-distance race.

Their 26-foot Thunderbird sloop was also third across the finish line in a 20-mile race from Decatur Island in the San Juan group to Bellingham, signalling the start of the annual Pacific International Yachting Association regatta.

Also finishing well in the Thunderbird class was Ned Ashe, of RVYC, who skippered his craft to a third in his class and seventh in overall standings.

Eighty yachts took part in the race.

ARMED FORCES CURB COLLEGE FREE LOADERS

OTTAWA (CP) — Associate Defence Minister Cardin confirmed today that officer cadets whose university education is paid for by the defence department will be obliged to serve four years in the armed forces.

The obligatory period now is three years. The four-year term will become effective Sept. 1, Mr. Cardin told the Commons defence committee, and does not apply to applicants for the fall term.

Elgin Armstrong, deputy defence minister, said 2,396 officer cadets have graduated from university since 1952 and that 786 have remained in the forces beyond the compulsory three years.

Pension Action In Fall

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson will push ahead with the Canada pension plan in September, government sources said today.

Present plan of the government is to work out the final details in consultation with the provinces this summer, and have the new bill printed and ready for distribution in the House as soon as the MPs reassemble in the fall.

The assumption is of course that there will be a summer recess of parliament, The government does not expect that the Conservative opposition will insist that a summer recess take precedence over the approval of a new flag.

However, the government is equally confident that the members of parliament, after two more weeks of debate on the flag will be ready to pass the motion adopting the new maple leaf flag. This would mean a summer recess starting early in August.

WAITING

Meantime the government is waiting for Westminster to pass the constitutional amendment under which the proposed pension legislation can be widened to include provision for survivors' benefits. That is expected to be passed by the British House before the end of July.

The federal government will, in the next two or three weeks, carry on close consultations with the provinces.

A new white paper setting out details of the altered pension plan will be produced by next week. After the provinces have studied the white paper they will be in a position to confer with the federal officials.

Technical details remain to be worked out. But there is a spirit of co-operation among the provinces that indicates fairly rapid progress can be made.

PROTESTS

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) protested in the House Tuesday night that the pension plan was not included in the list the prime minister gave the House as urgent business to be dealt with before a summer recess. He said he regarded the delay as ominous.

However sources close to the prime minister said today that pending approval by Westminister of the constitutional amendment the Canadian government could not proceed with the pension legislation in the Canadian House.

There is a lot of work remain-

B.C. PETITION FOR ENSIGN REJECTED

OTTAWA (CP)—A 75-foot-long petition from more than 18,000 British Columbians seeking retention of the Red Ensign as Canada's flag was rejected today by Commons Speaker Alan Macnaughton.

The speaker ruled that the petition couldn't be received because: It wasn't addressed to Parliament; it wasn't in the proper form; it contained no prayer; it was not endorsed by an MP; it had no date on it.

H. W. Herridge (NDP—said he will bring in an amended petition.

TEACHERS FINED

Two Girls Spanked For Necking

TRURO, England (Reuters) A grammer school headmaster and a woman teacher were fined in court here today for spanking two 18-year-old girl pupils on their bare buttocks with a hair brush.

The girls had been caught "necking" with two boys in the mixed school.

The headmaster, 60-year-old John Lindsay Guise, was fined £50 and the teacher Mrs. Marjoe Smith, £30.

Both had pleaded guilty to a charge of assaulting the two girls behind the barred door of a study.

The court was told the headmaster had made a statement saying they had had a number of cases of girls becoming pregnant and he felt it his duty to do everything in his powgr to prevent promiscuous behavior.

U.S. President Signs Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress finally completed action on the U.S. civil rights bill as the House of Representatives passed the historic measure and sent it to the White House to be signed into law.

The house vote was 289 to 126.

House approval of the Senate-passed bill brought to an end a year-long legislative struggle conducted against a background of rising racial tensions.

President Johnson is expected to sign the bill quickly in hopes its bars against discrimination will help ease the pressure of civil rights demonstrations and counter-measures taken to oppose them.

QUICK TEST

Negro leaders have promised a quick test of some of the bill's provisions and some southern members of Congress have predicted the first results of its passage will be increased violence, not a lessening of it.

For more than a year the bill was the subject of intensive negotiating in both the House and Senate before it finally emerged as a compromise package supported by Democratic and Republican leaders in Congress.

The bill wraps into one big bundle a number of measures designed to help Negroes achieve equality in nearly all phases of national life into which the federal government can reach.

BARS DISCRIMINATION

It bars discrimination in employment practices — by both unions and employers — and in hotels, motels, restaurants, movies, and other places serving the public. It arms the government with powers to cut off federal funds for programs in which discrimination occurs.

It also grants new powers to the attorney-general to speed desegregation of public schools and other public facilities, such as parks, playgrounds and libraries.

It tightens provisions contained in the first civil rights law passed this century—in 1957 — aimed at protecting Negro voting rights.

It also creates a community relations service designed to provide machinery for voluntary settlement of racial disputes through mediation and conciliation.

And it extends for four years the life of the civil rights commission, with added powers.

All but one of the provisions —that dealing with discrimination in employment—take effect as soon as the bill is signed by the president. But many others have built-in delays intended to give state and local authorities a chance to settle complaints arising under the new law.

PROPOSAL for a Laotian summit conference in Jakarta, Indonesia, or Phnom Penh, Cambodia, was rejected today by the Laotian cabinet headed by Premier Souvanna Phouma, diplomatic sources report. Proposal was made by Pathet Lao. Souvanna wants meeting in New Delhi, Rangoon or Zurich.

Nuclear Force Scored by K

GENEVA (AP)—Russia told the United States today it must renounce the projected NATO multilateral nuclear force or face a breakdown of attempts to stop the spread of nuclear weapons.

Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin of Russia told the 17-nation disarmament conference: "The time of choice has come for the Western powers — the NATO members. If you really want a solution to the problem—and life imperatively demands its speediest solution—you must renounce the plan for the creation of the NATO multilateral nuclear force."

Zorin accused the United States of devising the nuclear-armed NATO surface fleet, manned by crews of mixed nationalities, as "a means of quenching the nuclear thirst of West German revenge seekers" who would be given the means "to pull the trigger of the U.S. strategic nuclear force."

Chief U.S. delegate William Foster said a spread of nuclear weapons in the world was the only alternative to the seaborne nuclear force.

Foster blamed the Soviet Union for using "groundless political arguments against the nuclear force in the pursuit of its longstanding aim to disrupt defensive arrangements of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

Foster told the meeting that the force of ships armed with nuclear weapons is being devised "to enable members of NATO to cope with a range of threats."

DEFENCE NEEDED

"We believe that so long as hundreds of Soviet nuclear-tipped rockets are arrayed against Europe, effective European participation in strategic deterrence should be provided.

"The arrangements contemplated for the multilateral force would not increase the number of independent nuclear weapon capabilities and are thus consistent with our objective of preventing the spread of such capabilities."

"Indeed, by offering an alternative to national nuclear weapons programs, the MFL (nuclear force) should increase incentives and improve chances for limitation of national weapons-producing centres."

The American delegate warned that with the development of nuclear technology the manufacture of nuclear weapons by countries not now possessing them was likely to become substantially easier.

FIRST SUCH CASE

Racialist Union Gets Decertified

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board found a union guilty of racial discrimination today and stripped it of its certification.

In a broad opinion with possible national impact, the majority decision said whenever a union causes discrimination based on race it has committed an unfair labor practice.

The action—the first of its kind by the NLRB—was against the independent Metal Workers Union which maintained seperate locals for white and Negro members at Hughes Tool Company in Houston, Tex.

The case involved the complaint of a member of the Negro local whose application for an apprenticeship available only to white members was rejected by the union.

The five - member board's decision to revoke certification on grounds of illegal coercion was unanimous, although two members gave more limited reasons for their finding.

GIVE MINORITY VIEW

The minority said Congress never intended the National Labor Relations Act to deal with racial discrimination except

Lightning Kills 5 In U.S. East

NEW YORK (AP)—Lightning struck two groups of people who had sought shelter from thunderstorms Wednesday in Rosendale, N.Y., and Corry, Pa., killing two in each group.

Eleven boys who had been swimming in a creek in Rosendale ran to a large tree and were dressing when the lightning struck.

Ronald Morelli, 16, and Gary Schmidt, 11, were killed. Three other boys were injured.

Near Corry, nine farm workers were standing in the doorway of a barn when lightning struck three of them.

Clayton Scouten, about 35, and Glenn Caldwell, 13, were killed.

In Lynn, Mass., Robert Brown, 30, of Lynn, was killed when struck by a bolt of lightning.

Ceylonese Take Over British Plantations

COLOMBO (AP) — Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike's government outlined to parliament today a socialist program to take over trade and give workers a voice in running Ceylon's British-owned tea and rubber plantations and other state enterprises.

Governor - General William Gopallawa read the throne speech written by the government. The speech said the coalition combining Mrs. Bandaranaike's freedom party and Marxist Sama Samaj (socialist equality) party charted the plan to associate the people with running the government.

The program, which recently won Sama Samaj support for Mrs. Bandaranaike's shaky regime, will set up workers' advisory committees in all public institutions including state corporations.

The committees will be elected by secret ballot and will advise the government on elimination of waste, inefficiency and corruption, the speech said.

Vigilance committees also will set up in all government, local government and semi-government institutions. People's committees will be established in all areas with powers to investigate corrupt trading practices.

"The planned program of socialist development in which every sector of the working people will be associated will be implemented speedily," the speech said.

Sea Limit Passes Committee

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons fisheries committee today approved the government's legislation to extend Canada's offshore fishing limit to 12 miles from three.

The bill now requires third reading in the Commons and royal assent to become law. External Affairs Minister Martin has indicated the government plans to proclaim the bill "within a week or so" after it receives royal assent.

The committee rejected a motion by Tom Barnett (NDP—Comox - Alberni) which would have had the committee recommend that the proposed bill be divided into two parts.

Mr. Barnett's motion would have had the committee approve in principle a 12-mile territorial sea, as determined by baselines 12 miles outside the inner limits of the present territorial sea, but recommend that the Commons not decide on the actual geographical co-ordinates which determine baselines before consulting with nations which claim historic fishing rights.

"The law which in effect establishes the official boundaries of our country should be set out in a separate act of Parliament," Mr. Barnett said.

'WOULD KILL BILL'

Ron Basford (L — Vancouver Burrard) said Mr. Barnett's motion would kill the bill.

"The sooner we can pass a bill of this sort, the quicker we can protect our fishing rights on the east and west coasts," he said.

Mr. Barnett's motion also called for the government to set a time limit not exceeding five years, after which nations claiming historic fishing rights would have such rights terminated.

Bary Mather (NDP — New Westminster) said the present bill would allow forever fishing rights of certain other nationals. This would be worse than no 12-mile zone at all.

The motion was supported only by the three NDP members present.

By TERRY IZZARD

Only four days to go before the judges choose the first week's winners in the Victoria Times amateur snapshot contest.

Tuesday is the day when the winners will be announced. A prize-winning snap will be in the paper each day, Wednesday to Saturday.

So far there has been a very good entry and standards are pretty high. So don't be too put out if none of your entries turn up a winner.

For this is only the first week and there are still five to go before the competition ends.

If you're unlucky first time try again. That way you could win a grand national prize of $1,000, or any of the sums making up the total prize money of $32,000.

As in previous years there is one section of the contest which is attracting the fewest entries—activities and sports.

Check your photo album. Look for those interesting pictures of school sports day. Or of some member of the family hard at work.

As long as the snap was taken after July 1 last year it could be a winner.

Leisure time activities are always interesting, providing you don not let the pictures themselves get too leisurely.

Try to inject some life into them.

Take your camera with you the next time you go bowling. Alleys are always well lighted and with a fast film in your camera you should have no trouble getting some candid snapshots of other members of your team.

And if you are an angler, a camera belongs among your fishing gear.

Salmon jumping, or a friend making a cast, even a frustrated attempt to start an outboard—all provide excellent subjects for catching on film.

So, regardless of whether your hobby is bird watching or bowling, always keep your camera handy.

All entries to be sent to the Snapshot Editor, Victoria Daily Times, Douglas Street.

16-YEAR-OLD FILES FOR OFFICE

Boy Puts Politicians in Dither

BOSTON (AP)—A 16-year-old boy's candidacy for the Massachusetts House of Representatives hinged today on the fate of a bill setting a minimum age of 21 for holding a seat in the legislature.

With the legislature in the final hours of its 1964 session there remained some doubt about what the leadership would do with the issue.

The problem arose when Leonard Tagg, a Weymouth High School student, discovered in the course of a history project that there is no apparent age qualification for holding a seat in the legislature.

Tagg circulated petitions and obtained more than enough signatures to place his name on the ballot for the November election as an independent candidate for a House seat from his home district.

When Tagg's candidacy came to the attention of State Secretary Kevin H. White, he proposed in a late-filed bill to set a minimum age.

But such a measure requires a four-fifths vote to be admitted for consideration.

The bill now is in the house rules committee with the legislative leadership still undecided as to whether to act on it on the last day of the session or let White challenge the legality of Tagg's candidacy in the courts.

Vancouver Island Revisited

FRIENDLY COVE—Here where it all began, where the two cultures met, a boat puts out from the beach below the forlorn straggle of houses. It is not a canoe, for those are gone, but a smart white man's toy with an outboard motor on its transom.

It veers in to Uchuck III's black side, neatly handled by a couple of Indian boys. Mrs. Johny Jackson descends a ladder lashed to the lower deck rail. One of Skipper Esson Young's crewmen hands her baggage down, then the plastic 16-footer churns in through the West Coast rain toward the crescent of houses and the three paintless totem poles which no museum has yet bagged.

Mrs. Johnny Williams of the Friendly Cove Nootkas, 65 and dark-haired still, has been strawberry-picking on Vashon Island near Seattle. A recruiting agent of sorts, she's come home to enlist other pickers from her band. If they wish, these casual traders between Canada and the Pacific Northwest states can work on successive berry and tree fruit harvests through summer into fall.

The boat runs its nose into shingle. Mrs. Wiliams' people stroll down to meet her. They all go up to the houses, and Friendly Cove—its name a mockery on such a day as this—is left to the seabirds and the endless rain.

★ ★ ★

They were a proud and hardy clan once, these Nootkas, great hunters of the sea otter and the whale. But the five-foot otter is gone with his rich pelt, and other craft hunt the few whales remaining, and of Mrs. Johnny Williams' people, only about 150 now live at Friendly Cove.

I found her sitting alone at a little table in Uchuck III's coffee shop as we plowed Muchalat Arm's rain-dimpled calm.

She wore a brown cardigan over a plain, dark dress ornamented only by the pendant that hung from her neck. She was sitting quiet in her corner, hands idle on the table top, looking straight ahead at nothing.

Things haven't gone very well for the Nootkas, she told me, since the cannery closed down and the able-bodied men turned from fish- to logging.

The young ones don't come home very often, especially now they can drink among white men, in the towns.

As for the older Nootkas, said Mrs. Williams in a voice flat and quiet as the grey day around us, they don't see much cash in a year.

The berrying brings in a little, and so does the occasional sale of baskets to tourists.

(We have some of these at home, bought when Nootka cannery along the sound ran full blast through summer into fall. The seiners and tall-poled trollers came and went; the big salmon gleamed in the conveyor, women wore head-kerchiefs colored gay as holiday balloons.)

"It was better," Johnny Williams' wife said, "when we had the cannery."

★ ★ ★

Back along Nootka Sound, the cannery buildings still stand. Grass grows from roofs of some. One day, I suppose, the wreckers will move in for what they can salvage, then the gutted ruin will make a bonfire. Faster transport, improved techniques and the falling-off of the China trade—these have combined to dopm the West Coast canneries.

As a girl, Mrs. Williams was fetched from Friendly Cove, her birthplace, to Alberni Residential School.

Her voice warms when she speaks of her strict Presbyterian mentors. "They did a lot for us. Those people really helped the Indians."

Mrs. Williams' husband, Johnny, is 68 years old and in shaky health. He claims to be American born, but has no recorded surname on record. Back when he was born, his wife explains, Indians were given but one name.

This lack of documented birth date and family name, she claims, is making it hard for Johnny to get his pension. He has been in and out of Alberni several times this last year, trying to get things straightened away.

Mrs. Williams' own Christian name is Ada. She and Johnny have two sons and three daughters.

"All married," says Ada, smiling for the first time in our conversation, "and all the boys are working in the woods."

We open Friendly Cove where almost 200 years ago, with song and oration, a gift of sea otter pelts and a scattering of swan's down, Maquinna of the Nootkas welcomed Captain Cook.

Two slattern trollers ride at anchor. The crackerbox houses watch from the foreshore. On the point, the cairn that marks the white man's first landing challenges a hostile sky.

SEVERE HEAD INJURIES were suffered by 11-year-old Buddy Lee of Port Alberni when car driven by his father crossed Island Highway just north of Nanaimo on Wednesday morning and slammed into ditch. Buddy was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital here to be near neurosurgeon, and is in fair condition. His father, Jack Lee, is in Nanaimo General Hospital with broken legs. It was the only severe accident to mar the Dominion Day holiday on the Island. A blowout is suspected to be the cause of the accident. (Agnes Flett photo.)

WATCH DROWNING

Girls Helpless To Save Youth

Two teenage girls watched helplessly Tuesday afternoon while 17-year-old Lynn Moen Wilkins drowned in Beaver Lake.

Known to be a weak swimmer, the boy went under in the north end of the lake and never came up.

His weed-draped body was found by skindivers about an hour after he first sank just before 4 p.m.

Wilkins, a Victoria High School student, of 1362 Pandora, was swimming at the lake with Paul Franklin, 2639 Mt. Stephen, said Saanich police.

Watching them from the shore were Lynn's girl friend, Darlene Lawrence, 2749 Shelbourne, and Anita Barnes, 1510 Holly.

OUT TOO FAR

"He wasn't a very strong swimmer. He'd never been out that far before," said Franklin.

The body was recovered about 100 feet from shore.

"I was about 20 feet ahead of him when he called out," said Franklin.

"I turned to help him, but he went down."

The youth said the muddy, weedy lake bottom had been stirred up and he couldn't see Wilkins in the water.

Darlene, a non-swimmer, saw Wilkins in trouble.

"Paul turned. He shouted to him to lie on his back, but he didn't.

'JUST WENT DOWN'

"He just went down. Paul was too tired to help."

The youths were swimming at a point only a few hundred yards from the main beach and concession, but at least half a mile away by the trail.

Navy skindivers were called in at 3.55, and had a fully-equipped team on the way within 20 minutes.

LYNN WILKINS
. . . body in weeds

They crossed the lake by raft from the main beach to save time, but heavy traffic delayed them half an hour before they got to the lake.

Participating in the search were CPO George Ackerman, PO Garneth Shaw, AB Lawrence Johnston, and AB David Arthurs.

Wilkins was born in Victoria.

Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Wilkins, brothers Lee and Lawrence, 16 and 14; and grandparents.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 3:30 in Sands Funeral Chapel at Colwood, followed by burial at Hatley Memorial Gardens.

Fourth Suspect Says 'Guilty'

$17 Million Construction In Six Months

Victoria maintained a record construction pace last month, surging ahead of Saanich, the usual leader, at the half-way point in 1964.

Victoria set a new six-months record at $7,955,629 while Saanich, at $6,928,245, was more than $1¼ million behind its own mark of last year.

Oak Bay also fell slightly behind at $1,139,198, but Esquimalt boomed past its 1963 pace with a $1,154,533 total to date.

Compilations of June statistics showed 543 permits were issued by City Hall with a value of $2,551,363 compared with 546 permits worth $2,377,075 a year ago.

LESS PROJECTS

This brought the Victoria totals to date this year to 3,141 permits worth $7,955,629 compared with 3,154 permits worth $7,697,365 for the comparable 1963 period.

Saanich issued 96 permits worth $1,236,425 last month including 48 dwellings valued at $692,100, down from the 111 permits worth $2,089,725 including 47 houses worth $757,800 a year ago.

This brought the half-year totals to 581 permits and $6,928,245 for 1964 compared with 632 and $8,253,772 in 1963.

Last month Oak Bay endorsed 32 permits worth $108,506 including two dwellings valued at $59,700 compared with 32 permits estimated at $194,462 including one house worth $16,000 in June last year.

The totals to date include 214 permits worth $1,139,198 compared with 212 worth $1,213,206 a year ago.

Esquimalt reported 19 permits valued at $130,550, including three houses worth $49,100, were issued last month. In June, 1963, it issued 13 permits worth $16,750 including one house at $13,500.

The six-months figures for this year are 95 permits worth $1,154,537. Last year they were 87 and $828,073.

FIRST WOMAN to be elected chairman of the Victoria Presbytery, United Church of Canada, Rev. E. Laura Butler takes office today. Born in Victoria, Miss Butler was educated in Seattle and graduated from the University of Washington with a BA degree. She has been assistant minister at Metropolitan United Church here since 1954.

Bank Holdup Case Nearing Completion

Philip Arthur Carew, fourth man to be arrested in connection with an April 24 Saanich bank robbery, today pleaded guilty.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded the 27-year-old beer parlor waiter one week for sentence.

Three other men have already been sentenced to 10 years each for their part in the $7,300 holdup.

Saanich police say the only thing left to clear up is the location of about a quarter of the loot, "and we're working on that now."

Detective Sergeant Robin Stewart today testified Carew was the bank robber who vaulted the counter and scooped up the cash.

Testimony at the earlier trial of Clarence William Kraft, mastermind of the robbery, was that Carew's .45 automatic was the only gun used in the holdup that would fire.

Two other men went into the Cook Street branch of the Bank of Montreal—Jean Robitaille and Roland Dagenais—but Kraft said he gave them ammunition that did not fit.

In the dock this morning, Carew was dressed in a neat, dark suit and spoke in a low voice.

Det.-Sgt. Stewart testified that Carew went from here to Vancouver, then to Toronto and then to London, Ontario, where he turned himself in to police June 26.

CAREW BROKE

Carew had no money on him, the sergeant said.

No evidence of a previous record was entered, and Carew was remanded to await a presentence report.

Saanich police have recovered about half the loot, and believe about a quarter of it is not recoverable.

Some of that portion was spent, and some of it was restolen in the United States from a girl to whom Dagenais had given some of his share.

Carew is the third man to turn himself in. Robitaille and Dagenais surrendered in Victoria and Detroit respectively, within a week of the robbery.

Kraft was arrested in Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Dagenais and Robitaille both pleaded guilty to armed robbery when arraigned here, and were sentenced to 10-year terms.

Kraft originally pleaded not guilty, then changed his plea after police found him bleeding in his cell, his wrist slashed with a razor blade he apparently had hidden in his clothing.

He too was sentenced to 10 years.

No Vacations From Learning At University

Nearly half the winter enrolment of University of Victoria is represented today on campus as 1964 summer session begins.

Most of the 890 men and women taking summer courses are teachers who are extending their qualifications or taking subjects that will put them in closer touch with modern developments in education.

But summer session director Prof. Hugh Farquhar said students taking summer session arts and sciences are on the increase.

This is due both to natural growth of the university enrolment (2,100 last winter) and a wider selection of arts offerings.

These include classical studies, economics, English, German, French, history, geography, psychology, maths, political science, biology, theatre, sociology, and philosophy.

A special non-credit course is offered for the first time in computers.

Last summer there were 866 persons enrolled, 515 women and 351 men.

'RAIN FOREST' FIRE HAZARD SEEN EBBING

Vancouver Island's alternate wet and hot weather is producing a lush "rain forest" growing year and reducing the summer fire hazard in evergreen woods.

B.C. Forest Service said today the fire situation is good, "better than last year," and woods are benefiting from heavy rains such as fell in most parts of the Island overnight.

Normal campfire permits are required, but there is no other restriction in effect.

Vancouver Island Witnesses Rally Opened Today

Jehovah's Witnesses of Victoria and Vancouver Island opened a four-day district assembly at Alberni today.

Clifford Roberts of Victoria delivered the opening address entitled "Love one another as I have loved you," and introduced the theme of the assembly, "Fruitage of the Spirit."

Gerald Brookall, supervisor of the Central Congregation, Victoria, is conducting an interview on "Bringing up children in Right Principles."

New ministers will be ordained at a baptismal service Friday morning.

On Sunday Reginald Arnott, district supervisor, will give a public address entitled "Peace among men of goodwill — Armageddon — Which?"

A peak attendance of between 1,500 and 1,800 is expected at the sessions, which are being held in Alberni Athletic Hall, Beaver Creek Road.

9-Year Record Spoiled When Safe Stolen

A man convicted of stealing a safe from Victoria Bottle Exchange, 587 Discovery Street, was sent to jail this week for 14 months.

Kenneth A. Fisher, 1021 Cook Street, was caught after a chase by police who saw him loitering at the Bottle Exchange. An accomplice escaped.

Magistrate William Ostler noted Fisher has an extensive police record but told him that it was "to your credit" that he had kept out of trouble for the past nine years.

TOPICS of the DAY

Victoria Kiwanian Jack Lee and his family, of 2298 Lansdowne, are among 16,000 delegates attending Kiwanis International 49th annunal convention in the Sports Arena, Los Angeles, this week.

During the program, ending on Friday, they will hear talks by many personalities in various fields, including Kiwanis International president, Charles A. Swain.

★ ★ ★

The Writers' Workshop of Saanich will hold a supper meeting at the home of Mrs. Lesley Allen, 2575 Vista Bay Road, Oak Bay, tonight at 6:30.

A man charged with impaired driving was told today "you are most fortunate not to be charged with something more severe."

John Hosker, a Work Point soldier, got a tongue-lashing, a $400 fine and licence suspension in city police court today from magistrate William Ostler.

Court was told Hosker was chased along Government Street early Wednesday morning at speeds up to 70 miles an hour, and on Douglas his speed got as high as 80.

He was weaving from lane to lane all the while, the court was told.

A small earthquake about 200 miles northwest of Victoria was recorded at 10.04 a.m. PDT today by the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory.

The location was off the northwest part of Vancouver Island. An observatory spokesman said the disturbance registered at 5½ to 6 on the Richter Scale.

Winners in the Dominion Day duplicate bridge tournament, conducted by the Victoria unit, American Contract Bridge League, in the Moose Hall, were:

1. Mary Morgan and James Mitchel. 2 and 3 (tied) Yvonne Cummings and Joyce Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller. 4. Mr. and Mrs. Phil Matson. 5 and 6 (tied) Mr. and Mrs. Richard Morriss, Cyril Hunter and Darragh Hunter.

An 18-year-old youth who beat and kicked two newspaper boys because they wouldn't give him a cigarette will be sentenced for the assault next week.

Douglas Forscutt, 971 Dunn, will be in custody until then. He pleaded guilty in city court Tuesday. He attacked his victims in a newspaper shack at Hillside and Fifth shortly before 6 on the morning of June 20.

Detective Walter Calwell said Forscutt asked the two newspaper boys for a cigarette. He punched one of them with his fist and then kicked him above the eye. He threw the other one against a wall and tried to kick him.

Newly-elected directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce were announced today by election chairman, Gordon Holms. Directors to take office in September for a two-year term are Douglas R. Abbott, Richard T. Batey, Newton D. Cameron, Pat Frumento, J. C. Melville, Capt. R. G. Newell, Leslie Parkinson, Cliff Rutledge and R. R. Wilde.

Cheque Charge Brings Penalty Of Four Months

A man who cashed a worthless cheque while he was waiting trial for a similar offence was sentenced to four months imprisonment Tuesday.

Surgit Singh, 884 Colville Road, earlier told Magistrate William Ostler he cashed the worthless cheques to feed his wife and family. But the magistrate said a pre-sentence report showed the accused was not living with his wife.

The magistrate said that despite the lack of any record of previous offences he could not accept the probation officer's recommendation that Singh be given a suspended sentence.

Victoria Athlete's Body Found Off Japanese Beach

The body of Victoria sports star Robert G. McKee has been recovered from the waters of Akiya Beach near Tokyo, Japan.

McKee, a UBC graduate, drowned last Saturday while on a swimming party with some friends from Tokyo. He was visiting there in course of a tour of Asian countries. He was on his way home to Victoria after three years in England.

A private funeral in Tokyo, followed by cremation, has been arranged through the Canadian embassy. The ashes will be sent home to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Gerald McKee, 954 Terrace.

A memorial service for him will be held in the sanctuary of the Metropolitan United Church here at 2:30 p.m. Friday.

FIRST TENANTS at the new science building at the University of Victoria were eggs, not eggheads. High on the scaffolding on the east side of the building a robin built her nest, laid her eggs and hatched her young. Piece by piece the scaffolding came down but it was not until the whole family had taken to the air that Dave Shoemaker, of 280 East Burnside, removed the last three-foot-long supporting beam. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Ask The Times

Q. Could you please give me the names of the four highest exporting countries in the world? Also the financial values of same. G.L.

A. They are United States 20,584 million (which includes foreign military aid); Federal Republic of Germany, $11,418 million; Britain, $10,349 million and France, $6,684 million.

Canada ranks fifth with $5,837,000,000 in exports during 1962. The Soviet Union and China are not listed as they do not report their trade regularly.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

FRIDAY MEETINGS

Victoria Lions Club: Empress Hotel, noon; Allan MacLean, Victoria Visitors' Bureau, "Travel in Canada."

SUPPORT ASKED FOR MUNGO FUND

Public donations to a $5,500 fund to finance a memorial plaque to the great Indian carver and artist Mungo Martin were invited today.

Colin Graham, curator of the Victoria Art Gallery heads up a committee in charge of the fund.

The fund was announced at a ceremony Monday when a Canada Council medal was presented to Martin's daughter, Mrs. Helen Hunt.

The Times and Colonist have agreed with the committee to accept donations and will acknowledge them in the paper as they are made.

They should be sent to "Mungo Martin Memorial Fund," care of the paper.

To launch the fund each of the Victoria newspapers has donated $100.

The seven-foot copper plaque will be erected in Victoria, probably in Thunderbird Park, when it is completed by Vancouver artist Bill Reid, another famous Totem carver.

Donations of any size will be accepted and it is hoped that many children will participate as they did in buying shares for the "World's Tallest Totem Pole" carved by Chief Martin for Beacon Hill Park. The plaque is a community tribute to the famous carver and preserver of Indian lore.

The campaign will continue through the summer until the total required for the project is reached. Receipts will be mailed.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Any youngster with his eyes on the stars would benefit by a new science program which debuted on Channel 2 Monday. The program, titled "Space: The New Ocean," smacking of thorough research, is presented so vividly and lucidly even a layman would have no trouble absorbing the facts.

Stephen

The show was the first in a half-hour taped series produced by WCAU-TV, Phidalephia, in co-operation with NASA and the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia.

Host Herb Clarke guided viewers through "The Two-Thousand-Year Countdown" which traced early contributions to space science.

Clarke used graphics and film, some of it made at the turn of the century, to point out development in the rocket field. This method allowed facts to be digested very easily.

Rockets were probably invented by the Chinese about the 13th century. Until the Second World War, the use of rockets, usually powered by black gunpowder, was limited by their poor accuracy and unpredictable behavior.

The British, however, did use rockets to some extent during the Napoleonic Wars and in the War of 1812 during the attack that led to the burning of the city of Washington, D.C. In 1909 the American Robert Goddard began the first detailed research on the rocket, and subsequently (1919) published the paper, A Method of Reaching Extreme Altitudes, considered a classic in the field.

Goddard's extensive work involved mainly the use of liquid propellants, generally the combination, frequently used in modern long-range rockets, of gasoline and liquid oxygen. He suggested, also, the use of the multiple-stage rocket.

The Germans, who made advances in the rocket field and used them to bomb London, based their development on Goddard's findings.

The above information was not written down as the program progressed. Rather, it was gleaned by listening to Clarke and watching the actual film which accompanied the narration.

It was that simple.

The program is of excellent quality and educational benefits derived should more than pay for the half-hour taken off from the sunshine out of doors.

The Ed Sullivan Show, normally live from New York, will be presented on tape during the summer, from Sunday, July 5, to Sunday, Sept. 20.

The 12-show summer schedule will consist of four new and eight rebroadcast programs. Three of the rebroadcasts will feature the appearances by the Beatles on July 12, Aug. 23 and Sept. 20.

The American touring version of the Moscow State Circus, widely acclaimed when it comprised the Sullivan show full hour last April 12, will also be one of the summer highlights.

Headliners

7:00: Channel 4: Explorations Northwest presents a documentary, "Salmon Troller." Viewers travel with the Wilhelm Jordan family on a trip on the fishing boat Nohusit off the coast of Southeast Alaska as the family looks for king salmon.

7:30: Channel 5: U.S. Route No. 1: American Profile documents the historic route that stretches from Maine to Florida. The trip includes visits to historic sites. Film clips show the late President John F. Kennedy officiating at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Channel 6: Jack Benny's guest is Carol Burnett, who does a dance to the David Rose tune, "The Stripper." In a sketch, Jack and Carol are transported to a steaming jungle—and into the roles of Tarzan and Jane.

8:30: Channels 2, 6: British comedian Eric Sykes is featured in this new series. Tonight, Eric invites his employer and his employer's wife to dinner, but an unexpected guest creates chaos.

10:30: Channel 4: "GOP: Platform Preview" studies the influence of previous GOP platforms of Republican presidents and examines the kind of platform the party may write for 1964. Also scheduled: interviews with some of the candidates for the Republican nomination.

Tonight's Movies

5:30: Channel 12: "Crossfire" (1947). An ex-GI is murdered. Robert Ryan, Robert Mitchum, Robert Young.

7:00: Channel 11: "The Purple Heart" (1944). After bombing Toyko, eight American flyers are captured by the Japanese. They are to be tried for murder, not as prisoners of war. Dana Andrews, Richard Conte, Rarley Granger.

11:00: Channel 12: "His Butler's Sister" (1943). A girl with a good voice and ambitions goes to New York. Deanna Durbin.

11:30: Channel 4: "Damn Yankees" (1958). Joe Boyd, an avid baseball fan, would sell his soul to the Devil if the Yankees lost the pennant to the Washington Senators. Tab Hunter, Gwen Verdon, Ray Walston.

11:35: Channel 2: "The Dark Man" (English! 1951). When he realizes that an actress knows he has committed murder, a killer sets out to get rid of her. Maxwell Reed, Edward Underdown.

12:15: Channel 12: "Murder, My Sweet" (1945). A private detective becomes involved in a gang of blackmailers. Dick Powell.

WE PLANNED OUR HOME FOR YEAR-ROUND LIVING
WE PONDERED FOR HOURS OVER EVERY DETAIL—BELIEVE US, IT'S PLANNED.
Here are the features that will excite you as they have us:
—3 BEDROOMS, one of which we converted to den. SUMPTUOUS is the only way we can describe it.
—BRIGHT, EFFICIENT KITCHEN.
—Easily arranged LARGE LIVING ROOM.
—DINING ROOM, we feel it was meant for candlelight dining.
—2 BATHROOMS, no more need be said, one just isn't enough.
—KING-SIZED LOT, 90x142. We enjoyed barbecuing and built a patio to take advantage of our hobby.
—2-CAR DRIVE-IN GARAGE (there'll be no arguments here.)
Pamper yourself at a price you can afford.

B.C. PETITION FOR ENSIGN REJECTED

OTTAWA (CP)—A 75-foot-long petition from more than 18,000 British Columbians seeking retention of the Red Ensign as Canada's flag was rejected today by Commons Speaker Alan Macnaughton.

The speaker ruled that the petition couldn't be received because: It wasn't addressed to Parliament; it wasn't in the proper form; it contained no prayer; it was not endorsed by an MP; it had no date on it.

H. W. Herridge (NDP—said he will bring in an amended petition.

TEACHERS FINED

Two Girls Spanked For Necking

TRURO, England (Reuters) A grammer school headmaster and a woman teacher were fined in court here today for spanking two 18-year-old girl pupils on their bare buttocks with a hair brush.

The girls had been caught "necking" with two boys in the mixed school.

The headmaster, 60-year-old John Lindsay Guise, was fined £50 and the teacher Mrs. Marjoe Smith, £30.

Both had pleaded guilty to a charge of assaulting the two girls behind the barred door of a study.

The court was told the headmaster had made a statement saying they had had a number of cases of girls becoming pregnant and he felt it his duty to do everything in his power to prevent promiscuous behavior.

SIDNEY CELEBRATED DOMINION DAY with a big parade, the only major observance of the holiday to be held in Greater Victoria area. Three-year-old Charlayne Joe, 1921 Quadra, strutted the entire mile-long parade route with the Majorettes of the Victoria Chinatown Lions' Drum and Bell Corps and loved it. She was awarded a special prize as Best Individual in the parade. (See Page 40 for more parade coverage.) (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Quick Test Set By Negro Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress finally completed action on the U.S. civil rights bill as the House of Representatives passed the historic measure and sent it to the White House to be signed into law.

The house vote was 289 to 126.

House approval of the Senate-passed bill brought to an end a year-long legislative struggle conducted against a background of rising racial tensions.

President Johnson is expected to sign the bill tonight in hopes its bars against discrimination will help ease the pressure of civil rights demonstrations and counter-measures taken to oppose them.

Negro leaders have promised a quick test of some of the bill's provisions and some southern members of Congress have predicted the first results of its passage will be increased violence, not a lessening of it.

For more than a year the bill was the subject of intensive negotiating in both the House and Senate before it finally emerged as a compromise package supported by Democratic and Republican leaders in Congress.

The bill wraps into one big bundle a number of measures designed to help Negroes achieve equality in nearly all phases of national life into which the federal government can reach.

BARS DISCRIMINATION

It bars discrimination in employment practices — by both unions and employers — and in hotels, motels, restaurants, movies, and other places serving the public. It arms the government with powers to cut off federal funds for programs in which discrimination occurs.

It also grants new powers to the attorney-general to speed desegregation of public schools and other public facilities, such as parks, playgrounds and libraries.

It tightens provisions contained in the first civil rights law passed this century—in 1957 — aimed at protecting Negro voting rights.

It also creates a community relations service designed to provide machinery for voluntary settlement of racial disputes through mediation and conciliation.

And it extends for four years the life of the civil rights commission, with added powers.

All but one of the provisions —that dealing with discrimination in employment—take effect as soon as the bill is signed by the president. But many others have built-in delays intended to give state and local authorities a chance to settle complaints arising under the new law.

Sea Limit Passes Committee

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons fisheries committee today approved the government's legislation to extend Canada's offshore fishing limit to 12 miles from three.

The bill now requires third reading in the Commons and royal assent to become law. External Affairs Minister Martin has indicated the government plans to proclaim the bill "within a week or so" after it receives royal assent.

The committee rejected a motion by Tom Barnett (NDP—Comox - Alberni) which would have had the committee recommend that the proposed bill be divided into two parts.

Mr. Barnett's motion would have had the committee approve in principle a 12-mile territorial sea, as determined by baselines 12 miles outside the inner limits of the present territorial sea, but recommend that the Commons not decide on the actual geographical co-ordinates which determine baselines before consulting with nations which claim historic fishing rights.

"The law which in effect establishes the official boundaries of our country should be set out in a separate act of Parliament," Mr. Barnett said.

'WOULD KILL BILL'

Ron Basford (L — Vancouver Burrard) said Mr. Barnett's motion would kill the bill.

"The sooner we can pass a bill of this sort, the quicker we can protect our fishing rights on the east and west coasts," he said.

Mr. Barnett's motion also called for the government to set a time limit not exceeding five years, after which nations claiming historic fishing rights would have such rights terminated.

Barry Mather (NDP — New Westminster) said the present bill would allow forever fishing rights of certain other nationals. This would be worse than no 12-mile zone at all.

The motion was supported only by the three NDP members present.

Pension Action In Fall

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson will push ahead with the Canda pension plan in September, government sources said today.

Present plan of the government is to work out the final details in consultation with the province this summer, and have the new bill printed and ready for distribution in the House a soon as the MPs reassemble in the fall.

The asumption is of course that there will be a summer recess of parliament, The government does not expect that the Conservative opposition will insist that a summer recess tale precedence over the approval of a new flag.

However, the government is equally confident that the members of parliament, after two more weeks of debate on the flag will be ready to pass the motion adopting the new maple leaf flag. This would mean a summer recess starting early in August.

WAITING

Meantime, the government is waiting for Westminster to pass the constitutional amendment under which the proposed pension legislation can be widened to include provision for survivors' benefits. That is expected to be passed by the British House before the end of July.

The federal government will, in the next two or three weeks, carry on close consultations with the provinces.

A new white paper setting out details of the altered pension plan will be produced by next week. After the provinces have studied the white paper they will be in a position to confer with the federal officials.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) protested in the House Tuesday night that the pension plan was not included in the list the prime minister gave the House as urgent business to be dealt with before a summer recess. He said he regarded the delay as ominous.

However sources close to the prime minister said today that pending approval by Westminister of the constitutional amendment the Canadian government could not proceed with the pension legislation in the Canadian House.

There is a lot of work remain-

Three Trainmen Killed In Collision

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Three crew members were killed and another trainman was injured today when a Pennsylvania Railroad freight train rammed the rear of a halted freight in the city's west end. The three dead men were trapped in the cab of the second train's engine.

Chambermaid Wounded In Shooting

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 40-year-old woman, victim of a shooting incident at a downtown hotel today, was reported in fair condition in hospital with bullet wounds in her abdomen.

Police identified her as Mrs. Rose Carlson, a chambermaid at the hotel. A man, held by a passing motorist until police arrived, was taken into custody. Police also have a .22-calibre rifle.

Cabinet Rejects Killer's Appeal

OTTAWA (UPI)—The cabinet decided today that new evidence presented on behalf of convicted "Santa Claus" killer Georges Marcotte did "not warrant" changing the death sentence imposed against him.

The decision meant Marcotte will be hanged shortly after midnight for the machine gun slaying of two police officers during a December, 1962, bank robbery at St. Laurent, Que., a suburb of Montreal.

Turk-Cypriot Accuses UN of Bias

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—A Turkish-Cypriot leader lodged charges today of bias on the part of some senior United Nations officials in Cyprus.

Dr. Fazil Kuchuk declared also that UN Secretary-General U Thant's latest report on Cyprus was biased and written "either in full ignorance or in total disregard" of information supplied by the Turkish-Cypriot side.

Russia Scores Nuclear Force

GENEVA (AP)—Russia told the United States today it must renounce the projected NATO multilateral nuclear force or face a breakdown of attempts to stop the spread of nuclear weapons.

Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin of Russia told the 17-nation disarmament conference: "The time of choice has come for the Western powers — the NATO members. If you really want a solution to the problem—and life imperatively demands its speediest solution—you must renounce the plan for the creation of the NATO multilateral nuclear force."

Zorin accused the United States of devising the nuclear-armed NATO surface fleet, manned by crews of mixed nationalities, as "a means of quenching the nuclear thirst of West German revenge seekers" who would be given the means "to pull the trigger of the U.S. strategic nuclear force."

Chief U.S. delegate William Foster said a spread of nuclear weapons in the world was the only alternative to the seaborne nuclear force.

Foster blamed the Soviet Union for using "groundless political arguments against the nuclear force in the pursuit of its longstanding aim to disrupt defensive arrangements of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

Foster told the meeting that the force of ships armed with nuclear weapons is being devised "to enable members of NATO to cope with a range of threats."

DEFENCE NEEDED

"We believe that so long as hundreds of Soviet nuclear-tipped rockets are arrayed against Europe, effective European participation in strategic deterrence should be provided.

Lightning Kills 5 In U.S. East

NEW YORK (AP)—Lightning struck two groups of people who had sought shelter from thunderstorms Wednesday in Rosendale, N.Y., and Corry, Pa., killing two in each group.

Eleven boys who had been swimming in a creek in Rosendale ran to a large tree and were dressing when the lightning struck.

Ronald Morelli, 16, and Gary Schmidt, 11, were killed. Three other boys were injured.

Near Corry, nine farm workers were standing in the doorway of a barn when lightning struck three of them.

Clayton Scouten, about 35, and Glenn Caldwell, 13, were killed.

In Lynn, Mass., Robert Brown, 30, of Lynn, was killed when struck by a bolt of lightning.

Racialist Union Gets Decertified

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board found a union guilty of racial discrimination today and stripped it of its certification.

In a broad opinion with possible national impact, the majority decision said whenever a union causes discrimination based on race it has committed an unfair labor practice.

The action—the first of its kind by the NLRB—was against the independent Metal Workers Union which maintained seperate locals for white and Negro members at Hughes Tool Company in Houston, Tex.

The case involved the complaint of a member of the Negro local whose application for an apprenticeship available only to white members was rejected by the union.

The five - member board's decision to revoke certification on grounds of illegal coercion was unanimous, although two members gave more limited reasons for their finding.

TIMES' BIG CONTEST

By TERRY IZZARD

Only four days to go before the judges choose the first week's winners in the Victoria Times amateur snapshot contest.

Tuesday is the day when the winners will be announced. A prize-winning snap will be in the paper each day, Wednesday to Saturday.

So far there has been a very good entry and standards are pretty high. So don't be too put out if none of your entries turn up a winner.

For this is only the first week and there are still five to go before the competition ends.

If you're unlucky first time try again. That way you could win a grand national prize of $1,000, or any of the sums making up the total prize money of $32,000.

As in previous years there is one section of the contest which is attracting the fewest entries—activities and sports.

Check your photo album. Look for those interesting pictures of school sports day. Or of some member of the family hard at work.

As long as the snap was taken after July 1 last year it could be a winner.

Leisure time activities are always interesting, providing you do not let the pictures themselves get too leisurely.

Try to inject some life into them.

Take your camera with you the next time you go bowling. Alleys are always well lighted and with a fast film in your camera you should have no trouble getting some candid snapshots of other members of your team.

And if you are an angler, a camera belongs among your fishing gear.

Salmon jumping, or a friend making a cast, even a frustrated attempt to start an outboard — all provide excellent subjects for catching on film.

So, regardless of whether your hobby is bird watching or bowling, always keep your camera handy.

All entries to be sent to the Snapshot Editor, Victoria Daily Times, Douglas Street.

Teamwork Puts Zip in Sidney Celebration

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Sidney residents proved Wednesday that community spirit is an ingredient of success.

They demonstrated this by staging one of the best Dominion Day festivals in years.

It ran smoothly from start to finish — evidence of teamwork between various village organizations, each responsible for some part of the all-day program.

The program started at 10:30 in the morning with a half-hour parade and ended with a dance with Fred Usher and his orchestra.

More than 3,000 residents and visitors lined the route of the parade led smartly by the Esquimalt Legion pipe band. There were a total of 53 entries including floats from Victoria and Central Saanich.

Sidney Kinsmen Air Cadets, the Lions Chinatown Drum and Bell Corps and Baton Corps, and the Moose Drill team from Duncan added to the pageantry.

A novel entry was a mounted knight of King Arthur's Round Table with his lady, followed by a pair of mounted Arabians. The knight and "his" lady were Dawn Helps, 16, of Deep Cove, Brenda Hague, 11, of MacDonald Park Road; the Arabians, Suzan Chranows, 13, Henry Street, and Terry Hague, 14.

The Army, Navy and Air Force Assoc. won first prize for the best all-around float bearing a huge life-like model of a fish. First prize for the best commercial float went to Slegg Brothers.

The procession moved down main street and then entered Memorial Park where Sidney queen Joan Gardner was crowned by Linda Douma, retiring queen and Miss PNE. At the queen's side were her two attendants, Princesses Ann Jeffrey and Dahpne Grieve.

The ceremony was attended by Miss Victoria Linda Gower, Donna Chidlow, Luxton queen, and Pixie Thorburn, Ganges, pixie queen of Salt Spring Island.

HIGHLAND FLING

Under the direction of Frank Minns, master of ceremonies, the program of entertainment got underway with a highland fling and sword dance performed by Wendy Allnutt, 10, and Sherry Grover, 10, the youngest members of the Esquimalt Legion Pipe Band. Piper was Pipe-Major A. C. Allnutt.

This was followed by an exhibition of trained dogs by Michael Williams, a performance by the Chinese Drum and Bell Corp and the New Westminster Drill Team, square dancing by the Junior Swinging Eights and band music.

At the same time there were plenty of side attractions for youngsters and grown-ups—pony rides, bingo games, shooting galleries, hot dog and hamburger stands and dancing for teen-agers.

A high point of the program was Fred Usher's variety show featuring songs and dances of the twenties, Irish and Hawaiian numbers and westerns.

But a good deal of credit for the show's success must go to Terry Cain, vocalist, and the song and dance group composed of Anne Appleby, Adele Nielson, Virginia Lefevre and Mavis Veress.

PLENTY OF ZIP

The girls put plenty of zip into their numbers and were warmly applauded.

The festival wound up with a dance in Sanscha Community Hall.

Alan Spooner, chairman of the Sanscha Hall committee, was here and there and everywhere attending to the various events.

He hopes the proceeds from the festival will clear a $10,000 bank loan raised to help pay for the construction of the $50,000 hall. Only $1,800 is now required to retire the debt.

The hall has become the centre of community life. It is used by service clubs, and for concerts, cultural, social and athletic activities.

The newly formed 20-member Sidney Boy's Club played its part in making the day a success. Members constructed the bleachers for the outdoor entertainment. Timber from the old Brentwood water tower was used for the project.

HIGHLIGHT of the celebrations was the queen crowning ceremony performed by retiring queen, and Miss PNE, Linda Duoma (left). She crowned her attractive successor, Joan Gardner.

"EH, GADS, SIR, it's a knight in shining armor," these two youngsters seem to be thinking. But beneath the armor is 16-year-old Dawn Helps, smiling as she takes fair maid, Brenda Hague, to the joustings.

FLOWER BEDECKED entry from Victoria drew crowd applause in Sidney's big parade. There were 53 entries led by bands.

HIDDEN TREASURE SEARCH BEGINS

NANAIMO—A modern day gold rush is on just a few miles from here.

Scene of the "diggings" is Ruxton, a tiny island paradise in the DeCourcey group.

This new rush to find hidden treasure follows the subdividing of the island by a local real estate firm which plans to sell summer cabin lots.

Owners of the lots are now following up a rumor that a former owner of the island, a religious quack who duped his "disciples of $350,000 in gold coins and jewels, before fleeing to Switzerland in the 1920s, may have buried the cash there.

So far however, picks, shovels and mine detectors have failed to uncover anything.

Only registered lot owners with written permission from the real estate company are being allowed to hunt the loot.

Driver Charged In Road Death

CAMPBELL RIVER — The 22-year-old driver of a car which smashed into a telegraph pole on Tuesday, killing a passenger, has been charged with criminal negligence.

Jose Matias, of Campbell River, who was not injured, was charged late Tuesday morning and released on $4,000 bail.

Police said Douglas Anderson, who moved here recently from Courtenay, died after the car sheared off a power pole on the Island Highway, only 400 yards from the RCMP station.

Another passenger, Clarence MacAskill, of Willow Point was treated in hospital and allowed home. Howard Cameron, whose home address was not given, is in satisfactory condition in hospital.

No inquest will be held.

VICTIM BLAMED

LAKE COWICHAN—A coroner's jury on Tuesday blamed the victim after two trucks collided and caught fire on Youbou Road, June 20.

The jury inquiring into the death of Youbou logging contractor Harold Whittingham, 36, called the death accidental.

They said Mr. Whittingham's truck was on the wrong side of the road and cleared the other driver of any blame.

The second driver, A. G. Abrahams, of Howard Road, Duncan, testified that the pickup truck "came straight at me . . . I jammed on the brakes . . . there was an explosion."

A doctor said Mr. Whittingham died of heart and brain injuries.

Comet Visible To Sky Gazers With Glasses

A new comet will be faintly visible to Greater Victorians for the next few weeks.

The comet, named Tomita-Gerber-Honda after the three scientists who first sighted it, is expected to appear as a faint point of light low on the northwest horizon shortly after sunset.

It has very little tail and will appear much like a star.

Dominion Astrophysical Observatory says the comet is of the fifth magnitude of brightness, too faint to be visible without binoculars or telescope.

Tomita-Gerber-Honda was first sighted June 6 headed toward the sun in the early morning hours.

It now has passed the sun and is visible heading away in the evening between the constellations of Gemini and Cancer.

ARMED FORCES CURB COLLEGE FREE LOADERS

OTTAWA (CP) — Associate Defence Minister Cardin confirmed today that officer cadets whose university education is paid for by the defence department will be obliged to serve four years in the armed forces.

The obligatory period now is three years. The four-year term will become effective Sept. 1, Mr. Cardin told the Commons defence committee, and does not apply to applicants for the fall term.

Elgin Armstrong, deputy defence minister, said 2,396 officer cadets have graduated from university since 1952 and that 786 have remained in the forces beyond the compulsory three years.

. . . RUSSIA

"The arrangements contemplated for the multilateral force would not increase the number of independent nuclear weapon capabilities and are thus consistent with our objective of preventing the spread of such capabilities."

"Indeed, by offering an alternative to national nuclear weapons programs, the MFL (nuclear force) should increase incentives and improve chances for limitation of national weapons-producing centres."

The American delegate warned that with the development of nuclear technology the manufacture of nuclear weapons by countries not now possessing them was likely to become substantially easier.
